Yalta Documents Stir Storm

Disclosures Displeasing To Churchill

"Mistakes" In U. S. Records Reported By Prime Minister

LONDON, March 17 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill complained today there are serious mistakes in the U.S. record of the 1945 Yalta conference. He disclosed Britain may publish her own version of the history-shaping meeting.

Churchill told the House of Commons Britain disapproved of the U.S. plan to publish its account of the top secret Yalta talks, but gave in reluctantly under Washington's prodding.

The United States was warned that if early publication of such records "became established practice it might hamper the free exchange of views at future conferences," he said.

"American Version"

The 80-year-old prime minister is the sole survivor of the Yalta Big Three. The others were President Roosevelt and Premier Stalin. The conference agreed on the controversial bargain that brought Russia into the war against Japan.

Churchill spoke in reply to questions in the House. He said the documents released in Washington are "the American version and in no sense an agreed official record of the powers concerned."

"I have not myself expressed any opinion on the subject," he said. "I have not seen anything but the extracts which now appear in the press. But even these disclose some serious mistakes."

Polish Remark Not Denied

The prime minister volunteered no information on what errors he might have detected.

But he was asked to comment on a remark about the Poles in which he supposedly said: "In Parliament, I must be able to say that the (Polish) elections will be held in a fair way. I do not care much about the Poles myself."

Churchill did not deny making the remark, but said:

"I do not at all accept the suggestion which was made, and I think my record throughout the war and at this period will show with what deep sympathy I viewed the fate of the people of Poland and the conditions under which they were treated after the Yalta conference was over."

Reds Say Talk Bid Retracted By Churchill

Blame For Failure To Hold Parley Put On Prime Minister

MOSCOW, March 17 (AP)—Russia charged tonight that British Prime Minister Churchill retracted without grounds his proposal of last July for a secret, top-level meeting with Soviet leaders to ease world tensions.

The Soviet Foreign Ministry published correspondence between Churchill and Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov in which Churchill suggested the two-power meeting—without the United States—for the purpose of "finding a wise way for living side by side."

Churchill told the House of Commons in London last Monday of his offer to hold an informal meeting, without an agenda, with Georgi Malenkov, then Soviet premier, and Molotov.

Eisenhower Kept Informed

Churchill said he kept President Eisenhower informed of his moves, but the idea of personal talks with the Kremlin leaders was dropped because Russia proposed a big all-European conference on European security which apparently would be held at the same time.

The Foreign Ministry's preamble to the correspondence said Churchill, in telling of his proposal, made public the contents of the letters without giving the "exact text."

"It is evident from the contents of these letters," said the Soviet statement, "that, having made on 4th July last year the proposal regarding a meeting between the heads of governments of Britain and the U.S.S.R., Churchill himself retracted the proposal made by him in his letter of 27th July."

Red Plan Not "Substitute"

The Foreign Ministry said this was done under the "pretext" that the Russian proposal of July 24 for the European security conference was a "substitute" for the two-power meeting at top level envisaged by Churchill.

The statement said the "groundlessness" of Churchill's position was seen in that he rejected a meeting between the two heads of governments, and then also refused to take part in the all-European meeting.

Spectators Riot, Pelt Loop Prexy At Hockey Game

MONTREAL, March 17 (AP) — Thousands of spectators—furious over the suspension of their idol, Maurice (The Rocket) Richard—took over the Forum tonight in a frenzied demonstration against National Hockey League President Clarence Campbell. Campbell was assaulted and pelted with fruit and overshoes before the game between Montreal and Detroit was forfeited to the Red Wings.

At first it was reported that police fired over the heads of the berserk crowd, but this was denied by Police Chief T. O. Leggett.

Campbell arrived midway in the first period of the game and was greeted by catcalls and assorted epithets by the crowd, which was getting out of hand even then.

C. Of C. Reports Business Good, Outlook Bright

WASHINGTON, March 17 (AP) — Business is expanding healthily and is in no peril of a stock market crash despite "some loose talk" growing out of the Senate's stock exchange investigation, the United States Chamber of Commerce said today.

The Chamber released a sheaf of statistics to prove that the recovery from the 1953-4 recession has "actually gained momentum" in the first three months of this year.

This coincided with issuance of the official, and similarly favorably, March report to Congress of the President's Council of Economic Advisers headed by Dr. Arthur F. Burns.

Factory Employment Up

This report, the monthly "Economic Indicators," pictured rising factory employment last month, record-breaking weekly earnings and a longer work week for factory employes, and continuance of an unbroken six-month rise of industrial production.

The Council said building contracts in February were 29 per cent above a year ago. New construction outlays continued to set monthly records, it noted, and businessmen have reported plans for a slight increase this year in plant and equipment outlays.

Steel Production At 90%

The Chamber's statement, coupled with its regularly quarterly report on the economic outlook, said:

"There is nothing in the economy to foreshadow a collapse of the stock market."

The Chamber noted that steel production is now at 90 per cent of capacity "as against 70 per cent a year ago," electric power output is 10 billion kilowatt hours a week as against 8½ billion last March; and total industrial output "has reached the highest point since October, 1953."

"Actual shortages are occurring," the report added, "including some types of steel, aluminum, some other metals, and certain types of milling wheat."

Angry Dulles Won't Say Why Papers Bared

Ike Mum But Aide Says Decision Made By State Department

WASHINGTON, March 17 (AP) — Controversy over the Yalta papers spilled over into the international scene today. Prime Minister Churchill reported "serious mistakes" in the American account and said publication of a British version should be considered.

A dispatch from Moscow said the Russians were keeping mum for the present but that it is entirely possible they will issue their own version later.

President Eisenhower was staying strictly out of it. Press secretary James C. Hagerty said at the White House that the decision to release the long-secret papers relating to the Churchill-Roosevelt-Stalin meeting at Yalta in 1945 was made "entirely within the State Department."

Secretary of State Dulles, who released the papers last night, refused angrily today to say why he did so at this time.

Rayburn's Reaction

House Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex) told reporters he had read that the papers were released as a result of requests by two Republican senators. He added, in his peppery way:

"If it helps them (the Republicans), then it will be a glorious thing. If I've ever seen a party in my life that needed help, it's the Republican party."

Republicans have been contending for years that President Roosevelt made undue concessions at Yalta to bring the Russians into the war against Japan. Sen. Bender (R-Ohio) said today the newly disclosed papers bear out this argument.

"I'm glad they're out and the public has a chance to have the representations that were made about them confirmed."

"Nothing New," Bender Says

Bender also said the papers contained "nothing new." Sen. McClellan (D-Ark) said they "appear generally to confirm what was previously reported."

In fact, all the agreements which are covered in the papers have been published for years, although not all of them immediately after the 1945 Big Three meeting. What was new was the account, as given by American participants, of the talks and maneuvers that led up to the agreements.

One of these disclosures was that British Foreign Secretary Eden told U. S. Secretary of State Stettinius even before Yalta, according to minutes of a diplomatic meeting on a British warship, that there was no need to "offer a high price" for Russia's participation in the war against Japan.

U. N. Truce Chief Blames Israelis For Gaza Clash

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., March 17 (AP)—The U. N. Palestine truce chief made it plain today that he held Israel responsible for the bloody Gaza clash in which 38 Egyptians and eight Israelis died.

He said, however, that Egyptian infiltration across the border has undoubtedly been and continues to be one of the main causes of tension in that area.

These were the major points made by Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns, head of the U. N. truce supervision organization, in his report to the Security Council. He reminded the Council he had presented to the Egyptian and Israeli governments, a series of recommendations Feb. 1 to lessen tension, but that they had not yet been accepted.

Burns spoke after Soviet Delegate Arkady A. Sobolev told the Council Israel was to blame for the Feb. 28 incident at Gaza. Sobolev, speaking for the first time in the current debate, said the Middle East tension was caused by the efforts of "certain states" to form military blocs. Presumably he was referring to the Western powers.

The only other speaker at the short Council session was the Egyptian representative, Ambassador Omar Loutfi, who assailed Israel as an aggressor and called on the U. N. to punish those guilty for the slayings.

Loutfi invoked a little-used chapter of the U. N. charter under which the Security Council may impose sanctions—economic, political or military. He did not spell out, however, what action he wanted the Council to take.

Burns' report reviewed the findings of the Israeli-Egyptian Mixed Armistice Commission, which condemned Israel and found that Israel had violated the armistice agreement of 1949 by the Gaza attack.

Hungary Ends War

Officers Tell Peress Probe Their Protests Of Promotion In Vain

WASHINGTON, March 17 (AP) — Two Army officers testified today they protested in vain against the promotion of Irving Peress to major at a time when he was under suspicion as a security risk.

The Senate Investigations subcommittee also received evidence that another officer expressed concern about the Peress case because "everybody has been jumping up and down trying to get him off active duty, and instead we promote him."

Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) unearthed the Peress case when he was chairman of the subcommittee last year. The group is now making a fresh study of it to find out why Peress was promoted from captain and given an honorable discharge after he refused to tell the Army whether he was a Communist. Peress is now practicing dentistry in New York.

Lt. Col. Chester T. Brown, an Intelligence officer at Camp Kilmer, N.J., where Peress served, testified that he had attached to Peress' request for promotion a statement that the dentist was "suspected of disaffection" and a recommendation that the request be disapproved.

"It seemed to me impossible that the promotion would go through," Brown said.

But it did—in what Sen. Mundt (R-SD) calls "an unconscionable state of confusion" in the Pentagon.

Maj. Vernon McKenzie of the surgeon general's office here also told the senators that he protested against the promotion of Peress and some 700 other officers without consideration of their security status. He said he predicted at the time it would cause "some embarrassment to the Army."

Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) noted that McKenzie had flagged the situation five days before Peress' promotion became final Nov. 3, 1953. He said the Army could have stopped the promotion if it wanted to.

Carey Says GOP Policy To Blame For Market Rise

WASHINGTON, March 17 (AP) — Fiery labor leader James B. Carey today lambasted what he called the "trickle down" policies of the Eisenhower administration. He said they had contributed to the sharp rise in the stock market since mid-1953.

Another witness before the Senate Banking Committee, New York investment banker Ferdinand Eberstadt, said he saw no need for drastic legislation to deal with "undesirable practices and tendencies" in the securities markets.

For the most part, Eberstadt said, these practices can be dealt with by vigorous enforcement of anti-fraud regulations.

Carey, secretary-treasurer of the CIO, took the Eisenhower administration to task in general, but reserved his harshest words for Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey and Secretary of Commerce Weeks.

He hammered at the theme that they favor benefits to the wealthy on the theory that benefits will "trickle down" to the less well-to-do. He declared the administration has "conspired to boost stock" prices to undue levels by policies which, he declared, spell more profits for big corporations and more money for big investors.

When he finished his formal statement, Sen. Capehart (R-Ind) told Carey he agreed with some of the things he said, disagreed with others, and would have liked his testimony better "if you had been a little less partisan."

Youth Convicted Of Girl's Slaying

DEDHAM, Mass., March 17 (AP)—A Superior Court jury today convicted Peter Makarewicz Jr. 16, of first degree murder in the Nov. 4 strangle slaying of Geraldine Annese, 15-year-old neighborhood girl. The jury recommended life imprisonment.

The all-male jury deliberated almost three hours.

The youthful defendant showed no emotion as the verdict and the automatic life sentence was announced. The life sentence is mandatory under Massachusetts law when the jury recommends it.

After standing stolidly for nearly a minute, Makarewicz slowly sank to his seat in the prisoner's cage and broke into tears.

Mamie Spends First Night In New Home

WASHINGTON, March 17 (AP) — Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower drove to Gettysburg, Pa. today for her first overnight stay in the new country home which she and the President have built on the edge of the Civil War battlefield.

It was Mrs. Eisenhower's first venture outdoors since she came down with the flu early last week. She was accompanied to the 189 acre farm at Gettysburg by her mother, Mrs. John S. Doud.

The President plans to join the women at the farm tomorrow afternoon and will remain there overnight with them. Eisenhower will return to Washington Saturday to attend the annual dinner of the White House News Photographers Assn. that night.

115,000 Irishmen Parade, Defy Cold

NEW YORK, March 17 (AP)—More than 115,000 Irishmen—both real and honorary—marched up green-striped Fifth Avenue today in the St. Patrick's Day parade.

It was mighty cold, but the bare-legged drum majorettes looked fetching.

Somewhat over a half million spectators watched the marchers, many from the warmth of office windows.

The sun was shining in a blue sky, but the temperature was below freezing when the parade started. A 40-mile-an-hour wind chilled many to the bone.

The drums rolled and the cymbals clanged. Bagpipes skirled and droned. Green dazzled the eye.

Chicago Bank Robbed Of $50,000 By Quartet

CHICAGO, March 17 (AP) — Four robbers held up the River Forest State Bank in suburban River Forest today and escaped with an estimated $50,000 in cash.

Carl Christoffersen, head cashier, told police the armed robbers one with a machine gun, looted the cages of two tellers. He said they made no attempt to enter the bank's vault containing additional cash.

Administration Seeks 2 Billion For Aid To Asia

WASHINGTON, March 17 (AP) — The Eisenhower administration disclosed today it will ask Congress for $2,140,500,000 to step up military and economic aid to non-Communist countries in Asia.

This sum, two-thirds of all new foreign aid requests, would go to 15 countries that stretch in a great arc from Afghanistan to Japan. The aim is to at least match the pace of industrialization in Red China and other Communist-ruled areas.

In formally unveiling this plan, foreign aid director Harold E. Stassen said it could promote "a very significant" 30 per cent increase of productive wealth in these non-Communist areas in the next eight years.

If Congress appropriates the money, he said, it would be possible to develop increased regional cooperation and trade, boosting their productive capacity to 85-90 billion dollars a year, compared with the present rate of 65-70 billion.

Stassen told a news conference that President Eisenhower and his Cabinet have approved the new, bigger Asian aid plan. A formal request for the funds will be submitted in mid-April, he said, as part of the administration's program of $3,530,000,000 in new appropriations for weapons and economic aid to some 40-odd countries.

Dulles In Ottawa For Three-Day Visit

OTTAWA, March 17 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles arrived today for a three-day official visit to Canada. He led off with a discussion of the international situation at a closed meeting of the Foreign Affairs Committee of the House of Commons.

Informants said Dulles, in a 25-minute address and a question and answer period, made it clear the United States would consider any attack on Canada an attack on the United States.

Weather Again Delays Major Atomic Blast

LAS VEGAS, Nev., March 17 (AP) —An unfavorable weather forecast for tomorrow forced the Atomic Energy Commission to postpone again the sixth test in the 1955 Nevada series.

The predicted wind patterns were unacceptable for the 500-foot tower shot. It is expected to be one of the major blasts of the series.

Nixon Believes No Deliberate Attempt Made At Yalta Sellout

CHICAGO, March 17 (AP) — Vice President Nixon said today in answer to a question that he does not believe there was "any deliberate attempt to sell us out to the Communists" at Yalta.

Nixon, made the statement during a question and answer period following a speech before the Executive Club of Chicago.

An unidentified man asked from the floor, "What about Yalta?"

Nixon said:

"Of course it will take weeks and months of intelligent study to determine a correct analysis of the effects of the pact and comment intelligibly on it.

"But I don't believe there actually was any deliberate attempt to sell us out to the Communists."

Nixon said the "reason concessions were made was that the leaders of the free world simply didn't know what the Communist animal was like."

"Another reason," he added, "was that we badly needed Soviet support at the time for the conquest of Japan."

The vice president told the large gathering of Chicago businessmen that there was no doubt, however, that the concessions to the Russians were detrimental to the United States and the free world.

And, he added, the fall of China to the Reds could be laid directly to the door of the pact.

"Of course it naturally followed," he said, "that we had a war in Korea and one in Indochina."

"All we can say now," he added, "is that it was a fault not of the heart but of the head."

Nixon was accompanied to Chicago by Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill) who said he is investigating reports that the Yalta papers were released by the State Department after being heavily censored.

Dirksen said it "has been reported there are some interesting footnotes on the agreements still buried in State Department archives." He did not elaborate.

Attempt On German Anti-Red's Life Fails

BERLIN, March 17 (AP) — An attempt to kill one of West Berlin's leading anti-Communists with a bomb sent through the mails fell short of the target today but wounded two Germans.

The crude weapon exploded as it was being opened in the personnel offices of the giant Siemens-Schuckert electric plant.

The package, about four inches by six, was addressed to Carl-Hubert Schwennicke, 48, a director of Siemens, and also chairman of the Free Democratic party.

Bundesrat Votes Today On Pacts

BONN, Germany, March 17 (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer said tonight "the fate of Germany and of Europe" hinges on the Paris treaties for West German rearmament. He appealed for ratification by the Bundesrat, the upper house, which is voting on the issue tomorrow.

The Bundestag, the lower house, approved the treaties last month.

Adenauer called on the Bundesrat "not to create difficulties toward the goal of a German contribution to the joint defense of the free world." In a statement released by his Christian Democrat party, he said:

"This applies especially to the agreement on the Saar, which can only be considered as indissolubly linked to the other treaties."

The agreement to Europeanize the German-speaking Saar, a border state linked economically to France, is unpopular in Parliament. It split Adenauer's coalition in the Bundestag.

Titled Ex-Handyman Finds Farming "Sore On Legs"

Sir Adrian, once of Upper Fairmount, Md., inherited a 3,400-acre estate, one of Scotland's oldest baronetcies, and its deserted Mochrum mansion 18 months ago.

Since then, he has been tinkering around the place, making improvements and living as a subtenant in the house of one of his own estate tenants.

But this week he took over one of the 15 farms on the property after it was vacated and began tending the cattle, sheep, pigs and hens himself.

"It's grand, but sore on the legs especially when your sheep dog is as old as mine," the 61-year-old 12th baronet told newsmen.

Now that he has really settled down, Sir Adrian is full of plans to restore the family estate. Recently, he won court permission to sell some of the entailed property if he wants to.

"I may in time sell one or two of the farms," he said, "not because I want the money for myself but I would like to spend something on the others by way of improvements and repairs."

Presidential Action To End Four-Day L&N Strike Urged

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 17 (AP)—The wheels were started turning today on a move for presidential action to end the four-day old Louisville & Nashville Railroad strike.

Gov. Lawrence Wetherby, declaring "a real emergency now exists," wired President Eisenhower a plea to reconvene his Railway Emergency Board to study the stalemate. He asked governors of 12 other states in the strike zone to make similar appeals.

In Washington, James C. Hagerty, presidential press secretary, indicated there probably would be no White House intervention so long as the National Railway Mediation Board is trying to settle the strike. He said, however, the White House is watching the situation carefully.

Earlier, L&N President John E. Tilford said the railroad would abide by the recommendations if the board is called together.

A union spokesman took the other view, however, declaring, "There is no point dragging the strike question out any more."

Despite the strike of 25,000 clerks, carmen, roundhouse employes, telegraphers and other non-operating craftsmen and sympathy from some members of crafts that run the trains, the L&N said it still had many freight trains moving.

A spokesman said:

"We are doing a little better job in serving local industries today. Otherwise, the freight picture is about the same—about 50 to 75 per cent of the trains are running."

All passenger schedules across the L&N's 4,737-mile system, including the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis Railway and the Clinchfield Railroad, were canceled effective today.

U. N. Truce Chief Blames Israelis For Gaza Clash

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., March 17 (AP)—The U. N. Palestine truce chief made it plain today that he held Israel responsible for the bloody Gaza clash in which 38 Egyptians and eight Israelis died.

He said, however, that Egyptian infiltration across the border has undoubtedly been and continues to be one of the main causes of tension in that area.

These were the major points made by Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns, head of the U. N. truce supervision organization, in his report to the Security Council. He reminded the Council he had presented to the Egyptian and Israeli governments, a series of recommendations Feb. 1 to lessen tension, but that they had not yet been accepted.

Burns spoke after Soviet Delegate Arkady A. Sobolev told the Council Israel was to blame for the Feb. 28 incident at Gaza. Sobolev, speaking for the first time in the current debate, said the Middle East tension was caused by the efforts of "certain states" to form military blocs. Presumably he was referring to the Western powers.

The only other speaker at the short Council session was the Egyptian representative, Ambassador Omar Loutfi, who assailed Israel as an aggressor and called on the U. N. to punish those guilty for the slayings.

Loutfi invoked a little-used chapter of the U. N. charter under which the Security Council may impose sanctions—economic, political or military. He did not spell out, however, what action he wanted the Council to take.

Burns' report reviewed the findings of the Israeli-Egyptian Mixed Armistice Commission, which condemned Israel and found that Israel had violated the armistice agreement of 1949 by the Gaza attack.

Hungary Ends War

WASHINGTON, March 17 (AP)—Two Army officers testified today they protested in vain against the promotion of Irving Peress to major at a time when he was under suspicion as a security risk.

The Senate Investigations subcommittee also received evidence that another officer expressed concern about the Peress case because "everybody has been jumping up and down trying to get him off active duty, and instead we promote him."

Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) unearthed the Peress case when he was chairman of the subcommittee last year. The group is now making a fresh study of it to find out why Peress was promoted from captain and given an honorable discharge after he refused to tell the Army whether he was a Communist. Peress is now practicing dentistry in New York.

Lt. Col. Chester T. Brown, an Intelligence officer at Camp Kilmer, N.J., where Peress served, testified that he had attached to Peress' request for promotion a statement that the dentist was "suspected of disaffection" and a recommendation that the request be disapproved.

"It seemed to me impossible that the promotion would go through," Brown said.

But it did—in what Sen. Mundt (R-SD) calls "an unconscionable state of confusion" in the Pentagon.

Maj. Vernon McKenzie of the surgeon general's office here also told the senators that he protested against the promotion of Peress and some 700 other officers without consideration of their security status. He said he predicted at the time it would cause "some embarrassment to the Army."

Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) noted that McKenzie had flagged the situation five days before Peress' promotion became final Nov. 3, 1953. He said the Army could have stopped the promotion if it wanted to.

Carey Says GOP Policy To Blame For Market Rise

WASHINGTON, March 17 (AP)—Fiery labor leader James B. Carey today lambasted what he called the "trickle down" policies of the Eisenhower administration. He said they had contributed to the sharp rise in the stock market since mid-1953.

Another witness before the Senate Banking Committee, New York investment banker Ferdinand Eberstadt, said he saw no need for drastic legislation to deal with "undesirable practices and tendencies" in the securities markets.

For the most part, Eberstadt said, these practices can be dealt with by vigorous enforcement of anti-fraud regulations.

Carey, secretary-treasurer of the CIO, took the Eisenhower administration to task in general, but reserved his harshest words for Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey and Secretary of Commerce Weeks.

He hammered at the theme that they favor benefits to the wealthy on the theory that benefits will "trickle down" to the less well-to-do. He declared the administration has "conspired to boost stock" prices to undue levels by policies which, he declared, spell more profits for big corporations and more money for big investors.

When he finished his formal statement, Sen. Capehart (R-Ind) told Carey he agreed with some of the things he said, disagreed with others, and would have liked his testimony better "if you had been a little less partisan."

Youth Convicted Of Girl's Slaying

DEDHAM, Mass., March 17 (AP)—A Superior Court jury today convicted Peter Makarewicz Jr. 16, of first degree murder in the Nov. 4 strangle slaying of Geraldine Annese, 15-year-old neighborhood girl. The jury recommended life imprisonment.

The all-male jury deliberated almost three hours.

The youthful defendant showed no emotion as the verdict and the automatic life sentence was announced. The life sentence is mandatory under Massachusetts law when the jury recommends it.

115,000 Irishmen Parade, Defy Cold

NEW YORK, March 17 (AP)—More than 115,000 Irishmen—both real and honorary—marched up green-striped Fifth Avenue today in the St. Patrick's Day parade.

It was mighty cold, but the bare-legged drum majorettes looked fetching.

Somewhat over a half million spectators watched the marchers, many from the warmth of office windows.

The sun was shining in a blue sky, but the temperature was below freezing when the parade started. A 40-mile-an-hour wind chilled many to the bone.

The drums rolled and the cymbals clanged. Bagpipes skirled and droned. Green dazzled the eye.

Chicago Bank Robbed Of $50,000 By Quartet

CHICAGO, March 17 (AP)—Four robbers held up the River Forest State Bank in suburban River Forest today and escaped with an estimated $50,000 in cash.

Carl Christoffersen, head cashier, told police the armed robbers one with a machine gun, looted the cages of two tellers. He said they made no attempt to enter the bank's vault containing additional cash.

Administration Seeks 2 Billion For Aid To Asia

WASHINGTON, March 17 (AP)—The Eisenhower administration disclosed today it will ask Congress for $2,140,500,000 to step up military and economic aid to non-Communist countries in Asia.

This sum, two-thirds of all new foreign aid requests, would go to 15 countries that stretch in a great arc from Afghanistan to Japan. The aim is to at least match the pace of industrialization in Red China and other Communist-ruled areas.

In formally unveiling this plan, foreign aid director Harold E. Stassen said it could promote "a very significant" 30 per cent increase of productive wealth in these non-Communist areas in the next eight years.

If Congress appropriates the money, he said, it would be possible to develop increased regional cooperation and trade, boosting their productive capacity to 85-90 billion dollars a year, compared with the present rate of 65-70 billion.

Stassen told a news conference that President Eisenhower and his Cabinet have approved the new, bigger Asian aid plan. A formal request for the funds will be submitted in mid-April, he said, as part of the administration's program of $3,530,000,000 in new appropriations for weapons and economic aid to some 40-odd countries.

Dulles In Ottawa For Three-Day Visit

OTTAWA, March 17 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles arrived today for a three-day official visit to Canada. He led off with a discussion of the international situation at a closed meeting of the Foreign Affairs Committee of the House of Commons.

Informants said Dulles, in a 25-minute address and a question and answer period, made it clear the United States would consider any attack on Canada an attack on the United States.

Weather Again Delays Major Atomic Blast

LAS VEGAS, Nev., March 17 (AP)—An unfavorable weather forecast for tomorrow forced the Atomic Energy Commission to postpone again the sixth test in the 1955 Nevada series.

The predicted wind patterns were unacceptable for the 500-foot tower shot. It is expected to be one of the major blasts of the series.

Bundesrat Votes Today On Pacts

BONN, Germany, March 17 (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer said tonight "the fate of Germany and of Europe" hinges on the Paris treaties for West German rearmament. He appealed for ratification by the Bundesrat, the upper house, which is voting on the issue tomorrow.

The Bundestag, the lower house, approved the treaties last month.

Adenauer called on the Bundesrat "not to create difficulties toward the goal of a German contribution to the joint defense of the free world." In a statement released by his Christian Democrat party, he said:

"This applies especially to the agreement on the Saar, which can only be considered as indissolubly linked to the other treaties."

The agreement to Europeanize the German-speaking Saar, a border state linked economically to France, is unpopular in Parliament. It split Adenauer's coalition in the Bundestag.

Titled Ex-Handyman Finds Farming "Sore On Legs"

Sir Adrian, once of Upper Fairmount, Md., inherited a 3,400-acre estate, one of Scotland's oldest baronetcies, and its deserted Mochrum mansion 18 months ago.

Since then, he has been tinkering around the place, making improvements and living as a subtenant in the house of one of his own estate tenants.

But this week he took over one of the 15 farms on the property after it was vacated and began tending the cattle, sheep, pigs and hens himself.

"It's grand, but sore on the legs especially when your sheep dog is as old as mine," the 61-year-old 12th baronet told newsmen.

Now that he has really settled down, Sir Adrian is full of plans to restore the family estate. Recently, he won court permission to sell some of the entailed property if he wants to.

"I may in time sell one or two of the farms," he said, "not because I want the money for myself but I would like to spend something on the others by way of improvements and repairs."

Mamie Spends First Night In New Home

WASHINGTON, March 17 (AP)—Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower drove to Gettysburg, Pa. today for her first overnight stay in the new country home which she and the President have built on the edge of the Civil War battlefield.

It was Mrs. Eisenhower's first venture outdoors since she came down with the flu early last week. She was accompanied to the 189 acre farm at Gettysburg by her mother, Mrs. John S. Doud.

The President plans to join the women at the farm tomorrow afternoon and will remain there overnight with them. Eisenhower will return to Washington Saturday to attend the annual dinner of the White House News Photographers Assn. that night.

Nixon Believes No Deliberate Attempt Made At Yalta Sellout

CHICAGO, March 17 (AP)—Vice President Nixon said today in answer to a question that he does not believe there was "any deliberate attempt to sell us out to the Communists" at Yalta.

Nixon, made the statement during a question and answer period following a speech before the Executive Club of Chicago.

An unidentified man asked from the floor, "What about Yalta?"

Nixon said:

"Of course it will take weeks and months of intelligent study to determine a correct analysis of the effects of the pact and comment intelligibly on it.

"But I don't believe there actually was any deliberate attempt to sell us out to the Communists."

Nixon said the "reason concessions were made was that the leaders of the free world simply didn't know what the Communist animal was like."

"Another reason," he added, "was that we badly needed Soviet support at the time for the conquest of Japan."

The vice president told the large gathering of Chicago businessmen that there was no doubt, however, that the concessions to the Russians were detrimental to the United States and the free world.

And, he added, the fall of China to the Reds could be laid directly to the door of the pact.

"Of course it naturally followed," he said, "that we had a war in Korea and one in Indochina."

"All we can say now," he added, "is that it was a fault not of the heart but of the head."

Nixon was accompanied to Chicago by Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill) who said he is investigating reports that the Yalta papers were released by the State Department after being heavily censored.

Dirksen said it "has been reported there are some interesting footnotes on the agreements still buried in State Department archives." He did not elaborate.

Attempt On German Anti-Red's Life Fails

BERLIN, March 17 (AP)—An attempt to kill one of West Berlin's leading anti-Communists with a bomb sent through the mails fell short of the target today but wounded two Germans.

The crude weapon exploded as it was being opened in the personnel offices of the giant Siemens-Schuckert electric plant.

The package, about four inches by six, was addressed to Carl-Hubert Schwennicke, 48, a director of Siemens, and also chairman of the Free Democratic party.

Presidential Action To End Four-Day L&N Strike Urged

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 17 (AP)—The wheels were started turning today on a move for presidential action to end the four-day old Louisville & Nashville Railroad strike.

Gov. Lawrence Wetherby, declaring "a real emergency now exists," wired President Eisenhower a plea to reconvene his Railway Emergency Board to study the stalemate. He asked governors of 12 other states in the strike zone to make similar appeals.

In Washington, James C. Hagerty, presidential press secretary, indicated there probably would be no White House intervention so long as the National Railway Mediation Board is trying to settle the strike. He said, however, the White House is watching the situation carefully.

Earlier, L&N President John E. Tilford said the railroad would abide by the recommendations if the board is called together.

A union spokesman took the other view, however, declaring, "There is no point dragging the strike question out any more."

Despite the strike of 25,000 clerks, carmen, roundhouse employes, telegraphers and other non-operating craftsmen and sympathy from some members of crafts that run the trains, the L&N said it still had many freight trains moving.

A spokesman said:

"We are doing a little better job in serving local industries today. Otherwise, the freight picture is about the same—about 50 to 75 per cent of the trains are running."

All passenger schedules across the L&N's 4,737-mile system, including the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis Railway and the Clinchfield Railroad, were canceled effective today.

Revamping Of Employe Security Program Urged By Four Groups

Humphrey Revision Plan Is Endorsed

WASHINGTON, March 17 (AP) — Four organizations urged Congress today to overhaul the nation's employe security program. They said it has brought on such things as "a dragnet system. . . a chamber of horrors. . . political demagoguery."

The organizations all spoke up in support of a resolution by Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) to set up a bipartisan Senate-House commission to revise the various security programs run by the government.

Witnesses testified on behalf of the CIO, the American Veterans Committee, the American Civil Liberties Union and the Engineers and Scientists of America.

Humphrey, acting chairman of a Senate Government Operations subcommittee, said he has "reason to believe there has been some tampering with the security program by political carpenters" since the committee began its hearings March 8. He did not elaborate.

Much of the attack on the security program was concentrated on the administration's insistence that "complete anonymity" be guaranteed all informants who pass information about alleged security risks to the FBI.

Joseph Amann, president of the engineers group, which includes 40,000 "professional" men employed in industry, said this gave Communists better legal protection than "poor little John Citizen."

Ernest Angell, chairman of the ACLU board of directors, said that under this program, "lies can be told to the FBI about another person's loyalty with impunity."

Angell said his organization has compiled "a chamber of horrors brief" which he said establishes that in cases where the accused learned the identity of his accuser and was able to cross-examine him, "the most serious accusations collapsed."

Angell said that today a man "can be denied federal employment purely as a result of malicious false statements about him."

"This is a monstrous perversion of security protections," he said.

"Does a security program contribute to national security if it creates such a constant burden of worry upon government employes that it has become, according to the public press, a subject of serious discussion among Washington psychiatrists?"

Lauterstein said his organization had to fight hard to rid itself of Commnuist members and that its experience has proved that "only through a long process of education" can the problem be solved.

Public Aid Asked As Obscene Mail Takes Big Jump

WASHINGTON, March 17 (AP)—A sharp increase in the traffic in lewd and obscene literature was reported by Post Office Department officials today in appealing for help from both Congress and the public.

Postmaster General Summerfield urged the public to cooperate in curbing the trade by "delivering to their local postmaster any material received through the mails which they consider obscene."

Summerfield reported a 73 per cent increase during the last six months in indecent mail cases handled by the department. The material included "risque snapshots, pornographic magazines and books, and lascivious slides, 'party' films, and records," he said.

A similar report was presented to a House Judiciary subcommittee by Abe M. Goff, Post Office Department solicitor, at a hearing on a series of antiobscenity bills.

Goff said the increase in mailed pornography was "alarming," but he added that even more of the traffic was carried on in trucks and other private vehicles not subject to present laws. One of the bills he supported would extend existing prohibitions against interstate transportation of obscene literature to private persons and carriers.

Justice Dept. Will Oppose Steel Merger

WASHINGTON, March 17 (AP) — The Justice Department has informed Sen. Douglas (D-Ill) it would seek to block any merger of Bethlehem Steel and Youngstown Sheet and Tube, two of the nation's largest steel producers.

Stanley N. Barnes, assistant attorney general in charge of the anti-trust division, wrote Douglas under a March 1 date:

"I think you should . . . know that if we are advised that the companies intend to proceed with the merger, we intend to ask the court to restrain both parties to the suit from taking any steps to consummate the merger, etc.

"In other words, we would seek to prevent any stockholder from voting on the merger, including, of course, the Cleveland Cliffs Iron Co., whether or not Bethlehem is the beneficial owner of any stock in that company."

The letter and others between the senator and Barnes were made available by Douglas upon request of a reporter.

Since last fall, Douglas has sought to learn whether Bethlehem owns 183,679 shares of stock in Cleveland Cliffs, an iron ore firm with headquarters in Cleveland. Douglas said he understood the stock was held in the name of Schmidt and Co. as nominee.

Cleveland Cliffs owns a block of Youngstown stock and has large holdings also in Jones & Laughlin, Republic, Wheeling and Inland.

Pat Ward Says She Chased Jelke Out Of Life With Knife

NEW YORK, March 17 (AP) — Call girl Pat Ward testified today she chased Mickey Jelke out of her life with a knife, after she said he netted nearly $15,000 by peddling her charms.

Shortly afterward she went under cross-examination at Jelke's compulsory prostitution trial. Before she was well into this ordeal, she was sobbing again and her tears washed out the trial for the day.

None of them was represented as more than a passing acquaintance, however, and there was no suggestion that they were among her wealthy lovers. She testified, in fact, that White sidestepped a clumsy attempt to entrap him with her tarnished charms.

Jelke is accused of enticing Miss Ward and 25-year-old Marguerite Cordova into a $50-to-$100-a-date cafe society call girl circuit. A conviction two years ago was thrown out because part of the testimony was taken in secret with press and public barred. The oleomargarine heir, now 25, faces up to 40 years in prison if convicted on retrial. The hearing opened March 7.

West Va. Road Reorganization Measure Vetoed

CHARLESTON, March 17 (AP) — Gov. Marland announced today he had vetoed the road reorganization bill passed by the 52nd Legislature.

At the same time, Marland said at a news conference that he was appointing Frank B. King of Morgantown, whom the Senate declined to confirm as state mines chief, to the State Liquor Control Commission, replacing as a member Chairman Luther Carson of Charleston.

Carson also was not confirmed for the Commission. Marland said Carson would become merchandising director of the commission effective immediately.

Widow, 83, Burns Her Life Savings

NEW YORK, March 17 (AP) — An 83-year-old widow was without funds today after she accidentally threw $740 remaining of her life savings into an incinerator.

Mrs. Theresa Dietz of Manhattan said loss of the money climaxed a long series of tragedies.

Years ago she and her late husband, Eric, ran a thriving artificial flower business, selling German-made reproductions of American flowers throughout the country. World War I cut off their supply and their business faded.

Later they started selling fashion items of hand-tooled velvet and made a success of it, until World War II put them out of business. In 1943 her husband came home, complained of a "cold in the head," and died of meningitis. Mrs. Dietz tried to start a new business, but arthritis crippled her. Then two years ago her daughter, Marguerite, died of cancer.

Mrs. Dietz kept her money in an envelope at home. When a neighbor knocked Tuesday night, the widow, not knowing who was outside, stuck the envelope into a paper bag. She forgot about the money, and later threw the paper bag in the incinerator.

King's Body Cremated; Nepal In Mourning

KATAMANDU, Nepal, March 17 (AP)—The body of King Tribhuvana was cremated today on a bank of the holy Bagmati River. The Himalayan kingdom of Nepal went into deep mourning for 13 days.

Hindu priests chanted prayers as the funeral pyre blazed. Nepalese army leaders had carried the remains in a silver litter from the airport. The body was flown from Switzerland, where the 49-year-old King died last Sunday following a series of heart attacks.

His son Crown Prince Mahendra, who succeeded him to the throne, was exempted from the mourning ritual. Other members of the royal family, including the King's two widows, will follow the ancient custom of sleeping on hard boards and taking no salt during the mourning period.

Reports 58-Letter Name Hoax 'Libel,' Welsh Town Says

ANTYSILIOGOGOGOCH, Wales, March 17 (AP)—Inhabitants of this little Welsh town with the longest name in the world are up in arms today against a foul calumny being spread abroad.

This wicked libel, which no true Welshmen, indeed, would believe, is that Llanfair etc., is a hoax cooked up by a local cobbler in the 18th century, and that all that should really be written on the signposts is Llanfairpwllgwyngyll—a mere 20 letters instead of 58.

Latest newspapers to pick up the trimming job is the London Daily Mirror, which ran the short version in its letters column today and mentioned the 18th century changeover.

Local residents said that since the name has been used these last 200 years without being queried—and even written in full on the railway station sign boards—there is no reason for changing it now.

New India-Nepal Envoy Marries

PASADENA, Calif., March 17 (AP) —Mrs. Lorraine Rowan Shevlin of Washington, D. C., and John Sherman Cooper, newly appointed ambassador to India and Nepal, were married today.

Cooper, of Somerset, Ky. and former U. S. senator from Kentucky, and Mrs. Shevlin obtained their marriage license today at the Pasadena office of the Los Angeles County clerk. She gave her age as 48 and Cooper listed his as 53.

Chile Faces Crisis As Generals Resign

SANTIAGO, Chile, March 17 (AP)—Four Chilean generals quit their posts today in what appeared to be a new crisis for the Ibanez government.

The government in announcing the resignations said the generals had quit "of their own free will."

Those resigning were Division Gen. Enrique Franco, commander-in-chief of the army; Division Gen. Oscar Herrera, Brig. Gen. Daniel Garcia Maffey and Brig. Gen. Alfredo Larenas.

The government immediately announced appointment of Division Gen. Raul Araya Stiglich as commander-in-chief of the army.

Approval by all 14 member states is required to admit a new state. The compact provides for exchange of college students.

Estimates Too Gloomy

Russia was in the war against Japan only five days. However, the military advisers of the British and Americans figured at the time of Yalta that the earliest date to be counted on for the end of the war against Germany was July 1, 1945. They said "the planning date for the end of the war against Japan should be set at 18 months after the defeat of Germany."

Their estimates proved too gloomy. Germany surrendered May 7, 1945 and Japan on Aug. 14, 1945, only three months and a week later.

One of the things which upset the British today was the disclosure that President Roosevelt "hoped" Britain would give Hong Kong to Chiang Kai-shek's China. Roosevelt's expressed hope came to nothing, but just the idea of it was reported to have enraged many Britons.

Airliner Sets Record

DENVER, March 17 (AP)—United Air Lines said today that one of its DC7 planes set a commercial speed record of 3 hours 25 minutes on an early morning flight from Denver to Washington, D.C.

NO PLACE FOR DESTROYER—Two tugs pull on the destroyer Cassin Young at Fall River, Mass., after she was driven slightly aground yesterday by 45 mile per hour winds and a strong current as she pulled away from a pier. The Navy said one of her engines failed to function properly. The vessel was pulled clear and returned to the pier for engine repair.

Ike Approves Plan To Shift Some D. C. Airline Traffic To Baltimore

WASHINGTON, March 17 (AP) — President Eisenhower today approved the idea of using Baltimore's Friendship International Airport to siphon off some of the overflow airline traffic into Washington.

It was proposed to him by a special committee set up to study Washington's air traffic problems.

On the committee were Budget Director Rowland Hughes, Air Force Secretary Talbott and Commerce Secretary Weeks.

They indicated the arrangement might be temporary.

"This is fine—just what I've been advocating all along," declared Walter F. Perkins, chairman of the Baltimore Airport Board.

He pointed out the next step is for some of the airlines themselves to petition the Civil Aeronautics Board for permission to terminate some of their Washington flights at Friendship International.

The airport is about eight miles south of downtown Baltimore in upper Anne Arundel County and now is connected with both Baltimore and Washington by a new 55-mile an hour four-lane parkway which has no stoplights or grade crossings.

It is 32.4 miles from downtown Washington and the trip by automobile usually takes no more than 50 minutes.

In travel time it is no farther from the heavily populated Maryland suburbs of Washington than is Washington National Airport, located on the Virginia side of the Potomac river.

Washington National Airport, which handled 160,000 plane movements in or out in 1954, has been saturated with traffic for several years.

Five Men Injured In Baltimore Blast

BALTIMORE, March 17 (AP)—Five men were hurt, one seriously, in an explosion today at the Miller Chemical and Fertilizer Corp.

About 30 others were forced from the building when chemicals being used in an experiment exploded, blowing out a wall of the insecticide plant.

What hospital authorities said was possibly poisonous acid was sprayed over persons working on the first floor. Six workers were taken to Johns Hopkins Hospital where they were treated for burns and given an antidote for the acid.

Hall Thinks Eisenhower Is Stronger Than Party

MIAMI, Fla., March 17 (AP) — Leonard Hall, chairman of the Republican National Committee, declared here tonight that he thinks President Eisenhower "is stronger than the Republican party."

Hall made this statement when he appeared as a guest on Ralph Renick's program over station WTVJ-TV.

Tentative Pact For Ending Alco Strike Reached

SCHENECTADY, N.Y., March 17 (AP)—The American Locomotive Co. and the CIO United Steelworkers Union announced late today they had reached a tentative agreement for ending a 17-day-old strike that has closed three Alco plants.

The agreement was announced in Buffalo by Joseph Molony, district director of the steelworkers' union, and in Schenectady by James J. Reynolds, Alco vice president for industrial relations.

Reynolds said, "We understand that the union is arranging meetings of all plant locals to vote on the terms of the agreement."

The strike, in support of union demands of a wage increase plus improved pension and insurance benefits, had idled about 3,500 Alco employes in Schenectady, Auburn and Dunkirk, N.Y.

The announcement followed an all-day meeting of union representatives in Buffalo.

Revamping Of Employe Security Program Urged By Four Groups

Humphrey Revision Plan Is Endorsed

WASHINGTON, March 17 (AP) — Four organizations urged Congress today to overhaul the nation's employe security program. They said it has brought on such things as "a dragnet system. . . a chamber of horrors. . . political demagoguery."

The organizations all spoke up in support of a resolution by Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) to set up a bipartisan Senate-House commission to revise the various security programs run by the government.

Witnesses testified on behalf of the CIO, the American Veterans Committee, the American Civil Liberties Union and the Engineers and Scientists of America.

Humphrey, acting chairman of a Senate Government Operations subcommittee, said he has "reason to believe there has been some tampering with the security program by political carpenters" since the committee began its hearings March 8. He did not elaborate.

Much of the attack on the security program was concentrated on the administration's insistence that "complete anonymity" be guaranteed all informants who pass information about alleged security risks to the FBI.

Joseph Amann, president of the engineers group, which includes 40,000 "professional" men employed in industry, said this gave Communists better legal protection than "poor little John Citizen."

Ernest Angell, chairman of the ACLU board of directors, said that under this program, "lies can be told to the FBI about another person's loyalty with impunity."

Angell said his organization has compiled "a chamber of horrors brief" which he said establishes that in cases where the accused learned the identity of his accuser and was able to cross-examine him, "the most serious accusations collapsed."

Angell said that today a man "can be denied federal employment purely as a result of malicious false statements about him."

"This is a monstrous perversion of security protections," he said.

"Does a security program contribute to national security if it creates such a constant burden of worry upon government employes that it has become, according to the public press, a subject of serious discussion among Washington psychiatrists?"

Lauterstein said his organization had to fight hard to rid itself of Commnuist members and that its experience has proved that "only through a long process of education" can the problem be solved.

Public Aid Asked As Obscene Mail Takes Big Jump

WASHINGTON, March 17 (AP)—A sharp increase in the traffic in lewd and obscene literature was reported by Post Office Department officials today in appealing for help from both Congress and the public.

Postmaster General Summerfield urged the public to cooperate in curbing the trade by "delivering to their local postmaster any material received through the mails which they consider obscene."

Summerfield reported a 73 per cent increase during the last six months in indecent mail cases handled by the department. The material included "risque snapshots, pornographic magazines and books, and lascivious slides, 'party' films, and records," he said.

A similar report was presented to a House Judiciary subcommittee by Abe M. Goff, Post Office Department solicitor, at a hearing on a series of antiobscenity bills.

Goff said the increase in mailed pornography was "alarming," but he added that even more of the traffic was carried on in trucks and other private vehicles not subject to present laws. One of the bills he supported would extend existing prohibitions against interstate transportation of obscene literature to private persons and carriers.

Chile Faces Crisis As Generals Resign

SANTIAGO, Chile, March 17 (AP)—Four Chilean generals quit their posts today in what appeared to be a new crisis for the Ibanez government.

The government in announcing the resignations said the generals had quit "of their own free will."

Those resigning were Division Gen. Enrique Franco, commander-in-chief of the army; Division Gen. Oscar Herrera, Brig. Gen. Daniel Garcia Maffey and Brig. Gen. Alfredo Larenas.

The government immediately announced appointment of Division Gen. Raul Araya Stiglich as commander-in-chief of the army.

Justice Dept. Will Oppose Steel Merger

WASHINGTON, March 17 (AP) — The Justice Department has informed Sen. Douglas (D-Ill) it would seek to block any merger of Bethlehem Steel and Youngstown Sheet and Tube, two of the nation's largest steel producers.

Stanley N. Barnes, assistant attorney general in charge of the anti-trust division, wrote Douglas under a March 1 date:

"I think you should . . . know that if we are advised that the companies intend to proceed with the merger, we intend to ask the court to restrain both parties to the suit from taking any steps to consummate the merger, etc.

"In other words, we would seek to prevent any stockholder from voting on the merger, including, of course, the Cleveland Cliffs Iron Co., whether or not Bethlehem is the beneficial owner of any stock in that company."

The letter and others between the senator and Barnes were made available by Douglas upon request of a reporter.

Since last fall, Douglas has sought to learn whether Bethlehem owns 183,679 shares of stock in Cleveland Cliffs, an iron ore firm with headquarters in Cleveland. Douglas said he understood the stock was held in the name of Schmidt and Co. as nominee.

Cleveland Cliffs owns a block of Youngstown stock and has large holdings also in Jones & Laughlin, Republic, Wheeling and Inland.

Assembly Approves

ANNAPOLIS, March 17 (AP)—The Maryland General Assembly gave its approval today to admission of Delaware and West Virginia in the Southern Regional Compact on Higher Education.

Approval by all 14 member states is required to admit a new state. The compact provides for exchange of college students.

Pat Ward Says She Chased Jelke Out Of Life With Knife

NEW YORK, March 17 (AP) — Call girl Pat Ward testified today she chased Mickey Jelke out of her life with a knife, after she said he netted nearly $15,000 by peddling her charms.

The lithe, 21-year-old brunette broke down anew during the recital and only a court recess halted her sobbing.

Shortly afterward she went under cross-examination at Jelke's compulsory prostitution trial. Before she was well into this ordeal, she was sobbing again and her tears washed out the trial for the day.

None of them was represented as more than a passing acquaintance, however, and there was no suggestion that they were among her wealthy lovers. She testified, in fact, that White sidestepped a clumsy attempt to entrap him with her tarnished charms.

Jelke is accused of enticing Miss Ward and 25-year-old Marguerite Cordova into a $50-to-$100-a-date cafe society call girl circuit. A conviction two years ago was thrown out because part of the testimony was taken in secret with press and public barred. The oleomargarine heir, now 25, faces up to 40 years in prison if convicted on retrial. The hearing opened March 7.

Reports 58-Letter Name Hoax 'Libel,' Welsh Town Says

ANTYSILIOGOGOGOCH, Wales, March 17 (AP)—Inhabitants of this little Welsh town with the longest name in the world are up in arms today against a foul calumny being spread abroad.

This wicked libel, which no true Welshmen, indeed, would believe, is that Llanfair etc., is a hoax cooked up by a local cobbler in the 18th century, and that all that should really be written on the signposts is Llanfairpwllgwyngyll—a mere 20 letters instead of 58.

Latest newspapers to pick up the trimming job is the London Daily Mirror, which ran the short version in its letters column today and mentioned the 18th century changeover.

Local residents said that since the name has been used these last 200 years without being queried—and even written in full on the railway station sign boards—there is no reason for changing it now.

Estimates Too Gloomy

Russia was in the war against Japan only five days. However, the military advisers of the British and Americans figured at the time of Yalta that the earliest date to be counted on for the end of the war against Germany was July 1, 1945. They said "the planning date for the end of the war against Japan should be set at 18 months after the defeat of Germany."

Their estimates proved too gloomy. Germany surrendered May 7, 1945 and Japan on Aug. 14, 1945, only three months and a week later.

One of the things which upset the British today was the disclosure that President Roosevelt "hoped" Britain would give Hong Kong to Chiang Kai-shek's China. Roosevelt's expressed hope came to nothing, but just the idea of it was reported to have enraged many Britons.

West Va. Road Reorganization Measure Vetoed

CHARLESTON, March 17 (AP) — Gov. Marland announced today he had vetoed the road reorganization bill passed by the 52nd Legislature.

At the same time, Marland said at a news conference that he was appointing Frank B. King of Morgantown, whom the Senate declined to confirm as state mines chief, to the State Liquor Control Commission, replacing as a member Chairman Luther Carson of Charleston.

Carson also was not confirmed for the Commission. Marland said Carson would become merchandising director of the commission effective immediately.

Widow, 83, Burns Her Life Savings

NEW YORK, March 17 (AP) — An 83-year-old widow was without funds today after she accidentally threw $740 remaining of her life savings into an incinerator.

Mrs. Theresa Dietz of Manhattan said loss of the money climaxed a long series of tragedies.

Years ago she and her late husband, Eric, ran a thriving artificial flower business, selling German-made reproductions of American flowers throughout the country. World War I cut off their supply and their business faded.

Later they started selling fashion items of hand-tooled velvet and made a success of it, until World War II put them out of business. In 1943 her husband came home, complained of a "cold in the head," and died of meningitis. Mrs. Dietz tried to start a new business, but arthritis crippled her. Then two years ago her daughter, Marguerite, died of cancer.

Mrs. Dietz kept her money in an envelope at home. When a neighbor knocked Tuesday night, the widow, not knowing who was outside, stuck the envelope into a paper bag. She forgot about the money, and later threw the paper bag in the incinerator.

King's Body Cremated; Nepal In Mourning

KATAMANDU, Nepal, March 17 (AP)—The body of King Tribhuvana was cremated today on a bank of the holy Bagmati River. The Himalayan kingdom of Nepal went into deep mourning for 13 days.

Hindu priests chanted prayers as the funeral pyre blazed. Nepalese army leaders had carried the remains in a silver litter from the airport. The body was flown from Switzerland, where the 49-year-old King died last Sunday following a series of heart attacks.

His son Crown Prince Mahendra, who succeeded him to the throne, was exempted from the mourning ritual. Other members of the royal family, including the King's two widows, will follow the ancient custom of sleeping on hard boards and taking no salt during the mourning period.

NO PLACE FOR DESTROYER—Two tugs pull on the destroyer Cassin Young at Fall River, Mass., after she was driven slightly aground yesterday by 45 mile per hour winds and a strong current as she pulled away from a pier. Ike Approves Plan To Shift Some D. C. Airline Traffic To Baltimore

WASHINGTON, March 17 (AP) — President Eisenhower today approved the idea of using Baltimore's Friendship International Airport to siphon off some of the overflow airline traffic into Washington.

It was proposed to him by a special committee set up to study Washington's air traffic problems.

On the committee were Budget Director Rowland Hughes, Air Force Secretary Talbott and Commerce Secretary Weeks.

They indicated the arrangement might be temporary.

"This is fine—just what I've been advocating all along," declared Walter F. Perkins, chairman of the Baltimore Airport Board.

He pointed out the next step is for some of the airlines themselves to petition the Civil Aeronautics Board for permission to terminate some of their Washington flights at Friendship International.

The airport is about eight miles south of downtown Baltimore in upper Anne Arundel County and now is connected with both Baltimore and Washington by a new 55-mile an hour four-lane parkway which has no stoplights or grade crossings.

It is 32.4 miles from downtown Washington and the trip by automobile usually takes no more than 50 minutes.

In travel time it is no farther from the heavily populated Maryland suburbs of Washington than is Washington National Airport, located on the Virginia side of the Potomac river.

Washington National Airport, which handled 160,000 plane movements in or out in 1954, has been saturated with traffic for several years.

Five Men Injured In Baltimore Blast

BALTIMORE, March 17 (AP)—Five men were hurt, one seriously, in an explosion today at the Miller Chemical and Fertilizer Corp.

About 30 others were forced from the building when chemicals being used in an experiment exploded, blowing out a wall of the insecticide plant.

What hospital authorities said was possibly poisonous acid was sprayed over persons working on the first floor. Six workers were taken to Johns Hopkins Hospital where they were treated for burns and given an antidote for the acid.

Tentative Pact For Ending Alco Strike Reached

SCHENECTADY, N.Y., March 17 (AP)—The American Locomotive Co. and the CIO United Steelworkers Union announced late today they had reached a tentative agreement for ending a 17-day-old strike that has closed three Alco plants.

The agreement was announced in Buffalo by Joseph Molony, district director of the steelworkers' union, and in Schenectady by James J. Reynolds, Alco vice president for industrial relations.

Reynolds said, "We understand that the union is arranging meetings of all plant locals to vote on the terms of the agreement."

The strike, in support of union demands of a wage increase plus improved pension and insurance benefits, had idled about 3,500 Alco employes in Schenectady, Auburn and Dunkirk, N.Y.

Parent Groups Urge Tax Hike To Provide Teacher Pay Boost

ANNAPOLIS, March 17 (AP)—Parent groups from throughout Maryland urged increased taxes today to provide a $400 increase in teacher salaries.

They cited figures to show that the average teacher pay in Maryland slipped from fifth in the nation to ninth last year and it probably will drop to 11th during the current year.

The speakers before the House Ways and Means Committee hearing said the state's parents are willing to shoulder a higher tax burden—possibly on income taxes or sales taxes or both—to meet the challenge.

B. Melvin Cole, president of the Maryland State Teachers' Assn., told the committee that more than 24 per cent of the teachers in Maryland schools last year did not meet minimum qualifications and that in some areas high school graduates are employed.

The $400 hike, which would not become effective until September, 1956, would put the minimum salary scale at from $3,200 to $5,000.

Teachers are to go under a new minimum scale next year of $2,800 to $4,600 as a result of a Green Commission recommendations.

The new proposal would cost approximately 6½ million dollars the first year and would jump to nearly 8 million dollars in 1960. Master's degree holders would go to $5,200 under the 11-year program.

Mrs. Fred Bull, president of the Maryland Congress of Parents and Teachers, said "every day we delay, our children suffer."

She said Maryland is finding it more difficult each year to find the 1,000 additional teachers and 2,000 replacements it requires.

When Del. Edwards (R-Garrett) asked if those present at the hearing in the Senate chamber would go out and work to get the people to pay more taxes, the answer was a unanimous "yes" on the vote asked by Chairman Boone (D-Balto County).

But State School Superintendent Thomas G. Pullen Jr. said he would not support any move to earmark specifically any special taxes for education, because its revenues might vary so much from year to year to seriously harm the schools.

Pullen called Maryland's school system "one of the nation's best" but said the influx of new residents "who want to be like us" is causing problems.

Building Sale Plan Results In Threats

BALTIMORE, March 17 (AP) — A tenant in an apartment building which reportedly has been offered for sale to Negroes has reported a second threat in connection with the transaction.

Mrs. Estelle Sachs said she was threatened on the telephone two weeks ago by a man under the mistaken impression she was owner of the building.

She said the man told her, "You ought to be shot for putting it up to Negroes."

Mrs. Sachs did not report the threat at the time, but became frightened when she heard of another recent threat. This one was reported to police by Edwin H. Pitcher, the real estate broker handling the property.

The building is owned by the Patuxent River and Land Co., Pasadena, Md. Pitcher said an anonymous telephone caller threatened to have him killed "by a professional killer" if he sold the building to Negroes.

In its usual humorous observance of the great day for the Irish, the delegates were led by Del. (O') Rosenthal (D-Balto 4th) in singing songs of the Old Sod.

Del. Maguire (D-Balto County), needing no false Irish prefix, requested (O') Rosenthal to sing "My Mother came from Ireland."

Del. (Mc) Kirkland (D-Anne Arundel) informed the celebrating House, "It's not such a happy day in Ireland. For 28 years, the pubs have been closed on St. Patrick's Day."

"Well, God bless America," said (O') Rosenthal.

YMCA Boys Will Run Mock State Government Tomorrow

COLLEGE PARK, March 17 (AP)—Some 225 boys from YMCA organizations in Maryland will meet at the University of Maryland here Saturday to elect a boy governor for 1955 and to hold a pre-legislative conference.

Dr. Don Bowen, director of the university's bureau of governmental research, is chairman of the conference. He said it has been designed to give the youngsters an opportunity to take part in a mock governmental structure which faithfully duplicates the real State government in Annapolis.

The Legislature will function with committee assignments and election of a governor.

Representatives of State, civic and educational agencies will aid Dr. Bowen in presenting the program.

Joel Downey of Frostburg, the boy governor of 1954, will preside at the general session which begins at 11:45 a. m. Speakers will include Dr. Wilson H. Elkins, president of the University of Maryland; Del. Robinson (D-Balto 4th) and Del. Derr (R-Frederick).

Candidates for boy governor will address the assembly giving their legislative programs for Maryland.

Hyde Declares States Could Pay For Schools

WASHINGTON, March 17 (AP) — Rep. Hyde (R-Md) said today "the only excuse for federal aid to school construction is that the states simply are refusing to accept their responsibility."

Hyde so testified before the House Education and Labor Committee which is considering 27 different bills to provide federal aid for schools.

"We can't continue to argue our ideals, however, while our children go without schools," Hyde added.

He asserted the states could do it "but won't because state legislators won't levy taxes . . . Taxes will come out of the same pocket whether it's a federal levy for schools or state or local."

Hyde said he thought the only answer to adequate school construction now is outright federal grants on a school population basis, plus restrictions to limit federal control of schools.

Rep. Kearns (R-Pa) asked if Maryland should put up every dollar the State expects back in federal money for schools. Hyde said this should be done.

In its usual humorous observance of the great day for the Irish, the delegates were led by Del. (O') Rosenthal (D-Balto 4th) in singing songs of the Old Sod.

Del. Maguire (D-Balto County), needing no false Irish prefix, requested (O') Rosenthal to sing "My Mother came from Ireland."

Del. (Mc) Kirkland (D-Anne Arundel) informed the celebrating House, "It's not such a happy day in Ireland. For 28 years, the pubs have been closed on St. Patrick's Day."

"Well, God bless America," said (O') Rosenthal.

YMCA Boys Will Run Mock State Government Tomorrow

COLLEGE PARK, March 17 (AP)—Some 225 boys from YMCA organizations in Maryland will meet at the University of Maryland here Saturday to elect a boy governor for 1955 and to hold a pre-legislative conference.

Dr. Don Bowen, director of the university's bureau of governmental research, is chairman of the conference. He said it has been designed to give the youngsters an opportunity to take part in a mock governmental structure which faithfully duplicates the real State government in Annapolis.

The Legislature will function with committee assignments and election of a governor.

Representatives of State, civic and educational agencies will aid Dr. Bowen in presenting the program.

Joel Downey of Frostburg, the boy governor of 1954, will preside at the general session which begins at 11:45 a. m. Speakers will include Dr. Wilson H. Elkins, president of the University of Maryland; Del. Robinson (D-Balto 4th) and Del. Derr (R-Frederick).

Candidates for boy governor will address the assembly giving their legislative programs for Maryland.

Hyde Declares States Could Pay For Schools

WASHINGTON, March 17 (AP) — Rep. Hyde (R-Md) said today "the only excuse for federal aid to school construction is that the states simply are refusing to accept their responsibility."

Hyde so testified before the House Education and Labor Committee which is considering 27 different bills to provide federal aid for schools.

"We can't continue to argue our ideals, however, while our children go without schools," Hyde added.

He asserted the states could do it "but won't because state legislators won't levy taxes . . . Taxes will come out of the same pocket whether it's a federal levy for schools or state or local."

Hyde said he thought the only answer to adequate school construction now is outright federal grants on a school population basis, plus restrictions to limit federal control of schools.

Rep. Kearns (R-Pa) asked if Maryland should put up every dollar the State expects back in federal money for schools. Hyde said this should be done.

Attention Mother-To-Be:

Extra Vitamins May Mean Extra Smartness For Baby

NEW YORK, March 17 (AP)—Babies are a bit more intelligent if poorly-fed mothers take extra vitamins daily during pregnancy and while nursing, says a scientific study announced today.

This seems true "beyond a reasonable doubt" of the mothers in poor, crowded sections of a city anyhow, says the report from teachers College, Columbia University.

These women, in Norfolk, Va., presumably had poor diets, children of the "Vitamin" mothers scored a few points higher on intelligence tests than children of mothers not getting vitamin pills.

The Kentucky mothers had better diets to begin with, or perhaps didn't take their vitamin pills faithfully, the report says. Also, it was more difficult to test intelligence of the mountain children who were more shy and nontalkative.

The seven-year study covered 2,400 expectant mothers—1,200 in Norfolk and 1,200 in Kentucky—and 1,699 of their children given intelligence tests at age 3 or 4.

Three-quarters of the women received vitamin pills, the rest were given innocuous "dud" vitamin pills. Scientists making the intelligence tests didn't know which kind of pills the mothers had had.

The study was supervised by Dr. Arthur I. Gates, head of the department of psychological foundations at Teachers College, with aid of a $34,000 grant from the Williams-Waterman Fund for the combat of dietary diseases.

Of women taking vitamins, a third got just vitamin C, a third just B-1 or thiamine, and one third got multiple-B vitamins—thiamine, riboflavin and niacinamide, plus iron.

The children of vitamin mothers scored higher on the intelligence test in Norfolk at age 3. The IQ, or intelligence quotient, for multiple-B vitamin kids averaged 103.4; for the B-1 youngsters, 101, for the C vitamin 100.9, and for the non-vitamin ones, 98.4.

The vitamin kids averaged 3.7 points higher in IQ than the non-vitamin. Statistically, there wasn't significant difference in the apparent higher intelligence from different types of vitamin pills.

The multiple-B vitamins looked more effective, but more study is needed to check this, the study said.

Among Norfolk youngsters tested at age 4, those in the three vitamin groups scored 5.2 points higher than the nonvitamin.

Among the Kentucky babies at age 3, all averaged 107.6 in IQ, and there was no statistically significant difference whether their mothers had received vitamins or not. But this doesn't necessarily mean that the vitamins had absolutely no effect on intelligence, partly because of difficulty of giving tests to shy youngsters, the report said.

All the Kentucky women were white, descendants of early English, Scotch, Welsh and Irish immigrants. They produced most of their own meats, fruits and vegetables.

Eighty per cent of the Norfolk women in the test were Negroes, the rest of Indian, Mexica, Laskar, Italian, German, French and English background. All lived in crowded tenement areas of that city.

Drs. Ruth F. Harrell and Ella Woodyard, psychologists, were in charge of field tests, examinations and preliminary statistical analyses.

French Military Engineer Would Store Energy By Exploding H-Bomb In Water-Filled Cavern

PARIS, March 17 (AP)—A French military engineer has come up with the idea of storing the energy of a hydrogen bomb by exploding it in a huge artificial cavern filled with water 20,000 feet below the earth's surface.

The power of this tailor-made volcano could be used for both defense and industrial energy, he says.

Camille Rougeron headed the armaments section at the French Air Ministry before World War II and acted as a technical adviser to the War Ministry immediately afterwards. Now retired, he has written four books on war and has a new one coming up. Some of the ideas in it have been appearing in L'Aurore.

The first difficulty in harnessing thermonuclear energy — the force of the H-bomb — is that it produces heat so enormous as to vaporize any practical container. Rougeron's idea of a container, therefore is 20,000 feet of earth and rock. He considers that would be enough protection for an "underground boiler," where H-bombs would be exploded in a chamber half a mile in diameter.

First a shaft would have to be sunk wide enough to accommodate the bombs. A chemical explosive at the bottom of the shaft would blast out a chamber about 65 feet in diameter. Water would then be pumped into the hole.

A "small" atomic explosion at this point, Rougeron says, would:

1. Enlarge the chamber about four times for the hydrogen blast, and

2. Produce steam that would flow into an electricity-generating turbine at the surface.

When water has been pumped again into the hole, everything would be ready for the big blast.

A comparatively "weak" hydrogen bomb — equivalent to five million tons of TNT — would blast the half-mile-wide chamber, according to Rougeron. What you would have then, he says, is a great stock of steam for power and radioactive water for defense. He suggested an explosion in this chamber every six months.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Have you ever heard the saying, "A gentleman never needs a haircut?" That may seem trivial or trite, but little things have often proved to be the clue to a man's personality.

This fact is even more true of a woman. Fastidious grooming at all times is an essential "must" of her life. The strange part of life is that a woman may consider herself quite a lady and not realize that if she neglects little things in grooming, she immediately lowers her charm quotient in the eyes of others. And she takes the chance that Mr. Newbeau, who is one of the most eligible men in town, will not come to see her again.

No matter how small they may seem, always remember the axiom of "Ten Secrets of Charm" (see below): "It's the little things in life that count." These handicaps of careless dress or grooming can prevent you from being the best self you can be. Take a look and see if you are guilty of any of the below.

Little Things — Big Mistakes

Powder dust on necklines and combings on shoulders of clothing.

The soiled and slipping lingerie strap (a meticulous, refined, and charming woman is as particular about her lingerie as she is her outer clothes).

Missing buttons or split seams look sloppy.

Run-over heels and scuffed shoes throw your whole "costume" off the well-dressed list.

Chipped nail polish or nails that are grimy.

Ripped and ripply hems held up with safety pins are damaging in more ways than one.

Hair that hasn't been exposed recently to a shampoo and that makes one want to stay away or say, "Your dandruff is beginning to show."

The overpowering "heavy" perfume that everyone notices the minute you step in a room.

Take Your Time

If you are tempted to slight your own appearance and are a "putter-offer-until-tomorrow" woman, remember the immortal Shakespeare's admonition: "Self-love, my liege, is not so vile a sin as self-neglecting."

Good grooming for a lady starts the night before — ask any of the attractive, well-groomed John Robert Powers models. It's work, but it's worth it . . . none of these attractive girls was built in a day.

TEN SECRETS OF CHARM

You are welcome, free of charge, to the reminder card, TEN SECRETS OF CHARM. It lists ten points to remember as milestones along the road to greater charm. Carry it with you and you won't overlook any of the ways you impress all who come in contact with you. Write to Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper and enclose a stamped, self-addressed return envelope.

Tomorrow—The lissome look.

This fact is even more true of a woman. Fastidious grooming at all times is an essential "must" of her life. The strange part of life is that a woman may consider herself quite a lady and not realize that if she neglects little things in grooming, she immediately lowers her charm quotient in the eyes of others. And she takes the chance that Mr. Newbeau, who is one of the most eligible men in town, will not come to see her again.

No matter how small they may seem, always remember the axiom of "Ten Secrets of Charm" (see below): "It's the little things in life that count." These handicaps of careless dress or grooming can prevent you from being the best self you can be. Take a look and see if you are guilty of any of the below.

Little Things — Big Mistakes

Powder dust on necklines and combings on shoulders of clothing.

The soiled and slipping lingerie strap (a meticulous, refined, and charming woman is as particular about her lingerie as she is her outer clothes).

Missing buttons or split seams look sloppy.

Run-over heels and scuffed shoes throw your whole "costume" off the well-dressed list.

Chipped nail polish or nails that are grimy.

Ripped and ripply hems held up with safety pins are damaging in more ways than one.

Hair that hasn't been exposed recently to a shampoo and that makes one want to stay away or say, "Your dandruff is beginning to show."

The overpowering "heavy" perfume that everyone notices the minute you step in a room.

Take Your Time

If you are tempted to slight your own appearance and are a "putter-offer-until-tomorrow" woman, remember the immortal Shakespeare's admonition: "Self-love, my liege, is not so vile a sin as self-neglecting."

Good grooming for a lady starts the night before — ask any of the attractive, well-groomed John Robert Powers models. It's work, but it's worth it . . . none of these attractive girls was built in a day.

TEN SECRETS OF CHARM

You are welcome, free of charge, to the reminder card, TEN SECRETS OF CHARM. It lists ten points to remember as milestones along the road to greater charm. Carry it with you and you won't overlook any of the ways you impress all who come in contact with you. Write to Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper and enclose a stamped, self-addressed return envelope.

Tomorrow—The lissome look.

Apples, Celery, Carrots Nature's "Toothbrushes"

WASHINGTON, March 17 (AP)—What this nation needs, a dental hygienist said yesterday, is "one of nature's toothbrushes"—an apple, a piece of celery or a raw carrot—in every school kid's lunchbox.

This would be a big help toward preventing tooth decay which is "happening six times faster than the present number of dentists in the United States can take care of it," said Mrs. Bertha Morgan, of Takoma Park, Md. She is president of the Maryland Dental Hygienists Assn.

If kids carried a folding toothbrush to school, that would be even better, Mrs. Morgan said in an interview at a postgraduate clinic of the District of Columbia Dental Society.

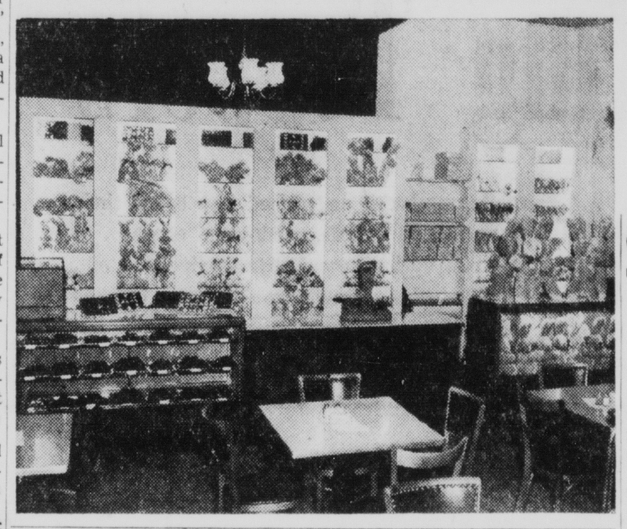
"Adolescent boys have to fall in love before they'll brush their teeth (regularly and properly)," she smiled, "but girls are better, perhaps because they mature a few years earlier than boys and become more aware of their appearance."

She said a person's own "dental hygiene"—including proper brushing of the teeth after every meal—is one of the three major aids towards preventing tooth decay.

Another is "control of the diet at home"—including avoidance of too many sweets, and making sure that the diet has plenty of "chewy vegetables which act like toothbrushes."

The third big aid, she said, is frequent dental inspection, including getting one's teeth cleaned at least twice a year.

The sweetest plant in the world is said to be the Stevia of Paraguay. It produces a liquid that is 300 times sweeter than sugar.



COMPLETELY REMODELED STORE—New departments and improved facilities in others have been added to Lazarus store through remodeling which began the first of this year. Starting with the display windows on Baltimore Street, the improvements carried through the entire three floors and are climaxed with a 2,200 square feet children's department on the third floor, lower level, planning for which began about three years ago. Pictured at upper right is this children's department with the layette section in the background. There are furnishings here for girls from layette to 14 sub-teens and for boys from layette to six years. At lower left is the new candy and novelty section in the fountain and lunch room on the third floor. At upper left is the remodeled main floor. Other improvements include new handbag department and a popular-price hat bar, both on the second floor, lower level.

Nation's High Court Seeks Funds For Exercise Room

WASHINGTON, March 17 (AP)—A trim, vigorous Supreme Court is about to be heard from.

For the court has appealed to Congress for funds to put in:

1. An exercise room, complete with steam cabinet and lockers, in which the justices can flex their muscles;

2. An amplifying system so that not only spectators can hear what is said, but, what's more important, so the justices can hear each other, and

3. A tape recording gadget whereby, for the first time in history, a complete record can be made of what is said in the nation's highest court.

These facts came out in testimony, just released, given earlier by Justice Harold Burton at a closed hearing held by the House Appropriations Committee. The committee has agreed to the request—the improvement will cost $12,500—but the final decision is up to Congress.

Unfortunately, Burton didn't give any details as to which judicial physiques are in need of trimming.

"The court," Burton said, "unlike the Senate and House, has no exercise room whatever. The chief justice is particularly interested in having this put in at the present time."

Why is Chief Justice Earl Warren particularly interested? And are plans afoot for the minority opinions to challenge the majority opinions for a showdown at shinny in the exercise room later?

Burton didn't say, and nobody asked him. Instead the talk was of a tape recording system.

Even the lowliest court, in the most piddling of cases, may have a stenographer taking down every word that is said. But not the Supreme Court.

Scientists Say Cosmic Rays May Speed Up Aging

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Reporter

WASHINGTON, March 17 (AP) — Natural radioactivity in our environment, such as from cosmic rays, may play some role in one of nature's closest-kept secrets—the normal process of human aging.

Scientists of the National Institute of Health said today this possibility has been suggested by recent findings.

These findings are that artificially produced radiations — such as those from atomic explosions—appear to hasten the aging of experimental animals, at least under certain conditions.

If experimental radiation can bring about this speed-up, they told a newsman, it's logical to wonder whether the radioactivity that is always present plays some contributory role in making our bodies grow old normally.

The discussion came up as a result of NIH testimony released today by the House Appropriations subcommittee.

An NIH statement in the testimony declared that "research on the aging process has been elusive, and scientists have been baffled as to where to begin and what to do."

But it added:

"One possible new lead has appeared. Observations in several studies sponsored by the Atomic Energy Commission and the Public Health Service on the long-term effects of radiation seem to indicate that radiation accelerates the aging process."

As a result of these findings, a committee of scientists has recommended that the PHS encourage investigators to undertake long-term studies in various animals, including monkeys."

Publication Of Yalta Documents Costly

WASHINGTON, March 17 (AP)—Nobody is prepared to say just how much publication of the Yalta papers, complete with photographs and maps, will cost the United States.

The State Department's surprise decision to release the papers made available a massive array of bound galley proofs which must still be corrected and sprinkled with nine illustrations and three maps, including one map in color. They probably will sell for around $10 for the two-volume set.

Congress appropriated $112,000 two years ago to finance the publication of the record of the Yalta-Malta meetings in 1945 as well as documents pertaining to other allied sessions during World War II at Potsdam, Cairo, Tehran and Quebec.

The State Department spent more than the usual amount in preparing the Yalta papers because of the great length it went to in order to keep them secret.

Drug Curbs Ft. Dix Meningitis Outbreak

FT. DIX, N. J., March 17 (AP) — Medical authorities at this big eastern Army training camp said this week the distribution of sulfadiazine tablets has "virtually eliminated" the possibility that troops are carrying meningitis germs.

The 40,000 trainees and permanent personnel were given tablets 10 days ago after a third trainee was stricken with what doctors termed a quick-killing form of meningitis. Two of the three died from the disease. The third soldier is recuperating.

The Army statement here came just after it was announced in Washington that a congressional probe resulting from the cases will take place late this month or in early April.

Heidt's Mother Dies

ALAMEDA, Calif., March 17 (AP)— Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Heidt, 87, mother of bandleader Horace Heidt died last night at Alamdea Hospital. For a quarter of a century the bandleader signed off his broadcasts with an affectionate "Good night, Mother."

Heidt was flying home today from Augusta, Ga., for funeral services.

Gift Bear To Cost $2,150

SALISBURY, March 17 (AP) — The city council intends to look any future gift bears in the mouth.

Sandy, the soda drinking Canadian bear accepted as a gift for the zoo, had been described as toothless. The council recently learned Sandy has some teeth after all and needs a cage.

Councilmen whistled when they heard what the cage would cost the city—$2,150.

Russian DPs Voted $4,000 For Wounds

WASHINGTON, March 17 (AP) — Two Russian-born immigrants were voted $4,000 apiece by the House yesterday for injuries from American bullets 10 years ago when they were fighting repatriation from Germany to Russia.

Leonid Zankowsky and Gronislav Vydaevich, who now live in New York City, were described in a House Judiciary Committee report as having been shot while in a Russian displaced persons camp at Kempten, Germany, on Aug. 12, 1945.

The Soviets and Americans were then operating under a forced repatriation policy for the Russian DPs. U.S. soldiers fired to keep Russian DPs from fleeing to a nearby Lithuanian DP camp.

The House bill, passed without objection, must still win Senate and presidential approval before Zankowsky, 42, and Vydaevich, 25, can get their money.

William Twigg's Will Admitted To Probate

The will of William L. Twigg, 51-year-old milk deliveryman who was killed March 4 when his truck overturned on Death Valley Road just off West Virginia State Route 28, has been admitted to probate in Allegany County Orphans Court.

He left his entire estate to his wife, Mrs. Catherine M. Twigg, who qualified as executrix of the estate under a $500 bond. The will was dated September 25, 1942.

Two Senators Duel On Difference Between Gambling And Speculation

WASHINGTON, March 17 (AP) — What's the difference between gambling and speculation? Is there any difference?

Sens. Douglas (D-Ill) and Capehart (R-Ind) duelled on this issue yesterday at a Senate Banking Committee hearing in the stock market inquiry. Their weapons: Dictionaries.

Douglas, a former professor of economics at the University of Chicago, took Capehart to task for saying gambling and speculation amount to pretty much the same thing.

Said Douglas: Speculation is a sharing of risk that already exists. Gambling is going out and looking for a risk that wouldn't be there if nobody gambled.

Capehart called for a dictionary and an aide brought one. It was two inches thick. Douglas also called for a dictionary. His turned out to be nine inches thick. Douglas read aloud from his dictionary. Capehart thumbed his silently.

"I hope," said Douglas, "the distinction is now clear to the senator from Indiana so that he won't be impugning legitimate speculation and making the New York Stock Exchange out to be a crap-shooting joint."

Capehart shot back that it's always a pleasure to be lectured by a professor in the correct use of words.

But, said Capehart, a manufacturer and farmer:

"Out in Indiana when we plant a crop we think we are gambling —not speculating."

And he added:

"Maybe I ought to take a night course somewhere."

Webster's new international dictionary, second edition, gives these definitions:

Gambling—(A) Properly, the act of playing or gaming for stakes. (B) Loosely, the act of risking or staking anything on an uncertain event; wagering. In the strict sense of the term, gambling implies a playing or gaming, as at checkers, dice, cards, horse racing, cock fighting, or some other sport or contest, as well as a staking or risking of money to be lost or won on the issue.

Speculation—Act of speculating, as by engaging in business out of the ordinary, or by dealing with a view to making a profit from conjectural fluctuations in the price rather than from earnings of the ordinary profit of trade, or by entering into a business venture involving unusual risks for a chance of an unusually large gain or profit.

Southern Baptists Outline Big Radio-TV, Film Project

NEW YORK, March 17 (AP) — Southern Baptists announced today a huge new program of radio, television and films, with the aim of conveying fundamentals of faith instead of "sticky sentiment."

Dr. Paul M. Stevens of Atlanta, director of the denomination's Radio and Television Commission, said the project plans to avoid the "shallow kind of religion" which he said has become the vogue on the air.

"We are going to try to go back to fundamental Biblical teachings," he said. "We believe that is the greatest contribution we can make to religious life in America."

In outlining the new program which will extend Southern Baptist broadcasting into northern metropolitan centers, Dr. Stevens sharply criticized much current religious broadcasting.

"It is a synthetic religion, a sort of religious cod liver oil that becomes nauseating," he said. "You can't grow great Americans feeding them that."

He told a news conference that perhaps the most effective religious radio-television work is being done by Lutherans and Roman Catholics.

The new Southern Baptist program, which by next year will be using an annual budget of about $700,000, will include a steady, nationwide output of radio programs, television and films, he said.

It also calls for construction soon of a $200,000 Baptist radio-television center in Fort Worth, Tex.

As part of the plans, the 14-year-old "Baptist Hour," now carried on some 400 radio stations, mostly in the South, will expand its network to outlets in New York, Cleveland, Chicago, San Francisco and Denver.

The denomination, second largest Protestant body in the country, also will begin distributing "pretested" television packages — scripts and formats—to its 30,000 churches for use on local stations.

Dr. Stevens said the new Baptist television series, to be called "This Is the Answer," will be based directly on Biblical parables, with the characters placed against modern backgrounds and situations.

"It will be an attempt to let the Bible prove itself all over again as a timeless book," he said. "It will show that the stories are as apropos now as they were at the time Jesus told them."

"Next Promotion Could Kill You," Doctor Warns Junior Executives

By FRANK CAREY

WASHINGTON, March 17 (AP) — Watch out, you eager-beaver junior executives, because "your next promotion could kill you."

Dr. Robert Collier Page, president of the Industrial Medical Assn., gave this warning yesterday. Addressing the Advertising Club of Washington, he said all business executives should check up on their emotional and physical capacities and stay within them, even if it means turning down a higher job.

"It is imperative," he said, "for each executive to know what his health is and to learn to live within the budget nature has given him. The issue can never be dodged. Let's face it!

"Your prospects for the years just ahead are exceptionally promising.

"Expanding industry is hard-pressed to find new leaders. Opportunity for every able man and woman will be spelled out in letters as big as barn doors. That is the promise."

But he added:

"Now, the warning. There is a terrible danger hidden in the opportunities of this coming upheaval in business. Unless you are up to the challenge mentally and physically, your next promotion could kill you.

"A bit of honest self-analysis would help everybody," he continued, "and especially the younger, ambitious junior executive. The rule is that promotion is based on what you have done. If you want more of that, and the added responsibility too, a bigger load of both will be good for you if no physical ailment stands in the way. You will expand and grow.

"But most people don't enjoy responsibility. If you don't want it, it is best to recognize it. Promotion, if it adds responsibility, may be your misfortune."

Last-Course Smorgasbord!

BING CHERRY SAUCE

- 2 tbsp. sugar
- 1 tbsp. cornstarch
- Few grains salt
- ½ cup syrup from canned Bing cherries
- ¼ cup orange juice
- 1 tsp. butter
- Few drops almond extract
- 1¼ cups canned Bing cherries, drained

Combine sugar, cornstarch and salt in saucepan; mix well. Stir in cherry syrup and orange juice gradually. Cook until thickened and clear, stirring constantly. Stir in butter and extract. Fold in cherries. Cool. About 1½ cups. 5 to 6 servings.

CARAMEL SAUCE

- ¾ cup light corn syrup
- 3 tbsp. cream
- 3 tbsp. milk
- Few grains salt

Cook corn syrup in heavy saucepan over moderate heat without stirring until light brown. Reduce heat slightly; add cream and milk slowly, mixing until smooth after each addition. Add salt. 6 servings.

MOCHA FUDGE SAUCE

- 3 squares unsweetened chocolate
- ½ cup strong coffee
- ¼ cup milk
- ⅔ cup sugar
- 1 tbsp. butter
- Few grains salt
- ½ tsp. vanilla

Cook chocolate, coffee and milk together over low heat, stirring constantly until smooth. Add sugar butter and salt. Continue to cook over moderate heat, stirring constantly 3 to 5 min. or until slightly thickened. Remove from heat. Add vanilla. Serve warm or cold. About 1½ cups. 8 to 12 servings.

Good Cook's Test

When you're making up a recipe or trying a new one, taste the mixture occasionally so that its flavor will be just right—neither overly spiced nor flat-tasting.

Bacon Kabobs

Alternate chunks of cooked green pepper, onions, carrots and fresh tomato wedges with pieces of bacon on skewers. Brush them with butter or margarine and broil. Serve the kabobs as the main dish for lunch or on a platter with a meat dish for attractive, edible garnishes.

A-Bomb Which Brought Change To Japan Also Opened Gate To Christianity, Priest Reports

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

NEW YORK, March 17 (AP)—The bomb fell. Then came a churning, religious whirlwind.

"People began groping to find a way," said a man who felt the blast of that bomb and who stands today in the midst of that wind.

Father Pedro de Arrupe was talking about a land which was shaken to its roots by war and the bomb—Japan.

"The effect has brought on a terrific spiritual struggle," he said.

It's as if the bomb, in its awesome power, emphasized the ultimate questions of life or death, and worried men's hearts.

Could it be, then, that coming face-to-face with the bomb caused a greater search for goodness?

"I could never say there was anything good in the bomb," said Father Arrupe, who remembers too well the nightmare he lived through at Hiroshima.

Yet, he said, it did bring a "closeness to the elements, to suffering, and a more serious reflection on religion and eternity."

And afterward, a flood of about 300 new "religions" swirled across the land, led by two which hardly got a nod before—Christianity and Marxism.

Father Arrupe, as provincial of the Society of Jesus in Japan, directs work of a fast-expanding band of Catholic priests, now numbering 310. He noted both promise and peril in the post-war ideological ferment.

"It left a spiritual void," he said. "Because of Japan's high intellectual level and advanced organization, the ideas she chooses now will influence the whole Orient."

The blast came while Father Arrupe, a priest in Japan for 17 years worked in his Hiroshima study five miles from the center. Uninjured, he led 45 priests in sleepless days of aid to maimed thousands.

"Everywhere, people were lying or crawling, blinded or burned," he said. "The whole city was burning. For many days we could not stop for rest, knowing that every 15 minutes of work saved a life."

With 200 of the city's 250 doctors killed, Father Arrupe's five years of medical training served a crying need.

And then, with the war ended and the bomb site a mass of ruble, he found himself amid new wounds—of the spirit. Few Westerners have been so close to the strange before-and-after metamorphosis.

"All the traditions were cut away and the old convictions collapsed he said. "The people's whole attitude has changed, as if by shock. They are ready to discuss absolute values. They are looking for the truth."

All this, he said, has these oddly conflicting overtones:

Before the war, the people were extremely moral, proud, orderly, rigidly convinced of the superiority of their nationalist institutions, so honest that lock on a door was a disgrace.

They also were hostile to Christianity.

After the war and the bomb, all this tight-knit assurance faded, the staunch traditions and loyalties crumbled, old virtues fell away, crime rose, and new locks sealed nearly every door.

Yet, the change also opened the gate to Christianity.

"The opportunity also was opened to any kind of ideology," Father Arrupe said. "All sorts of new religions started up. And the people's background was such that it is difficult for them to judge."

Father Arrupe, a wiry, learned, off here on return to Japan from Spanish-born priest who stopped consultations in Rome, said the strongest rivals in Japan now are Marxism and Christianity.

"Both are making progress," he said. "In numbers, perhaps Marxism is ahead. But in depth, Christianity is laying a stronger base."

Many of the new religions have died out, but about 150 still are going, he said. "Tenriko," a rosy-viewed, optimistic pantheism, is among the most widespread. Buddhism and Shintoism, he said, have lost their grips.

"If we don't provide a real certitude of faith," Father Arrupe said, "it will mean the disintegration of the country. There will be nothing meaningful to replace what was lost."

"In a way, they were settled and happy before, but they now are trying to find another way. It will be a terrible tragedy if they see the West's materialism as its main substance, and get off on the wrong track."

However, he said, the Japanese character has a close relation to Christianity. Their kindess, virtue, respect for authority, and emphasis on ancestral truths all show a "real spirituality," he said.

"Today, they are thinking, criticizing, reading everything from French existentialism to Hegel and Nietzsche, things they never did before. They have an open mind to freedom, to religion, to new ideas."

In this atmosphere, the Jesuit order has more than tripled its force in Japan since the war, in its work at the Catholic University in Tokyo, where Father Arrupe resides, and in building parishes through the country.

Did the bomb bring this expanded opportunity for Christianity?

Father Arrupe again shook his head, pondering. "It was a frightening tragic thing. It is part of the world's mechanism, of hate and power. And there is no answer except in deeper principles, in morals, in the hearts and homes of men."

He paused: "Yes, it did in a way illustrate the urgency of solving a spiritual crisis."

Yet, he said, memory of horror fades for many men, and they think only of building a bigger bomb.

Would the people of Hiroshima ever think this way?

"No, not them. They would rather not talk about it."

On The Line

NEW YORK, March 17 (INS) — Pat O'Brien, on his last trip to Ireland, ran across an early Madonna and Child by an unknown Irish painter. As is the custom through many lands, the painter envisioned Mary as one of his own. In his portrait of her, she's Irish through and through, and so is the child.

Pat copied down the legend under the painting, and it is Irish too. It read:

I am the mother of God
This is Himself I am holding —The Lad you will all be asking for
At the end.

Having a TV or comic book or movie problem, with the kids? Then a 25 cent pamphlet put out by the Public Affairs Committee, 22 E. 38th Street, N.Y.C., a non-profit organization, might help. The writer is Josette Frank, educational associate on the staff of the Child Study Association of America. In the course of much other interesting material she suggests nine steps by which parents can help meet the problems created by these media:

(1)—Try to understand the interests and needs of your children; (2) know what your children are reading, seeing, hearing. See and hear with them their preferred programs and chosen films. Invite them to share some of your own choices and others you think they will enjoy; (3) discuss their programs, comics, movies with them, without censure or condescension, and thus help them develop critical judgment.

Also, (4) respect their rights and feelings. Don't arbitrarily tear up a comic they are reading, interrupt a program, or drag them out of a movie in the middle. They will accept the forbidding of undesirable ones more readily if you are also considerate; (5) say a firm "no" to certain comics, programs, or movies that seem to upset them. Sit with a child through some exciting programs he seems to want.

And (6) help them budget their time for the things that must be done, allowing for their favorite entertainments within reason; (7) if comics, movies, radio or TV absorb a child to the exclusion of other interests and activities, talk over with him and work out together a sensible plan for cutting down or selecting more wisely; (8) see that they have other interests, friendships, hobbies, responsibilities, varied experiences, and help them discover how to use the library; (9) take part in your community's efforts to safeguard children from vicious horror and crime comics, programs, and movies.

Dr. W. Kenneth Davis, of the Atomic Energy Commission, on the birth of controlled atomic energy at the University of Chicago:

"Shortly after 10 a. m. (Dec. 2, 1942) the late Enrico Fermi, an Italian, ordered the emergency rod pulled. Dr. W. Zinn, a Canadian by birth, pulled out the rod. George Weil, an American, started withdrawing the regulating rod. Associated with Dr. Fermi in this experiment were the Hungarians Szilard and Wigner and the Canadians Christy, Froman and Slotin. The Russian Gregory Breit and the German James Frank also contributed much to the success of the venture together with a score of others both from this country and abroad.

"Behind this achievement there was Hahn and Strassman of Germany with their discovery of fission, Neils Bohr of Denmark with his work on the structure of the atom, Einstein of Germany, Cockcroft of England, the Curies of England and Poland — even back to Democritus in Greece."

All of which noble thoughts on the brotherhood of science lead to a startling handout just received from the Malayan Tin Bureau. The first sentence reads:

"How would the tin can and its contents fare in atomic warfare?"

In case this puzzler worries you, the answer will be known sometime next month when 25,000 cans of things, including beans, will be exposed to a blast at Yucca Flat, Nev.

Religion Today

A-Bomb Which Brought Change To Japan Also Opened Gate To Christianity, Priest Reports

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

NEW YORK, March 17 (AP)—The bomb fell. Then came a churning, religious whirlwind.

"People began groping to find a way," said a man who felt the blast of that bomb and who stands today in the midst of that wind.

Father Pedro de Arrupe was talking about a land which was shaken to its roots by war and the bomb—Japan.

"The effect has brought on a terrific spiritual struggle," he said.

It's as if the bomb, in its awesome power, emphasized the ultimate questions of life or death, and worried men's hearts.

Could it be, then, that coming face-to-face with the bomb caused a greater search for goodness?

"I could never say there was anything good in the bomb," said Father Arrupe, who remembers too well the nightmare he lived through at Hiroshima.

Yet, he said, it did bring a "closeness to the elements, to suffering, and a more serious reflection on religion and eternity."

And afterward, a flood of about 300 new "religions" swirled across the land, led by two which hardly got a nod before—Christianity and Marxism.

Father Arrupe, as provincial of the Society of Jesus in Japan, directs work of a fast-expanding band of Catholic priests, now numbering 310. He noted both promise and peril in the post-war ideological ferment.

"It left a spiritual void," he said. "Because of Japan's high intellectual level and advanced organization, the ideas she chooses now will influence the whole Orient."

The blast came while Father Arrupe, a priest in Japan for 17 years worked in his Hiroshima study five miles from the center. Uninjured, he led 45 priests in sleepless days of aid to maimed thousands.

"Everywhere, people were lying or crawling, blinded or burned," he said. "The whole city was burning. For many days we could not stop for rest, knowing that every 15 minutes of work saved a life."

With 200 of the city's 250 doctors killed, Father Arrupe's five years of medical training served a crying need.

And then, with the war ended and the bomb site a mass of ruble, he found himself amid new wounds—of the spirit. Few Westerners have been so close to the strange before-and-after metamorphosis.

"All the traditions were cut away and the old convictions collapsed he said. "The people's whole attitude has changed, as if by shock. They are ready to discuss absolute values. They are looking for the truth."

All this, he said, has these oddly conflicting overtones:

Before the war, the people were extremely moral, proud, orderly, rigidly convinced of the superiority of their nationalist institutions, so honest that lock on a door was a disgrace.

They also were hostile to Christianity.

After the war and the bomb, all this tight-knit assurance faded, the staunch traditions and loyalties crumbled, old virtues fell away, crime rose, and new locks sealed nearly every door.

Yet, the change also opened the gate to Christianity.

"The opportunity also was opened to any kind of ideology," Father Arrupe said. "All sorts of new religions started up. And the people's background was such that it is difficult for them to judge."

Father Arrupe, a wiry, learned, off here on return to Japan from Spanish-born priest who stopped consultations in Rome, said the strongest rivals in Japan now are Marxism and Christianity.

"Both are making progress," he said. "In numbers, perhaps Marxism is ahead. But in depth, Christianity is laying a stronger base."

Many of the new religions have died out, but about 150 still are going, he said. "Tenriko," a rosy-viewed, optimistic pantheism, is among the most widespread. Buddhism and Shintoism, he said, have lost their grips.

"If we don't provide a real certitude of faith," Father Arrupe said, "it will mean the disintegration of the country. There will be nothing meaningful to replace what was lost."

"In a way, they were settled and happy before, but they now are trying to find another way. It will be a terrible tragedy if they see the West's materialism as its main substance, and get off on the wrong track."

However, he said, the Japanese character has a close relation to Christianity. Their kindess, virtue, respect for authority, and emphasis on ancestral truths all show a "real spirituality," he said.

Weather And Your Home Freezer

The weather forecast may be your cue to set the temperature control of your home freezer down to its coldest position, says A. V. Kerwatch, agricultural engineer, University of Maryland Extension Service.

That's particularly true if a heavy storm is on the way — a blizzard, sleet, high winds or other conditions that may effect power lines and cause a temporary shut-off of electricity. It's wise to get the food in your freezer as cold as possible. The colder the food, the longer it will stay frozen without electricity.

Kerwatch advises another precaution. Locate the nearest place that sells dry ice—for example a local dairy, ice cream sales place, or a cold storage warehouse — in case you need to buy some to put in the freezer to keep food frozen. Also learn whether you can rush your frozen food to your nearest locker plant, if necessary, for safe keeping.

Then, if the power does fail, try to find out how long the shut-off will last. If it's only a few hours, don't worry about the food in the freezer. But don't open the freezer and let in warmth while the power is off.

Kerwatch says that during Hurricane Hazel some rather full freezers kept three and into the fourth day before much thawing took place. However, many homemakers made the mistake of opening freezers often to see if food was getting soft.

With the freezer closed, food will usually stay well frozen in a fully loaded cabinet two days and in a cabinet with less than half a load not more than a day. But excessive thawing will not start for at least three days.

Kerwatch points out that there are only three reasons for opening the freezer during a power cut-off —to put in dry ice; to remove frozen food to a locker plant; and to take out food needed in the emergency.

Mary Ann Surprises

1 package vanilla pudding
1 cup water
8 sponge cake shells
1 pint mixed, cut or diced, sweetened fruit*
½ cup whipped cream

Combine pudding and water in a small sauce pan. Cook over moderate heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and begins to boil. Coat the inside of each sponge cake shell with about 2 tablespoons pudding. Arrange fruit over all. Top each serving with a tablespoon whipped cream.

Yield: 8 Mary Ann Surprises.

Upside Down Apricot Cake

2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
¼ cup granulated sugar
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 tablespoons apricot liquid
1 white cake layer, 8 or 9-inch
1 (No. 2) can apricot halves, drained
¼ cup pecan halves
¼ cup whipped cream

Combine butter, sugar, lemon juice and apricot liquid. Spread evenly over bottom of a layer cake pan. Cover mixture with apricot halves arranged as follows: Alternate apricots, by turning every other one face up, in outer circle. Place apricots face down in middle circle. Place apricots face up in center circle. Place a pecan half in those apricots whose pit side is down. Place cake layer over apricots. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for fifteen minutes. Let cake stand one or two minutes after removing from oven. Invert pan to remove cake so that apricot mixture is on top. Garnish center of cooled cake with whipped cream.

Yield: 6-8 servings.

Every Day Is Cherry Pie Day!

Outmoded is the theory that only an expert can bake a perfect cherry pie. Outmoded, also, is the method requiring hours of preparation, only to take from the oven a pie that falls short of the "particular' home-maker's goal!

Oh! How things have changed! Specifically, how cherry pies have changed! Today's home-maker makes no excuses for her cherry pie, thanks to a newly-perfected cherry pie filling that comes ready-to-use right from the can. No thickening to make. No sugar to add. No fruit to prepare. Nothing to do but pour it into your own special crust.

The manufacturers of this revolutionary pie filling have removed all guesswork from pie making. They have vacuum-packed whole, choice, tree-ripened cherries in a thickening that is just right—light, transparent and taste-tempting. It cannot boil over the crust, yet it is tender, luscious and tangy . . . a perfect cherry filling.

Anyone who can open a can can produce the best cherry pie ever with this new instant filling. Simply roll out the crust, lay it in the pan and pour the filling into the shell. No need to even turn it into another bowl . . . no extra dishes to wash. Cover the pie with a complete crust, or dress it up with a fancy lattice top. Bake until the crust is golden brown, and your family will rave.

And you will surely have cherry pie often!

In the early days of glass making in the United States, glass makers used wood for fuel and had to move their plants when the wood supply was exhausted.

Weather And Your Home Freezer

The weather forecast may be your cue to set the temperature control of your home freezer down to its coldest position, says A. V. Kerwatch, agricultural engineer, University of Maryland Extension Service.

That's particularly true if a heavy storm is on the way — a blizzard, sleet, high winds or other conditions that may effect power lines and cause a temporary shut-off of electricity. Cheese Blends For Lent

HELP yourself to your favorite hot soup and a piece of that "Loafer" Sandwich — for a stout sturdy meal, without meat. There are 8 meatless soups among the fine kinds from cans (asparagus, clam chowder, tomato shown). For sandwich, slice bread lengthwise; spread with mustard butter; lay on sliced Swiss cheese and rings of green pepper. Let each fellow cut his own helping.

A six letter word spelled c-h-e-e-s-e gives the key to your Lenten menu planning!

This season gives us a grand reason to brighten menus with appealing new cheese dishes, and here is where the pasteurized process cheeses and cheese spreads come into their own. You can blend them with many foods and flavors to bring their nutritious goodness to your table with a special flair.

The half-pound package of the first, and best known, of all cheese spreads is just waiting to be melted into a good dish like the "Quick Biscuit and Tuna Casserole" featured in today's columns. Here cheese brings its distinctive flavor, its high food value, into one of the quickie tuna main dishes that are a favorite with today's homemakers.

The cheese sauce is made easily by melting the cheese spread in the top of a double boiler, then gradually adding milk and, finally, seasonings. Pour this sauce over the tuna in a casserole, and shape ovenready biscuits into pocketbook rolls for a handsome topping.

A casserole to please anybody's taste, we'd say, and only needing the accompaniment of a combination salad. It's the kind of a menu that's welcome after a long siege of winter holidays, and also the kind that really gives the food budget a break.

Quick Biscuit and Tuna Casserole

2	7-oz. cans tuna, drained, flaked
* ½	lb. pasteurized process cheese spread
⅓	cup milk
½	teaspoon salt
	Dash of pepper
1	pkg. ovenready biscuits

Place the tuna in a casserole. Melt the cheese spread in the top of a double boiler. Gradually add the milk, stirring constantly until the sauce is smooth. Add the salt and pepper and pour the sauce over the tuna.

Fold each biscuit in half into a pocketbook roll and place around the edge of the casserole. Bake in a hot oven, 425°, for 15 minutes or until the biscuits are done and lightly browned.

Canned Salmon Is Favorite

Canned salmon is a favorite with Mrs. Homemaker, for this fish with its delicious flavor and high nutritive value is perfect for hearty main-dish fare. Because it comes in convenient, ready-to-use cans, there's no waste at all. Even the light-colored oil may be added to sauces, salad dressings and casserole dishes. In buying canned salmon, remember that there are a variety of packs available. There are five different species of canned salmon but these species show little variation in food value and can be used interchangeably in most recipes. Ranging from the fancier red to the less expensive pink and chum, there's a kind to fit each use and pocketbook. All are rich in body-building protein and rate high in vitamins and minerals.

Salmon labeled red or Alaska red sockeye is deep red in color. Firm in texture, it's fine for hot dishes and salads, or served in chunks as it comes from the can.

Chinook or king salmon on the label denotes a deep pink-red color. The large flakes and abundance of rich oil make this pack an excellent choice for salads.

Coho or silver salmon is somewhat lighter red in color and has a firm texture and smaller flakes. Its fine flavor is good in all dishes.

Pink salmon enjoys popularity everywhere. Though smallest of all salmons, sometimes nearly half the entire pack is from this species. Small-flaked and ranging from light to deep pink in color—it makes attractive main dishes, soups and sandwiches.

Chum or keta salmon is large-flaked, lighter in color and has less oil than the other varieties. Usually labeled chum, it's especially suitable for all cooked dishes where color is not important.

Canned salmon is available in ¼ and ½-pound cans as well as the familiar 1 lb. can. These smaller sizes are perfect for small families, sandwich makings, party snacks.

A well-stocked pantry shelf includes some salmon "specials," too. Salmon steaks or cutlets are grand when heated in a moderate oven or under the broiler. Serve topped with egg, creole or tartar sauce. In addition, they make a wonderful salad. Simply chill the canned steak or cutlet and serve on crisp greens, with your favorite mayonnaise or salad dressing.

Paper-thin and smoked to perfection are canned smoked salmon fillets. They provide the fixings for tasty hors d'oeuvres and canapes.

Salmon dinner is another heat and eat specialty. A wonderful combination of salmon chunks, tender macaroni and garden peas, it's hearty eating, yet saves lots of time and trouble.

A can of cheese and salmon spread is wonderful on crackers or toasted bread. It's just the right blending of flavors—and just right for after-school snacks and midnight suppers.

There's a pack of salmon to suit any menu or occasion. Served hot or cold, it's wonderful food for your money and for good nourishing eating.

Corned Beef Hash Mold

For an easy-to-prepare, handsome dinner dish which will make 8 to 10 servings, combine 1 cup milk and 2 well-beaten eggs. Blend thoroughly with 2 1-pound cans of corned beef hash. Pack into a well-greased and floured 1-quart ring mold. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) for 30 minutes. Turn onto a hot platter. Fill the center of the mold with buttered green peas or corn.

China Having Food Troubles Under Red Rule

TOKYO, March 17 (AP) — China, land of farmers, is having food trouble again under its Communist masters—even as in Russia.

Some of the troubles are spelled out in a Peiping radio broadcast of decisions reached at a recent meeting of the ruling State Council. The State Council called for a 10-million-ton increase this year in the grain crop "or 6 per cent more grain this year than in 1954." This would put the 1954 grain crop at 167 million tons, although the Peiping regime announced last December it hit a record 170 million tons.

For all the claims of improved farming methods, of Soviet technical help, of state farms, of cooperative farms, 170 million tons is hardly impressive. Even in 1944-55, when China was rent by war, great areas ravaged by conflict or occupied by the Japanese, the country raised 141½ million tons of grain.

What are the causes of the food trouble?

The council gave these:

1. Increased demand city populato feed the growing city populations as a result of the expansion of industry and mining and increased consumption on farms.

2. Diversion of food crop land to industrial crops needed to feed light industry. The Communists ordered an increase in cotton production, for example, at the expense of food crops.

3. Export of food "to insure the import of necessary industrial equipment." The machinery that Red China gets from other Communist lands for its industrialization is paid for largely by food.

4. Floods cut savagely into rice production in 1954.

There is another prime cause, not mentioned by Peiping, but the subject of many reports reaching Hong Kong from Red China—the great peasant purges and the agrarian revolt.

Shortly after the Communists solidified their power in 1950, they began the purge of "landlords" and "rich peasants." By firing squad, by enforced labor and by confiscation they were liquidated.

Cities were swollen by dispossessed farmers looking for work. Production slumped. Peasants who got in on the land redistribution often found they were given hardly enough land to support themselves.

And Utopia did not last. The Communist taxgatherers came and took the grain. There were reports of peasant "grain tax" revolts. Peiping broadcasts told of "bandits" destroying or damaging crops.

By November of 1953, however, the Communist regime felt confident enough to announce to the peasants that their days as private capitalists were numbered. Eventually they would go into collective farms or industry.

This certainly did nothing to increase the cooperation of the peasants. By the spring of 1954, Peiping was conceding serious food shortages and imposing food rationing.

HONG KONG, March 17 (AP) — Peiping is steering through the first shoals toward farm collectivization in a series of camouflaged maneuvers.

The new landowners are being herded into "mutual aid teams." farmers at village level have always shared labor, animals and tools.

But the second step—the combining of many mutual aid teams into "farm cooperatives" is coming harder.

Here the farms of many farmers are joined into a single producing unit with a party boss in charge. The farmers technically retain ownership, and get some rent therefrom, and work the "cooperative" jointly, getting wages therefore. They have no say as to what is to be raised, how weather emergencies are to be met, or on other problems.

The next step is the collective, so far developed in only a few places. Once a cooperative is firmly under control, it can be changed into a collective by an order, and the peasants know it.

Red propaganda makes little effort to cloak the fact that the new landowners are trying to avoid the cooperatives, and in some places are even resigning from the mutual aid teams because they realize these lead to the cooperatives.

How long will this be condoned?

The Reds are beginning to pressure the peasants into the collective when the lures of mutual and and cooperatives fail. That, if Russian experience is repeated, means somebody will have to order them and be powerful and ruthless to push the orders through.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, March 17 (INS)—I caught up with John Wayne as he was on his way to talk with John Ford about "The Searchers," which I told you he would make for Ford as his next picture.

I asked about the rumor that he is planning to sign a new deal with Warner Brothers. He said it's true and that he has a date with Jack Warner on Monday to finalize it.

"We plan to release other independent pictures besides Wayne-Fellows productions," said John, "so it's very likely that my partner in the Wayne-Fellows Company, Bob Fellows, will head our new releasing service.

"The Wayne-Fellows Company made five million dollars on one picture last year and seven million on another. Not bad when you think two of our pictures are in the top ten."

Not bad, indeed!

Vic Mature is the latest to sign up on one of those independent company contracts releasing through busy, busy (signing of stars) United Artists. If you ask me, Vic is just about the only one who could finance his own pictures if what you hear about his bankroll is true. (He says his hidden wealth is greatly exaggerated, particularly by his about-to-be-ex-wife's lawyer!)

Anyway, Vic has agreed to make six films over a period of five years, and he plans to star in three of them and just boss the other three. So far, no story is selected.

Kevin McCarthy flew here for just 24 hours to have a plaster cast made of his body (gruesome, what?) for Walter Wanger's next at Allied Artists, "The Body Snatchers."

While the cast dries, Kevin is planing back to Stamford, Conn., to play a week's engagement in Bill Holden's role in "Stalag 17."

Had a nice letter from Line Renaud (Bob Hope's discovery), who gets here tomorrow for her engagement at the Cocoanut Grove. On Sunday, the Frank Loessers are giving her a cocktail party.

Sidney Blackmer, who had a very serious operation at Christmas and for a time was not expected to live, is feeling fine now and is here doing a TV show.

Mrs. Jimmy Ritz and her baby daughter are home after only four days in the hospital.

Edith Piaf, who crowded the Versailles in New York for weeks and weeks, will undoubtedly do the same at the Biltmore Theatre when she opens Monday in her first appearance in Los Angeles in three years.

China Having Food Troubles Under Red Rule

TOKYO, March 17 (AP) — China, land of farmers, is having food trouble again under its Communist masters—even as in Russia.

Some of the troubles are spelled out in a Peiping radio broadcast of decisions reached at a recent meeting of the ruling State Council. The State Council called for a 10-million-ton increase this year in the grain crop "or 6 per cent more grain this year than in 1954." This would put the 1954 grain crop at 167 million tons, although the Peiping regime announced last December it hit a record 170 million tons.

For all the claims of improved farming methods, of Soviet technical help, of state farms, of cooperative farms, 170 million tons is hardly impressive. Even in 1944-55, when China was rent by war, great areas ravaged by conflict or occupied by the Japanese, the country raised 141½ million tons of grain.

What are the causes of the food trouble?

The council gave these:

1. Increased demand city populato feed the growing city populations as a result of the expansion of industry and mining and increased consumption on farms.

2. Diversion of food crop land to industrial crops needed to feed light industry. The Communists ordered an increase in cotton production, for example, at the expense of food crops.

3. Export of food "to insure the import of necessary industrial equipment." The machinery that Red China gets from other Communist lands for its industrialization is paid for largely by food.

4. Floods cut savagely into rice production in 1954.

There is another prime cause, not mentioned by Peiping, but the subject of many reports reaching Hong Kong from Red China—the great peasant purges and the agrarian revolt.

Shortly after the Communists solidified their power in 1950, they began the purge of "landlords" and "rich peasants." By firing squad, by enforced labor and by confiscation they were liquidated.

Cities were swollen by dispossessed farmers looking for work. Production slumped. Peasants who got in on the land redistribution often found they were given hardly enough land to support themselves.

And Utopia did not last. The Communist taxgatherers came and took the grain. There were reports of peasant "grain tax" revolts. Peiping broadcasts told of "bandits" destroying or damaging crops.

By November of 1953, however, the Communist regime felt confident enough to announce to the peasants that their days as private capitalists were numbered. Eventually they would go into collective farms or industry.

This certainly did nothing to increase the cooperation of the peasants. By the spring of 1954, Peiping was conceding serious food shortages and imposing food rationing.

HONG KONG, March 17 (AP) — Peiping is steering through the first shoals toward farm collectivization in a series of camouflaged maneuvers.

The new landowners are being herded into "mutual aid teams." farmers at village level have always shared labor, animals and tools.

But the second step—the combining of many mutual aid teams into "farm cooperatives" is coming harder.

Here the farms of many farmers are joined into a single producing unit with a party boss in charge. The farmers technically retain ownership, and get some rent therefrom, and work the "cooperative" jointly, getting wages therefore. They have no say as to what is to be raised, how weather emergencies are to be met, or on other problems.

The next step is the collective, so far developed in only a few places. Once a cooperative is firmly under control, it can be changed into a collective by an order, and the peasants know it.

Red propaganda makes little effort to cloak the fact that the new landowners are trying to avoid the cooperatives, and in some places are even resigning from the mutual aid teams because they realize these lead to the cooperatives.

How long will this be condoned?

The Reds are beginning to pressure the peasants into the collective when the lures of mutual and and cooperatives fail. That, if Russian experience is repeated, means somebody will have to order them and be powerful and ruthless to push the orders through.

Keep Color Of Meat

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, March 17 (INS)—I caught up with John Wayne as he was on his way to talk with John Ford about "The Searchers," which I told you he would make for Ford as his next picture.

I asked about the rumor that he is planning to sign a new deal with Warner Brothers. He said it's true and that he has a date with Jack Warner on Monday to finalize it.

"We plan to release other independent pictures besides Wayne-Fellows productions," said John, "so it's very likely that my partner in the Wayne-Fellows Company, Bob Fellows, will head our new releasing service.

"The Wayne-Fellows Company made five million dollars on one picture last year and seven million on another. Not bad when you think two of our pictures are in the top ten."

Not bad, indeed!

Vic Mature is the latest to sign up on one of those independent company contracts releasing through busy, busy (signing of stars) United Artists. If you ask me, Vic is just about the only one who could finance his own pictures if what you hear about his bankroll is true. (He says his hidden wealth is greatly exaggerated, particularly by his about-to-be-ex-wife's lawyer!)

Anyway, Vic has agreed to make six films over a period of five years, and he plans to star in three of them and just boss the other three. So far, no story is selected.

Kevin McCarthy flew here for just 24 hours to have a plaster cast made of his body (gruesome, what?) for Walter Wanger's next at Allied Artists, "The Body Snatchers."

While the cast dries, Kevin is planing back to Stamford, Conn., to play a week's engagement in Bill Holden's role in "Stalag 17."

Harry Karl's heart has been mended entirely by Rhonda Fleming, whom he sees almost every night.

Had a nice letter from Line Renaud (Bob Hope's discovery), who gets here tomorrow for her engagement at the Cocoanut Grove. On Sunday, the Frank Loessers are giving her a cocktail party.

Sidney Blackmer, who had a very serious operation at Christmas and for a time was not expected to live, is feeling fine now and is here doing a TV show.

Mrs. Jimmy Ritz and her baby daughter are home after only four days in the hospital.

Edith Piaf, who crowded the Versailles in New York for weeks and weeks, will undoubtedly do the same at the Biltmore Theatre when she opens Monday in her first appearance in Los Angeles in three years.

the Siamese twins later became the first Siamese people to be naturalized citizens of the United States. They married and settled in the South as tobacco farmers. The two men fathered some 22 children, the last of whom died in 1951. There are 1,000 grandchildren of those original Siamese twins living in this country and among them are the president of the Union Pacific Railroad and a major-general in the Air Force.

Why do we offer

2 TYPES of Checking Accounts— Regular and ThriftiCheck ?

THERE IS A GOOD REASON why we offer both Regular Checking Account and THRIFTICHECK Account services to our customers.

Some people draw many checks, make frequent deposits, keep substantial sums in their accounts and give the bank's name for credit reference. A Regular Checking Account is best for them because they ordinarily maintain an account balance large enough to cover operating expenses and consequently there is little or no charge for this kind of service.

Others keep less money in their account—some have just enough to take care of the checks they draw—and the number of checks is relatively few. These customers have a THRIFTICHECK Account which normally costs only pennies per check.

Both Regular Checking and THRIFTICHECK Account customers enjoy the same advantages of convenience and safety.

Here you will find whichever checking account service is best for your own particular personal needs. May we tell you more about these services?

the Siamese twins later became the first Siamese people to be naturalized citizens of the United States. They married and settled in the South as tobacco farmers. The two men fathered some 22 children, the last of whom died in 1951. There are 1,000 grandchildren of those original Siamese twins living in this country and among them are the president of the Union Pacific Railroad and a major-general in the Air Force.

Why do we offer
2 TYPES of Checking Accounts—
Regular and ThriftiCheck ?

THERE IS A GOOD REASON why we offer both Regular Checking Account and THRIFTICHECK Account services to our customers.

Some people draw many checks, make frequent deposits, keep substantial sums in their accounts and give the bank's name for credit reference. A Regular Checking Account is best for them because they ordinarily maintain an account balance large enough to cover operating expenses and consequently there is little or no charge for this kind of service.

Others keep less money in their account—some have just enough to take care of the checks they draw—and the number of checks is relatively few. These customers have a THRIFTICHECK Account which normally costs only pennies per check.

Both Regular Checking and THRIFTICHECK Account customers enjoy the same advantages of convenience and safety.

Here you will find whichever checking account service is best for your own particular personal needs. May we tell you more about these services?

New York's Troubles Differ In Size Only

If there is any reason to find solace in the fact that someone else also has the misery, many American city officials can find comfort in the knowledge that New York City is wrestling with many of the same troubles they are.

According to a copyrighted article in the U. S. News & World Report the biggest American city currently is engaged in what seems to be a losing battle on the population trade, and financial fronts. It also is gradually losing the glamor and fascination which a decade or more ago drew young America to it with their dreams of success. Young people still go there but fewer of them stay.

With its residents steadily moving out into the suburbs, New York's eight per cent population gain between 1940 and 1953 is credited to an excess in births over deaths. The net increase was 200,000 in those years. During the 1920s the gain was 750,000.

Retail business and industry has joined with the middle class people in this movement to the areas outside the limits of the big metropolis. This loss of port trade and Wall Street's decreased control of the country's money have been factors which have put New York in financial straits. With the middle income families moving outside its limits, New York is left with a larger proportion in the lower-income group.

These then are the people who must share in the municipal tax burden which was $133.92 per capita in 1953 and is higher now. Mayor Robert F. Wagner is already looking for at least $105,000,000 in additional revenues to make ends meet next year.

As more and more workers move to surrounding areas, New York's traffic becomes heavier as suburbanites travel inadequate streets to and from work. Every day the lower part of Manhattan is jammed with an estimated 3,600,000 people and 530,000 automoblies. This congestion has been estimated to cost the big city more than a billion dollars annually.

These glimpses from the News and World Report article indicate that what New York faces is much like the problems of most other troubled American cities. The chief differences are in size.

Market Tips

The dramatic personality of Walter Winchell has highlighted an investigation into the Stock Exchange operations which otherwise has been very dull. The question is, when is a tip a tip?

Trading in stocks or bonds or anything else is part of the capitalist process of using surplus capital at risk with the object of a profit. The law of supply and demand plays a role in this process, but risk-taking often involves a factor of gambling, sometimes called speculation.

Let us say that I am in a restaurant and I hear three men converse, as I recently did, using more decibels than they imagined. It was not eavesdropping; actually they forced their private conversation upon me and upon all the others in their vicinity. I thus heard of a very important prospective transaction. I had a tip. In a word, if what these men said to each other was correct, a very sizeable fortune could be earned by an investment. If the deal fell through, I doubt whether there would be any loss at all, or at most, a small loss.

Now the question arises, should I give the tip to someone who can afford the risk, or being in the business of telling the public what comes to me, should I shout it from the housetops? This is an ethical question which different men approach from different points of view. Some believe that the responsibility is to make known what is available. Others hold to the doctrine that unless one can guarantee against loss, one should not advise in such matters. Still others feel that no one is required to accept a tip and therefore the tipster is absolved.

Winchell's contention, I believe, is that he provides advance news and not tips; that no one is required to go into the market.

The recent rise in the stock market may be due to many causes:

1. A flight from the dollar. This is often called a hedge against inflation. Undoubtedly whenever any form of inflation appears, those who have surplus capital prefer to see it in the form of equities rather than in currency or government bonds which are the same as currency. Buying shares in a company is purchasing ownership, but in most instances the buyer is only interested in equities as investments or as speculation. He transfers his responsibilities of ownership to management. Such owners of stock make a market in the stock itself as though it were a commodity, when actually it is a certificate of partial ownership.

2. John J. McCloy, chairman of the Chase National Bank, has testified before the Fulbright Committee that the stock market's current activities cannot be attributed to unusual purchases by trust funds, both personal and pension. He said that these funds amounted to "only a small fraction of the value of stock traded on the Exchange." McCloy should be well-informed on this subject because of his connection with the Chase bank, but it is known that some Foundations, which formerly invested most of their funds in bonds, moved to stocks as a hedge against inflation. Furthermore, labor unions are not only investing pension funds but the ordinary surpluses in their treasuries in common stock, often in the companies of their industry. Such investments are generally held as long-term investments. They therefore produce a shortage of stock available for trading and the price goes up.

3. A large number of mergers have taken place, offering splendid opportunities for a profit by the sale of stock. Smart operators are always looking for such opportnities and often buy on the prospect that such an opportunity may occur. When a tight proxy fight takes place and each side is anxious to come into possession of increasing amounts of stock, it is likely that the price will rise, even if only temporarily. A profit can be made during the period of anxiety.

The high prices for American equities are more likely to be due to a hedge against continued inflation than to any other cause, but the real danger to our economy lies in a possible lowering of the value of the dollar in Europe, which could be very serious indeed. The problem then that the Fulbright Committee ought to investigate if it really is concerned with our economic dangers is not the New York stock market but the world position of the dollar.

In Trouble Again

Bevan Expulsion Shows Intolerance Toward Dissent

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Europeans, particularly some of our British cousins, have a way of looking down their noses at American congressional customs, but nothing quite so drastic has ever been voted by either party in the Senate or the House as the punishment meted out by the British Labor party this week in expelling Aneurin Bevan from that party in the House of Commons.

The British press has been filled in recent months with tirades against the American Congress for failing to expell Senator McCarthy of Wisconsin, though not one word has ever been uttered advocating the elimination from the Republican party of Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon, who also broke with his party leaders.

Every member of Congress in this country can, if he wishes, change his political affiliation—as did Senator Morse recently when he announced that henceforth he would be a Democrat, even though he was elected to his present term after winning the Republican nomination in a party primary.

Expelled For Views

There is a great deal of tolerance in the United States, and loyalty to party has not been made the basis for censure or expulsion from the party. The 1952 Democratic National Convention rejected an attempt in that direction.

In this case, the British Labor party has withdrawn the party label from Mr. Bevan because of his speeches. He has been attacking the party leader—former Prime Minister Clement Attlee. Because such speeches are regarded as disloyal to the party, the Labor members of the Parliament voted 141 to 112 to expel him from the party.

Here, therefore, is a flagrant instance of punishment for views expressed. The American rule — at least prior to the "condemnation" of Senator McCarthy by Senate resolution — has been to permit members to enjoy freedom of speech in line with the spirit of the Constitution, which holds that members shall not be "questioned" for their speeches "in any other place." This certainly means no punishment can be applied inside the Congress either, since otherwise there could be libel suits instituted by one member against another.

Mr. Bevan's views are unpalatable to Americans and to a large number of Britishers. He believes, for example, the United States is responsible for the crisis in the Far East. He impatiently brushes aside Red China's intervention in the Korean War and says it was justified because she was provoked by the non-recognition policy of the United States. He says America is more of a menace to world peace than the Russians. Generally speaking, he makes the same arguments that the Communists make, though nobody has ever accused him of being in any way tied up with the Communist.

Distasteful as are Mr. Bevan's views, he has a right to express them. When the British Labor party says that only persons of a certain attitude toward questions can be permitted inside the party, it is, in effect, urging conformity of thought and expressing intolerance toward those who hold a different view on public questions.

It is most unfortunate that Britain's parliamentary leaders on the Socialist side have allowed themselves to become victims of the current hysteria toward conformity of thought. Party discipline may withhold any posts of authority from those who differ from the majority, but to expel a man from the party on whose ticket he ran for office is to endow the party caucus or conference with rights above those of the voters themselves.

Party Primaries?

Maybe the British need to introduce the party-primary system so that the people may say what they want the Laborites to stand for, and this, of course, can be determined by posing before the voters conflicting viewpoints between which the voters could choose.

From the standpoint of international relations, it may be thought expedient to discipline Mr. Bevan, but the leader, Mr. Attlee, also has been expressing severe criticism of American policy in the Far East.

It is really a simple case of intolerance toward dissent, and one need not have the slightest sympathy with Mr. Bevan's views—and certainly this correspondent hasn't—to regret that an important principle is being disregarded in a great English-speaking democracy. For it now is written that a duly elected member of Parliament has been punished for expressing views unpopular with his party.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Not often enough we get a Borah, a Bob Taft or a Harry Byrd whose conscience is his guide. And who doesn't require a rescue expedition.

Harry is the watch dog of the deficit. Which is as self-funding as the chicken membrane in Rockefeller Institute.

He watches the treasury with the jealous eye of a man who doesn't have to take off his shoes to count to 20.

He knows that the treasury is one place where you cannot depend on solar heat.

And that Newton's Law of Gravitation proves that you cannot get more out of a barrel than you put into it.

So when Harry heard the Democrats were for quick nibbles and small bites he said, "That's not for the Byrds."

It took a bit of doing for Harry to take a flat-footed stance against his fellow Democrats. It proves that politics stop at the water's edge. If you're far enough inland.

But as chairman of the Senate Finance squad he knows you cannot squeeze plasma out of a rutabaga.

But, on the side, keed, is there any chance of getting that 20 reduction?

Sale Of Synthetic Rubber Factories Expected To Cause Hike In Prices

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Congressman Wright Patman of Texas, chief defender of little business, has made an important prediction which I hope will not be 83 per cent accurate. He predicts that the price of rubber—and proportionately the tires you buy—will go up to 80 cents a pound this year.

The price is now 38 cents. But already, says Patman, it's gone up from 22 cents on the prospect that the big tire and oil companies will control all the synthetic rubber of the U.S.A. after they get the government rubber plants on March 26.

"The price may even go up to 80 cents a pound if Congress approves this deal," Patman told his colleagues. "There's nothing to stop it. And the little man will have to depend upon the big monopolies for his supply. If the price goes up, as it did in the case of aluminum, the little rubber fabricators will be squeezed out of business just as the small aluminum fabricators were squeezed out."

Congressman Sterling Cole of New York, a Republican whose father-in-law is a high official of Corning Glass, and who wants to go even further than Eisenhower in giving government-developed atomic patents to big business, tried to put Patman on the spot. He asked when he had made up his mind to introduce a resolution stopping the sale of government factories.

"Honestly, my friend," replied Patman, "I thought that this was such a raw deal that somebody on your committee would introduce the resolution, or that the committee would otherwise take steps to stop the transaction. I only came in when it was absolutely necessary."

Cole didn't reply. Patman forced Democratic Chairman Vinson also to run to cover when Vinson contended that small rubber fabricators would be protected by the Justice Department under our anti-trust laws if the big rubber companies shut off their supplies after taking over the government plants.

"Mr. Chairman, you are not that naive?" questioned Patman. "That is just like sending a rabbit to the corner grocery to get a head of lettuce."

Amid laughter, the Texan explained: "They (the big companies) are going to take care of themselves first."

Stassen's Black List

It isn't supposed to be known, but Harold Stassen has a black list for American colleges and universities.

Stassen has used a long string of colleges to help in foreign aid, and most of them are doing good jobs. The University of California is assisting the University of Indonesia in developing its medical school. Columbia's Teachers College in New York is helping to set up teachers colleges in Afghanistan. Cornell is expanding the agricultural branch of the University of the Philippines. Georgetown University is assisting five Yugoslav universities in establishing English-language institutes.

However, on Stassen's black list are Syracuse University's School of Public Administration and Roosevelt College in Chicago. They get no invitations to help in overseas aid.

When Dr. Roscoe Martin, Dean of political science at Syracuse, heard about the black list, he came to Washington.

Appleby happens to have been right-hand assistant to Henry Wallace when he was secretary of agriculture, and a close friend of Milton Eisenhower, once also a top assistant to Wallace. In fact, both Appleby and Wallace intervened to keep Milton in the Agriculture Department where he was serving as a holdover Republican appointee from the Hoover administration. Jim Farley wanted to kick him out, but, thanks to Wallace and Appleby, he remained.

Roosevelt College in Chicago is on the Stassen black list not so much because of its name but because it was established with union-labor backing and is closely identified with the labor movement.

NOTE 1—Appleby has been appointed by Gov. Averell Harriman to be New York state budget director, so perhaps Syracuse will now be removed from Stassen's black list.

NOTE 2—Despite the fact that Syracuse's Public administration School is on the Stassen black list, 14 of its graduates are employed by Stassen, including his own executive secretary, Joseph Toner. Syracuse University itself is not on the black list and is working with Iran's teacher-training school.

Stassen is spending $25,000,000 through American colleges on foreign aid. Among other colleges he's picked are:

Oklahoma A&M, $2,434,000, to set up schools in Ethiopia; Penn State, $75,000, to help Formosa establish a department of industrial education; Purdue, $250,000, to aid the rural University of Minas Gerais in Brazil; University of Southern California, $710,000, to work with the University of Teheran; Texas A & M, $1,700,000 to assist the University of Dacca in East Pakistan; Texas U, $230,000, to teach engineering instruction at the University of Chulalongkorn in Thailand; Wisconsin U, $680,000, to help India's Bengal Engineering College; University of Wyoming, $115,000, to help the government of Afghanistan in regard to agriculture and engineering; University of Maryland, $900,000, to help British Guiana develop economic and social aids; Harvard, $17,000, to aid health in Peru; Colorado A&M, $500,000, to advise the University of Peshawar in Pakistan; Michigan State, $226,820, to help the University of Sao Paulo in business administration.

Atom War For Quemoy?

By Stewart Alsop

HONG KONG

Take the grave weakness of the American armed forces on this side of the Pacific. Blend in what seems to be the American policy in the Formosa crisis. Add the formidable array of Chinese Communist military power. Then bake at crisis heat.

What you get from this repellent recipe is the clear possibility, almost verging on the likelihood, that the United States will end by having to fight an atomic war for Formosa's offshore islands.

That is not the Eisenhower administration's intention of course. The intention is to make a cease-fire deal, or to teach the Communists to mind their manners in a "limited" fight. But the administration's intention has less and less relation to the real drift of events.

It can be safely predicted that the Chinese Communists will not formally assent to a cease-fire. In this city where the best information on Communist China is available, every competent authority, American, British and Chinese, also agrees that Peking means to attack the offshore islands this spring. Therefore, unless the National Security Council again reverses American policy, a fight for the off-shore islands involving American forces is now in the cards.

"No" The Only Answer

In such a fight, the air battle will be crucial. A powerful Communist force is now massed for the air battle in the great Chinese airbase complex in Chekiang and Kiangsi provinces, as already described in this space. Have we, then any assurance of beating this powerful Communist air force without using the absolute weapons?

An unhappy "no" is the only possible answer to this key question. No one can give any other answer, who knows the hard facts of our weakness.

Our only prospective allies, the Chinese Nationalists, have one unready group of F-86 fighters and one obsolete group of F-84s to match the very great Communist strength in jet aircraft. All the rest of the small Nationalist air force is composed of rotary engined types.

The U. S. Far Eastern Air Force has some 500 planes less on its roster today than on the grim day when the Korean War began. Furthermore, it has no bombers whatever except for one group of B-36s on Guam. As they have been exclusively trained with atomic weapons, the B-36s cannot hit a fair sized county with conventional bombs.

Burden Falls On Fleet

Finally, there is the Seventh Fleet, with its total strength of six carriers and no replacements in sight. On the Seventh Fleet will fall—must fall—almost the whole burden of the air offensive. Refuelled Air Force fighters may be used as bombers. But the main job of sweeping the enemy airfields, which is the only way to win the air battle, will have to be done by naval air.

That is the realistic situation. The Navy's leaders in the Pacific are strongly committed to the view that we must fight for the offshore islands. They do not want to discourage a bold policy. They profess to be able to do the job the situation imposes on them.

But history says it is a very risky business, to send in a carrier force against a strong land-based air force. In the present case, the risk is all the greater because the Communists are ready to use their Ilyushin-28 jet bombers, which are almost as fast as our carrier-borne fighters. Maybe the optimism of the admirals will be justified by the events. But common prudence demands preparedness for a different outcome.

This assessment of the situation is the real explanation of the recent, sensational Tokyo story reporting that high American authorities expected atomic war in a matter of weeks. The authorities in question were undoubtedly located in the Air Force.

Atomic Weapons Only

The American air leaders in the Far East are no doubt somewhat prejudiced by the fact that they have virtually nothing to fight a war with, except atomic weapons. Airmen everywhere are also inclined to expect land-based air to win a contest with carrier aviation. The Air Force viewpoint must be discounted for these reasons.

Yet however much you discount the Air Force viewpoint, it is still more closely in accord with the facts than the admirals' viewpoint. We simply have not got the forces available in the Far East to be even reasonably sure of winning a fight for the offshore islands with conventional weapons. The forces needed to give us a reasonable margin were sacrificed, long ago, to the budget and the tax structure.

Most Victims Recover From Lung Fungous Infection

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Coccidioidomycosis is the million dollar name for a relatively common fungous infection of the lungs but in regions where the disease is fairly prevalent, the inhabitants call it valley, desert, or San Joaquin fever.

The disorder is caused by a fungus (Coccidioides immitis). This organism lies dormant in the soil and becomes active only when inhaled in dust. Thousands of cases developed in our desert training camps in World War II. The disease was alarming to the newcomer but old stuff to the regular inhabitants, who realized that most victims recover completely.

Children living in these areas are infected early in life but in the majority of instances, the manifestations are passed off as a cold and treated as such. The incident is forgotten but telltale evidence remains in the blood, which will always give a positive reaction.

The illness resembles a cold with chest pain, generalized aching, fever, and a scratchy throat. Weakness, loss of appetite, night sweats, and backache are common. The throat may be red but beyond that, not much can be detected by physical examination.

Chest X-rays reveal fuzzy shadows similar to those of bronchopneumonia or tuberculosis. Help is required from the laboratory for confirmation. A special skin test becomes positive by the end of the first week and blood tests do the same by the end of the second week.

Meanwhile, most victims are beginning to recover but in one-fifth, red nodules form in the skin, which has given the ailment still another name, valley bumps. These lesions usually persist for one to four weeks. Thereafter, recovery generally is rapid.

X-rays show clear lungs but in some patients, fluid is present which takes a long time to absorb. Positive skin tests remain for months or years and it was this positive reaction that convinced the medical profession that a high percentage of natives of desert areas had been victims of the disease at some time. In the great majority, the infection was mild and gave no more inconvenience than a cold.

There is no special treatment but various remedies are tried in these systemic fungous diseases. The list includes ethyl vanillate, the diamidines such as stillbamidine, and antibiotics such as fungicidin and candicidin.

TOMORROW: Furry tongue.

INFLAMED HEART SAC

C. W. writes: Is there any cure for pericarditis?

REPLY

Yes, but the remedy depends upon the cause. In pericarditis, the sac surrounding the heart is inflamed and when pus accumulates, antibiotics combined with surgical drainage may be necessary. In other forms of the disease, the wonder drugs may be sufficient.

SPITTING UP FOOD

Mrs. D. writes: If a baby's food comes back after every meal, is he getting too much to eat?

REPLY

Not necessarily. Regurgitation occurs also when the child eats too fast, swallows air, or has a temporary spasm or stenosis of the pyloric (exit) valve of the stomach.

TB AND KISSING

R. C. writes: When a man is discharged from a tuberculosis sanatorium as negative, can he kiss his wife when he gets home?

REPLY

Yes, if repeated sputum tests have proved free of tubercle bacilli.

SCARLET FEVER

T. B. writes: Could scarlet fever make the heart skip?

REPLY

Yes, if this streptococcal infection led to rheumatic fever and heart trouble. On the other hand, skipped beat occurs in normal individuals and frequently is associated with overindulgence in coffee and nicotine.

NOT NOW

W. R. writes: Is peritonitis always fatal?

REPLY

No. In recent years, the use of the sulfonamides and the antibiotics in this condition has lowered the mortality rate considerably.

TYPE OF TONSILITIS

C. V. writes: What is lingual tonsilitis?

REPLY

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me!

By Bennett Cerf

Two Scotchmen were walking down a lane near Aberdeen (where else?) when one stopped and said, "Jock, there's something jingling in your pocket. Don't tell me it's money." "I couldna' tell you that," admitted Jock, "because it wouldna' be true. The jiggling is the wife's teeth. There's too much eatin' goin' on in my house 'tween meals."

"One day a lion caught me unawares without my gun," admitted an intrepid explorer, "but I just sat stock still and outstared him. The beast didn't so much as touch me."

"Incredible!" marvelled his dinner partner. "How do you explain that?"

"One reason," mused the explorer, "may have been that I was sitting on the highest branch of a very tall tree."

Egypt's press, in attacking the U. S., says America is "a novice in the art of diplomacy." Well, you can't expect a country less than 200 years old to compete with a nation whose international name calling goes back 40 or more centuries.

This is the time of year, says F.E.F., when a man's grass and shrubbery and flower garden look so beautiful—in his mind.

To keep him from roaming, a French housewife sawed up her husband's wooden leg. Naturally, it made him hopping mad.

New findings by archeologists show that the walls of ancient Jericho came tumbling down not once but 22 times! Joshua's trumpets, apparently, had a mighty powerful echo.

Eskimo ice cream, we read, has no cream in it but is made up of caribou fat, fish, seal oil and berries. If that's ice cream we shudder to think what the Eskies use for cod liver oil.

New York's Troubles Differ In Size Only

If there is any reason to find solace in the fact that someone else also has the misery, many American city officials can find comfort in the knowledge that New York City is wrestling with many of the same troubles they are.

According to a copyrighted article in the U. S. News & World Report the biggest American city currently is engaged in what seems to be a losing battle on the population trade, and financial fronts. It also is gradually losing the glamor and fascination which a decade or more ago drew young America to it with their dreams of success. Young people still go there but fewer of them stay.

With its residents steadily moving out into the suburbs, New York's eight per cent population gain between 1940 and 1953 is credited to an excess in births over deaths. The net increase was 200,000 in those years. During the 1920s the gain was 750,000.

Retail business and industry has joined with the middle class people in this movement to the areas outside the limits of the big metropolis. This loss of port trade and Wall Street's decreased control of the country's money have been factors which have put New York in financial straits. With the middle income families moving outside its limits, New York is left with a larger proportion in the lower-income group.

These then are the people who must share in the municipal tax burden which was $133.92 per capita in 1953 and is higher now. Mayor Robert F. Wagner is already looking for at least $105,000,000 in additional revenues to make ends meet next year.

As more and more workers move to surrounding areas, New York's traffic becomes heavier as suburbanites travel inadequate streets to and from work. Every day the lower part of Manhattan is jammed with an estimated 3,600,000 people and 530,000 automoblies. This congestion has been estimated to cost the big city more than a billion dollars annually.

These glimpses from the News and World Report article indicate that what New York faces is much like the problems of most other troubled American cities. The chief differences are in size.

Market Tips

The dramatic personality of Walter Winchell has highlighted an investigation into the Stock Exchange operations which otherwise has been very dull. The question is, when is a tip a tip?

Trading in stocks or bonds or anything else is part of the capitalist process of using surplus capital at risk with the object of a profit. The law of supply and demand plays a role in this process, but risk-taking often involves a factor of gambling, sometimes called speculation.

Let us say that I am in a restaurant and I hear three men converse, as I recently did, using more decibels than they imagined. It was not eavesdropping; actually they forced their private conversation upon me and upon all the others in their vicinity. I thus heard of a very important prospective transaction. I had a tip. In a word, if what these men said to each other was correct, a very sizeable fortune could be earned by an investment. If the deal fell through, I doubt whether there would be any loss at all, or at most, a small loss.

Now the question arises, should I give the tip to someone who can afford the risk, or being in the business of telling the public what comes to me, should I shout it from the housetops? This is an ethical question which different men approach from different points of view. Some believe that the responsibility is to make known what is available. Others hold to the doctrine that unless one can guarantee against loss, one should not advise in such matters. Still others feel that no one is required to accept a tip and therefore the tipster is absolved.

Winchell's contention, I believe, is that he provides advance news and not tips; that no one is required to go into the market.

The recent rise in the stock market may be due to many causes:

1. A flight from the dollar. This is often called a hedge against inflation. Undoubtedly whenever any form of inflation appears, those who have surplus capital prefer to see it in the form of equities rather than in currency or government bonds which are the same as currency. Buying shares in a company is purchasing ownership, but in most instances the buyer is only interested in equities as investments or as speculation. He transfers his responsibilities of ownership to management. Such owners of stock make a market in the stock itself as though it were a commodity, when actually it is a certificate of partial ownership.

2. John J. McCloy, chairman of the Chase National Bank, has testified before the Fulbright Committee that the stock market's current activities cannot be attributed to unusual purchases by trust funds, both personal and pension. He said that these funds amounted to "only a small fraction of the value of stock traded on the Exchange." McCloy should be well-informed on this subject because of his connection with the Chase bank, but it is known that some Foundations, which formerly invested most of their funds in bonds, moved to stocks as a hedge against inflation. Furthermore, labor unions are not only investing pension funds but the ordinary surpluses in their treasuries in common stock, often in the companies of their industry. Such investments are generally held as long-term investments. They therefore produce a shortage of stock available for trading and the price goes up.

3. A large number of mergers have taken place, offering splendid opportunities for a profit by the sale of stock. Smart operators are always looking for such opportnities and often buy on the prospect that such an opportunity may occur. When a tight proxy fight takes place and each side is anxious to come into possession of increasing amounts of stock, it is likely that the price will rise, even if only temporarily. A profit can be made during the period of anxiety.

The high prices for American equities are more likely to be due to a hedge against continued inflation than to any other cause, but the real danger to our economy lies in a possible lowering of the value of the dollar in Europe, which could be very serious indeed. The problem then that the Fulbright Committee ought to investigate if it really is concerned with our economic dangers is not the New York stock market but the world position of the dollar.

In Trouble Again

Bevan Expulsion Shows Intolerance Toward Dissent

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Europeans, particularly some of our British cousins, have a way of looking down their noses at American congressional customs, but nothing quite so drastic has ever been voted by either party in the Senate or the House as the punishment meted out by the British Labor party this week in expelling Aneurin Bevan from that party in the House of Commons.

The British press has been filled in recent months with tirades against the American Congress for failing to expell Senator McCarthy of Wisconsin, though not one word has ever been uttered advocating the elimination from the Republican party of Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon, who also broke with his party leaders.

Every member of Congress in this country can, if he wishes, change his political affiliation—as did Senator Morse recently when he announced that henceforth he would be a Democrat, even though he was elected to his present term after winning the Republican nomination in a party primary.

Expelled For Views

There is a great deal of tolerance in the United States, and loyalty to party has not been made the basis for censure or expulsion from the party. The 1952 Democratic National Convention rejected an attempt in that direction.

In this case, the British Labor party has withdrawn the party label from Mr. Bevan because of his speeches. He has been attacking the party leader—former Prime Minister Clement Attlee. Because such speeches are regarded as disloyal to the party, the Labor members of the Parliament voted 141 to 112 to expel him from the party.

Here, therefore, is a flagrant instance of punishment for views expressed. The American rule — at least prior to the "condemnation" of Senator McCarthy by Senate resolution — has been to permit members to enjoy freedom of speech in line with the spirit of the Constitution, which holds that members shall not be "questioned" for their speeches "in any other place." This certainly means no punishment can be applied inside the Congress either, since otherwise there could be libel suits instituted by one member against another.

Mr. Bevan's views are unpalatable to Americans and to a large number of Britishers. He believes, for example, the United States is responsible for the crisis in the Far East. He impatiently brushes aside Red China's intervention in the Korean War and says it was justified because she was provoked by the non-recognition policy of the United States. He says America is more of a menace to world peace than the Russians. Generally speaking, he makes the same arguments that the Communists make, though nobody has ever accused him of being in any way tied up with the Communist.

Distasteful as are Mr. Bevan's views, he has a right to express them. When the British Labor party says that only persons of a certain attitude toward questions can be permitted inside the party, it is, in effect, urging conformity of thought and expressing intolerance toward those who hold a different view on public questions.

It is most unfortunate that Britain's parliamentary leaders on the Socialist side have allowed themselves to become victims of the current hysteria toward conformity of thought. Party discipline may withhold any posts of authority from those who differ from the majority, but to expel a man from the party on whose ticket he ran for office is to endow the party caucus or conference with rights above those of the voters themselves.

Party Primaries?

Maybe the British need to introduce the party-primary system so that the people may say what they want the Laborites to stand for, and this, of course, can be determined by posing before the voters conflicting viewpoints between which the voters could choose.

From the standpoint of international relations, it may be thought expedient to discipline Mr. Bevan, but the leader, Mr. Attlee, also has been expressing severe criticism of American policy in the Far East.

It is really a simple case of intolerance toward dissent, and one need not have the slightest sympathy with Mr. Bevan's views—and certainly this correspondent hasn't—to regret that an important principle is being disregarded in a great English-speaking democracy. For it now is written that a duly elected member of Parliament has been punished for expressing views unpopular with his party.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Not often enough we get a Borah, a Bob Taft or a Harry Byrd whose conscience is his guide. And who doesn't require a rescue expedition.

Harry is the watch dog of the deficit. Which is as self-funding as the chicken membrane in Rockefeller Institute.

He watches the treasury with the jealous eye of a man who doesn't have to take off his shoes to count to 20.

He knows that the treasury is one place where you cannot depend on solar heat.

And that Newton's Law of Gravitation proves that you cannot get more out of a barrel than you put into it.

So when Harry heard the Democrats were for quick nibbles and small bites he said, "That's not for the Byrds."

It took a bit of doing for Harry to take a flat-footed stance against his fellow Democrats. It proves that politics stop at the water's edge. If you're far enough inland.

But as chairman of the Senate Finance squad he knows you cannot squeeze plasma out of a rutabaga.

But, on the side, keed, is there any chance of getting that 20 reduction?

Sale Of Synthetic Rubber Factories Expected To Cause Hike In Prices

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Congressman Wright Patman of Texas, chief defender of little business, has made an important prediction which I hope will not be 83 per cent accurate. He predicts that the price of rubber—and proportionately the tires you buy—will go up to 80 cents a pound this year.

The price is now 38 cents. But already, says Patman, it's gone up from 22 cents on the prospect that the big tire and oil companies will control all the synthetic rubber of the U.S.A. after they get the government rubber plants on March 26.

"The price may even go up to 80 cents a pound if Congress approves this deal," Patman told his colleagues. "There's nothing to stop it. And the little man will have to depend upon the big monopolies for his supply. If the price goes up, as it did in the case of aluminum, the little rubber fabricators will be squeezed out of business just as the small aluminum fabricators were squeezed out."

Congressman Sterling Cole of New York, a Republican whose father-in-law is a high official of Corning Glass, and who wants to go even further than Eisenhower in giving government-developed atomic patents to big business, tried to put Patman on the spot. He asked when he had made up his mind to introduce a resolution stopping the sale of government factories.

"Honestly, my friend," replied Patman, "I thought that this was such a raw deal that somebody on your committee would introduce the resolution, or that the committee would otherwise take steps to stop the transaction. I only came in when it was absolutely necessary."

Cole didn't reply. Patman forced Democratic Chairman Vinson also to run to cover when Vinson contended that small rubber fabricators would be protected by the Justice Department under our anti-trust laws if the big rubber companies shut off their supplies after taking over the government plants.

"Mr. Chairman, you are not that naive?" questioned Patman. "That is just like sending a rabbit to the corner grocery to get a head of lettuce."

Amid laughter, the Texan explained: "They (the big companies) are going to take care of themselves first."

Stassen's Black List

It isn't supposed to be known, but Harold Stassen has a black list for American colleges and universities.

Stassen has used a long string of colleges to help in foreign aid, and most of them are doing good jobs. The University of California is assisting the University of Indonesia in developing its medical school. Columbia's Teachers College in New York is helping to set up teachers colleges in Afghanistan. Cornell is expanding the agricultural branch of the University of the Philippines. Georgetown University is assisting five Yugoslav universities in establishing English-language institutes.

However, on Stassen's black list are Syracuse University's School of Public Administration and Roosevelt College in Chicago. They get no invitations to help in overseas aid.

When Dr. Roscoe Martin, Dean of political science at Syracuse, heard about the black list, he came to Washington.

Appleby happens to have been right-hand assistant to Henry Wallace when he was secretary of agriculture, and a close friend of Milton Eisenhower, once also a top assistant to Wallace. In fact, both Appleby and Wallace intervened to keep Milton in the Agriculture Department where he was serving as a holdover Republican appointee from the Hoover administration. Jim Farley wanted to kick him out, but, thanks to Wallace and Appleby, he remained.

Roosevelt College in Chicago is on the Stassen black list not so much because of its name but because it was established with union-labor backing and is closely identified with the labor movement.

NOTE 1—Appleby has been appointed by Gov. Averell Harriman to be New York state budget director, so perhaps Syracuse will now be removed from Stassen's black list.

NOTE 2—Despite the fact that Syracuse's Public administration School is on the Stassen black list, 14 of its graduates are employed by Stassen, including his own executive secretary, Joseph Toner. Syracuse University itself is not on the black list and is working with Iran's teacher-training school. $25,000,000

Stassen is spending $25,000,000 through American colleges on foreign aid. Among other colleges he's picked are:

Oklahoma A&M, $2,434,000, to set up schools in Ethiopia; Penn State, $75,000, to help Formosa establish a department of industrial education; Purdue, $250,000, to aid the rural University of Minas Gerais in Brazil; University of Southern California, $710,000, to work with the University of Teheran; Texas A & M, $1,700,000 to assist the University of Dacca in East Pakistan; Texas U, $230,000, to teach engineering instruction at the University of Chulalongkorn in Thailand; Wisconsin U, $680,000, to help India's Bengal Engineering College; University of Wyoming, $115,000, to help the government of Afghanistan in regard to agriculture and engineering; University of Maryland, $900,000, to help British Guiana develop economic and social aids; Harvard, $17,000, to aid health in Peru; Colorado A&M, $500,000, to advise the University of Peshawar in Pakistan; Michigan State, $226,820, to help the University of Sao Paulo in business administration.

Atom War For Quemoy?

By Stewart Alsop

HONG KONG

Take the grave weakness of the American armed forces on this side of the Pacific. Blend in what seems to be the American policy in the Formosa crisis. Add the formidable array of Chinese Communist military power. Then bake at crisis heat.

What you get from this repellent recipe is the clear possibility, almost verging on the likelihood, that the United States will end by having to fight an atomic war for Formosa's offshore islands.

That is not the Eisenhower administration's intention of course. The intention is to make a cease-fire deal, or to teach the Communists to mind their manners in a "limited" fight. But the administration's intention has less and less relation to the real drift of events.

It can be safely predicted that the Chinese Communists will not formally assent to a cease-fire. In this city where the best information on Communist China is available, every competent authority, American, British and Chinese, also agrees that Peking means to attack the offshore islands this spring. Therefore, unless the National Security Council again reverses American policy, a fight for the off-shore islands involving American forces is now in the cards.

"No" The Only Answer

In such a fight, the air battle will be crucial. A powerful Communist force is now massed for the air battle in the great Chinese airbase complex in Chekiang and Kiangsi provinces, as already described in this space. Have we, then any assurance of beating this powerful Communist air force without using the absolute weapons?

An unhappy "no" is the only possible answer to this key question. No one can give any other answer, who knows the hard facts of our weakness.

Our only prospective allies, the Chinese Nationalists, have one unready group of F-86 fighters and one obsolete group of F-84s to match the very great Communist strength in jet aircraft. All the rest of the small Nationalist air force is composed of rotary engined types.

The U. S. Far Eastern Air Force has some 500 planes less on its roster today than on the grim day when the Korean War began. Furthermore, it has no bombers whatever except for one group of B-36s on Guam. As they have been exclusively trained with atomic weapons, the B-36s cannot hit a fair sized county with conventional bombs.

Burden Falls On Fleet

Finally, there is the Seventh Fleet, with its total strength of six carriers and no replacements in sight. On the Seventh Fleet will fall—must fall—almost the whole burden of the air offensive. Refuelled Air Force fighters may be used as bombers. But the main job of sweeping the enemy airfields, which is the only way to win the air battle, will have to be done by naval air.

That is the realistic situation. The Navy's leaders in the Pacific are strongly committed to the view that we must fight for the offshore islands. They do not want to discourage a bold policy. They profess to be able to do the job the situation imposes on them.

Egypt's press, in attacking the U. S., says America is "a novice in the art of diplomacy." Well, you can't expect a country less than 200 years old to compete with a nation whose international name calling goes back 40 or more centuries.

This is the time of year, says F.E.F., when a man's grass and shrubbery and flower garden look so beautiful—in his mind.

To keep him from roaming, a French housewife sawed up her husband's wooden leg. Naturally, it made him hopping mad.

New findings by archeologists show that the walls of ancient Jericho came tumbling down not once but 22 times! Joshua's trumpets, apparently, had a mighty powerful echo.

Eskimo ice cream, we read, has no cream in it but is made up of caribou fat, fish, seal oil and berries. If that's ice cream we shudder to think what the Eskies use for cod liver oil.

Committee action on the nominations is expected near the end of the legislative session, which is scheduled to wind up April 4.

The senators on the committee met after the full Senate adjourned its afternoon session without acting on the two most controversial bills on the day's calendar.

It postponed for the eighth time a vote on whether real estate assessments should be put on an annual basis beginning this year instead of next, as scheduled.

Also put off was a vote on a measure to create a Maryland turnpike authority under the direction of the State Roads Commission.

Majority Leader Turnbull (D-Balto County) made an unsuccessful move to revive a bill to investigate the roads commission, a proposal which was defeated Monday night in its third attempt at passage.

Blocks Move

Sen. Hoff (R-Carroll) blocked the move by noting Senate rules prohibit reconsideration of a bill which has been voted down, reconsidered, and voted down a second time.

However, an identical bill received tentative approval by an 82-31 vote in the House yesterday and was scheduled to come up for a final vote there tonight.

The House measure was expected to be passed and sent to the Senate, giving the Democratic leadership in that chamber another chance to push through a probe of the roads commission.

In its afternoon session the Senate passed by a 16-9 margin a bill under which drivers would lose their licenses if they are convicted in Maryland or any other state of several serious violations.

These include drunken driving, manslaughter by automobile, perjury in making out an affidavit and turning off headlights to avoid arrest and failure to stop and render aid after an accident.

The senators also reconsidered and reversed a vote by which they yesterday defeated a bill to raise the gross weight limit on farm 17,500 to 20,000 pounds.

The first of several pieces of legislation aimed at curbing the State Roads Commission in building limited access highways was slowed down in the House.

Introduced only eight days ago by Sen. Nock (D-Wicomico), the House put the brakes on a bill that would have prevented the commission from designating any such roads in her county.

Dels. Robinson (D-Balto 4th), Murray (D-Howard) and Raley (D-St. Mary's) raised questions about the wisdom of such legislation and it was recommitted to the Ways and Means for further study instead of being passed.

Other bills to prevent limited access roads in Somerset County, Berlin, Hagerstown, Anne Arundel and Prince Georges are pending in the General Assembly.

The delegates set Monday night for their showdown on a war veterans' bonus financed by a lottery. Proponents were allowed this afternoon to substitute the bills for an unfavorable report by the Judiciary Committee without opposition. But there is expected to be plenty Monday night on the vote on the bills themselves.

The House forwarded to the Senate bills to make strip coal miners restore the land and to make State employes eligible for social security.

It sent to the governor a bill to have the Board of Public Works fix the salaries of all circuit court clerks.

Restaurant Fan Blaze Extinguished

Central Fire Company was twice called to the Blue Ridge Bus Terminal Restaurant last night when an exhaust fan in the kitchen caught fire.

The first call at 9:15 p.m. resulted when smoke filled the restaurant but firemen were unable to find the fire as the fan was shut off.

A later call at 9:31 revealed the wooden frame around the fan was afire and firemen extinguished the flames before much damage had been done.

Will Build Home

Robert G. Kringler, Bedford Road, secured a permit from the Building Engineer yesterday to construct a 40-by-24-foot dwelling on Lot 11 of Myrtle Street. Cost is estimated at $6,200.

Divorces Granted In Circuit Court

Two divorces were granted yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court. Evelyn Fields was granted a divorce from Ervin Fields. Virginia E. Hulings obtained a divorce from Forrest R. Hulings.

Teachers College Seeks $979,000 For Next Year

The State Department of Education has asked the General Assembly to allow in its budget $979,000 for capital improvements at Frostburg State Teachers College during the next fiscal year.

The department listed five projects for next year, and also outlined $252,500 for three projects desired the following year.

The requests were presented by the department March 8 before the Senate Finance Committee and the House of Delegates Ways and Means Committee in Annapolis.

R. Bowden Hardesty, president of Frostburg State, said the five projects desired next year are:

Grading and drainage, $60,000; equipment for dormitories being constructed, $30,000; dining hall and infirmary, $400,000; laboratory school, $454,000, and president's home, $35,000.

For the following year these job grants are desired, Hardesty said:

Land and properties, $130,000; garage, $22,500, and remodeling buildings, $100,000.

This makes a total of $1,231,500 requested by the state department for the Frostburg college, which has been the scene of an extensive building program in the past five years.

In all the state department is seeking $4,472,000 for 25 projects at Frostburg, Coppin, Bowie, Towson and Salisbury state teachers colleges.

The department's priority list shows this standing of the Frostburg projects:

Outdoor Club Plans Election, Fishing Rodeo

Officers of the Cumberland Outdoor Club will be elected Monday at 8 p. m. at the club rooms on Baltimore Street. Nominated for the various offices are:

Lee Bailey and Edward Belfoure, president; James Guthridge, Russell McGaughy and William Wagner, vice president; Lee Fuller, recording secretary; Van Johnson, financial secretary; Emory Turner, treasurer; Andrew Jones and George Keifer, trustees, and George Middleton, chairman of trustees.

Following the meeting, a buffet luncheon will be served.

Officials said the organization will again sponsor the annual fishing rodeo for children, adding that this year's event will also include events for crippled children. The clubs has ordered 5,000 fish from the Maryland Game and Inland Fish Commission for the project.

The Western Maryland Wildlife Federation will meet at the Outdoor Club rooms Tuesday at 8 p. m.

Parking Crackdown Starts At Hospital

Following recommendations of the state fire marshal, areas at Memorial Hospital are being kept clear so that fire fighting equipment would be able to get into a proper position.

Mayor Roy W. Eves, John A. Moberly hospital superintendent, and Lt. R. R. Johnston, head of the traffic bureau of the City Police Department, conferred on the problem yesterday.

A red line was painted Wednesday on the left outer curb of the circular drive in front of the hospital by the police department and enforcement of the no parking on the one side began yesterday.

Lt. Johnston said another campaign to straighten out the problem in the parking lot on the side of the hospital will be undertaken.

Too many motorists have been using the space allocated for the 40 doctors who visit the hospital regularly, and as a result the lot becomes so jammed fire trucks could not get close enough to be 100 per cent effective in the case of fire.

Attends Tractor Classes

A tractor maintenance school was held Monday night for 4-H Club boys at the Light and Decker Company garage on South Centre Street.

The next training school will be held Monday, March 21, from 7:30 to 9:45 p. m. at the Collins Garage on Baltimore Pike, according to James Weamert, assistant county farm agent.

City Gets PSC Report On TV Cable Problems

The Mayor and Council has received a preliminary report from the Public Service Commission concerning its study of the Potomac Valley Television Company.

Hugh H. Hunter, engineer for the PSC, who came here in February after the Mayor and Council had requested an investigation, briefed the council on his findings to date, and said the final result will follow a check of PVTV after the five-channel operation was well under way.

He pointed out he conferred with officials of the National Community Television Association concerning their check of the local operation.

M. F. Malarkey Jr., president and E. Stratford Smith, executive secretary, informed Hunter that five-channel reception would eliminate many of the complaints that caused Thomas B. Finan, city attorney, to ask the PSC for an investigation.

Finan at the order of the Mayor and Council asked the PSC to see if Potomac Valley Company should come under the jurisdiction of the PSC.

Seventy-five per cent of the complaints are from television set owners who use antennae and claim radiation of radio frequency energy from the coaxial cable is affecting their reception, Hunter said.

Hunter said he checked the Federal Communications Commission concerning this and E. W. Allen, chief engineer, informed him meetings are being held to set up rules for allowable radiation for community cables.

Allen indicated that these rules might take the form of recommending certain acceptable methods of cable construction which are known to keep radiation at a low point, with the hope municipalities would, by local ordinance, require use of recommended methods of construction.

Allen also suggested a community TV company might be required to certify that it had kept radiation from its cables within acceptable limits.

As far as any policing of cable systems, the FCC would be unable to give much assistance to the Public Service Commission because of its being understaffed, Allen said.

Hunter also commented that the PSC is not equipped with the technical staff to do this work.

Teachers College Seeks $979,000 For Next Year

The State Department of Education has asked the General Assembly to allow in its budget $979,000 for capital improvements at Frostburg State Teachers College during the next fiscal year.

The department listed five projects for next year, and also outlined $252,500 for three projects desired the following year.

The requests were presented by the department March 8 before the Senate Finance Committee and the House of Delegates Ways and Means Committee in Annapolis.

R. Bowden Hardesty, president of Frostburg State, said the five projects desired next year are:

Grading and drainage, $60,000; equipment for dormitories being constructed, $30,000; dining hall and infirmary, $400,000; laboratory school, $454,000, and president's home, $35,000.

For the following year these job grants are desired, Hardesty said:

Land and properties, $130,000; garage, $22,500, and remodeling buildings, $100,000.

This makes a total of $1,231,500 requested by the state department for the Frostburg college, which has been the scene of an extensive building program in the past five years.

In all the state department is seeking $4,472,000 for 25 projects at Frostburg, Coppin, Bowie, Towson and Salisbury state teachers colleges.

Senators Improved

AS FOR standing pat, there are reasons. Says Charlie:

"In the first place, they all wanted our best and didn't want to give up anything for it. Secondly, I told Griff (Owner Clark Griffith) to let me look over the club first and learn what we have and what we need. Maybe, in this way, I can find the right fill-in spots."

Dressen said he spent most of the winter fishing and making speeches and he is still fishing here, trying to get the right combinations.

"I believe we have a fine pitching staff," he says, with the regular hurlers. We're going to take a real good look at a young fellow by the name of Abernathy, a righthander who throws the ball like Ewell Blackwell. He may be a great one and that Pascual also has the makings."

PORTERFIELD and McDermott didn't have as good a year as in the past during the 1954 campaign but Dressen believes they will come back.

Abernathy is Ted Abernathy, a 6-foot 4-inch righthander out of the service who is listed as the "shining light" in the eyes of Owner Griffith. Abernathy has pitched but a year and a few months in the minors, at Roanoke Rapids and Chattanooga, but his record is a fancy one. He jumped from Class D to AA in one season. He did well in the service where he had a 13-3 record last year for Fort McPherson.

Pascual is Camilo Pascual, a slim Cuban righthander who came up from Havana last year and turned out to be the workhorse of the team as he appeared in 48 games.

There are five other pitchers on the staff, including Gus Keriazakos, who was with the Senators last year and Bill Currie, a righthander who won 16 for Chattanooga.

BRUCE EDWARDS, former Brooklyn catcher and infielder whose contract was purchased from the Los Angeles club last December, may be the key to the whole Washington story this year.

"If Edwards is all right (and I have seen him throw well)," says Dressen, "we should be in good shape down the middle for he's a good one to have around."

The other catchers are Eddie Fitzgerald and Bob Oldis, with Fitz doing much of the work last year.

Mickey Vernon and Roy Sievers may alternate at first. Eddie Yost will be at third and Pete Runnels at second.

Key to the infield could be the shortstop spot.

Working at short are Jerry Snyder, who held the spot in 64 games last year but hit a weak .234; Bob Kline, a draft choice who hit .319 for Birmingham in 153 games last year and Lyle Lutterell, a fine fielder up from Charlotte but weak with the stick. Kline could be the boy for he drove in 84 runs last year for his club while batting eighth!

KLINE, says Dressen, was sought by the Red Sox and Cubs. Charlie says he himself was going to draft him last year for his Pacific Coast league club.

Other infielders in camp include First Baseman Julio Becquer, a fancy-fielding Cuban who was with Havana last year; First Sacker Jesse Levan, a big power boy who had a .412 batting average for Charlotte, and Anton Roig, a second sacker from Chattanooga.

Additional infield hopefuls are Leroy Dietzel, the hard-luck kid who broke his leg three times and is back for another try as a second-third baseman; Harmon Killebrew, another third baseman from Idaho who was given a $30,000 bonus for signing and was sent to PORTERFIELD and McDermott didn't have as good a year as in the past during the 1954 campaign but Dressen believes they will come back.

Abernathy is Ted Abernathy, a 6-foot 4-inch righthander out of the service who is listed as the "shining light" in the eyes of Owner Griffith. Abernathy has pitched but a year and a few months in the minors, at Roanoke Rapids and Chattanooga, but his record is a fancy one. He jumped from Class D to AA in one season. He did well in the service where he had a 13-3 record last year for Fort McPherson.

Pascual is Camilo Pascual, a slim Cuban righthander who came up from Havana last year and turned out to be the workhorse of the team as he appeared in 48 games.

There are five other pitchers on the staff, including Gus Keriazakos, who was with the Senators last year and Bill Currie, a righthander who won 16 for Chattanooga.

BRUCE EDWARDS, former Brooklyn catcher and infielder whose contract was purchased from the Los Angeles club last December, may be the key to the whole Washington story this year.

"If Edwards is all right (and I have seen him throw well)," says Dressen, "we should be in good shape down the middle for he's a good one to have around."

Mickey Vernon and Roy Sievers may alternate at first. Eddie Yost will be at third and Pete Runnels at second.

Key to the infield could be the shortstop spot.

Working at short are Jerry Snyder, who held the spot in 64 games last year but hit a weak .234; Bob Kline, a draft choice who hit .319 for Birmingham in 153 games last year and Lyle Lutterell, a fine fielder up from Charlotte but weak with the stick. Kline could be the boy for he drove in 84 runs last year for his club while batting eighth!

KLINE, says Dressen, was sought by the Red Sox and Cubs. Charlie says he himself was going to draft him last year for his Pacific Coast league club.

Other infielders in camp include First Baseman Julio Becquer, a fancy-fielding Cuban who was with Havana last year; First Sacker Jesse Levan, a big power boy who had a .412 batting average for Charlotte, and Anton Roig, a second sacker from Chattanooga.

Additional infield hopefuls are Leroy Dietzel, the hard-luck kid who broke his leg three times and is back for another try as a second-third baseman; Harmon Killebrew, another third baseman from Idaho who was given a $30,000 bonus for signing and was sent to Washington by Senator Herman Walker of that state, and Juan Delis, another Cuban who hadn't reported yet.

The outfield patrol includes Jim Busby, Sievers, if he isn't seeing duty on first, and Tom Umphlett. Busby is labeled by Dressen as "one of the best" and was the team batting leader last year with .298.

Sievers had a strange year. He smashed 24 homers, and drove in 102 runs and hit but .222. His home run total broke the all-time Washington record. Umphlett hit only .219 after a fine year with Boston in 1953.

OTHER outfielders listed are Roy Hawes, with the Senators last year; Jim Lemon, who hit .346 for Charlotte after the Indians let him go; Carlos Paula, another Charlotte star; Tom Wright, utility last year and Ernie Oravetz.

Paula was recalled by the Senators late last season and the Cuban became the first Negro ball player to appear in a Washington club regular season game.

"The prize package on this whole team," says Dressen, "could be Oravetz. Oravetz, who is only 5 feet 5 inches tall, is coming out of the service after having played two years as an outfielder for Orlando and Chattanooga. He hit .365 and .306 and "kills the opposition with singles." He wears glasses.

Dressen doesn't seem to be too concerned with a lack of hitting on the club.

Frank Thomas Agrees To Pirates' Terms

PITTSBURGH, March 17 (AP) — Outfielder Frank Thomas, the Pittsburgh Pirates last holdout, agreed to terms today in a telephone conversation with General Manager Branch Rickey at Fort Myers, Fla.

Terms were not disclosed but it is believed Thomas signed for about $18,000—a $6,000 hike over last year. He was reported holding out for $25,000.

Detroit Tigers Edge Phils In Ninth, 3-2

LAKELAND, Fla., March 17 (AP)—A ninth inning run scored by ailing Al Kaline gave the Detroit Tigers a 3-2 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies today in an exhibition game.

Kaline, Detroit's right fielder who was kept out of the lineup by a sore arm, reached first base on a fielder's choice after batting for pitcher Dick Marlowe. He moved to third on an error and a single by Reno Bertoia, then dashed home when Jack Phillips hit a slow roller to Bobby Morgan, Philly third baseman.

Mayor Told Local Men To Be Hired On School Project

WESTERNPORT — The people of this vicinity will be given the first opportunity to obtain available work at the new Westernport High School being built on Philos Avenue Extended, Mayor Okey E. Michael, stated at the regular meeting of the Town Council Wednesday evening.

Mayor Michael said he had conferred with Patrick Allender of the Allied Trade Council and officials of the Hazelwood Construction Company. Allender told the mayor those employed would be given sufficient time to join their trade union and the construction company told him they would hire as many as they could.

Mayor Michael said he was informed that there is expected to be a labor shortage in this area by June.

The recommendation of Burt Reed to hire William Wilkinson Jr., in the street department was approved by the Mayor and Commissioners. He will fill the vacancy created by Robert Sellers who has entered the Army.

Horace P. Whitworth Sr., town attorney, was authorized to offer Arthur and Hazel Clark a reasonable amount for the ground owned by them to be used for construction of a filtration plant. The lot is 100 by 450 feet.

The proposal of the Western Maryland Railway Company upon request of the town to lease a portion of their ground adjoining Church Street, to be used as a parking lot, was discussed.

A counter offer was authorized by the Mayor and Commissioners.

Mayor Michael estimated it would cost about $2,500 to condition the lot and the purchase of approximately 25 parking meters. If an agreement is reached the meters would be operated on a 24-hour basis the same as the present town's parking lot off of Main Street.

Plans Progress For Variety Fair At Mt. Savage

Tri-State Area Shows Interest

MT. SAVAGE — The Mt. Savage PTA Executive Committee met recently to discuss the Tri-State Variety Fair. There are about 71 different booths and tables already purchased by the various firms throughout the county. There is still some space available in the gym and cafeteria. At many of the booths samples will be given away. In the basement of the school there will be a display of heavy equipment, cars, trucks, tractors, and other such equipment.

According to Alfred Benna, the local fire company will be on hand with their equipment to flood the entire area surrounding the school with light. These men will also help with parking and Leslie Amtower will be in charge of the parking area.

There will be a program of entertainment going on the entire evening. Joseph Derry, Meyersdale, will play the organ both for entertainment and to accompany the various programs that will be presented.

Mrs. Donald Prichard will be on the stage with her collie dogs showing obedience.

Rosenbaum's will present a style show. A fashion commentator from New York will direct the presentation. Fifteen girls from the high school will be in the style show and five local women will also be selected to act as models. The affair will be held April 11 in the Mt. Savage School starting at 7 p. m.

Allender told the mayor those employed would be given sufficient time to join their trade union and the construction company told him they would hire as many as they could.

Mayor Michael said he was informed that there is expected to be a labor shortage in this area by June.

The recommendation of Burt Reed to hire William Wilkinson Jr., in the street department was approved by the Mayor and Commissioners. He will fill the vacancy created by Robert Sellers who has entered the Army.

Horace P. Whitworth Sr., town attorney, was authorized to offer Arthur and Hazel Clark a reasonable amount for the ground owned by them to be used for construction of a filtration plant. The lot is 100 by 450 feet.

The proposal of the Western Maryland Railway Company upon request of the town to lease a portion of their ground adjoining Church Street, to be used as a parking lot, was discussed.

Mayor Michael estimated it would cost about $2,500 to condition the lot and the purchase of approximately 25 parking meters. If an agreement is reached the meters would be operated on a 24-hour basis the same as the present town's parking lot off of Main Street.

County Delegation Told Funds Lacking For New Spans At Pinto, Wiley Ford

Russell H. McCain, chairman of the State Roads Commission, has informed Del. Charles M. See, chairman of the Allegany County delegates, that there are no funds available for new Pinto or Wiley Ford bridges.

Del. See had requested McCain to outline the possibilities of obtaining federal aid for the Pinto bridge and state money for the Wiley Ford span.

In regard to the Pinto section, McCain said a federal aid military access type approach has been set up in West Virginia to move the West Virginia approach to the Pinto bridge and presumably relocate it outside the Allegany Ballistics Laboratory.

E. F. Gleason, district engineer for the Bureau of Public Roads, said this road was being relocated purely for security reasons and it was not being done because of the bridge.

McCain said it was also learned that neither the laboratory nor the Navy had voiced any objection to the bridge and had no intention of seeking any special federal aid money for its replacement.

It appears from Gleason's report, McCain added, that there is no military access money available for reconstruction of the bridge.

There are no funds included in the 12-year program, McCain declared, for a new interstate bridge at Wiley Ford.

A conference with L. L. Jemison, bridge engineer of the West Virginia State Roads Commission, revealed there were no funds in that state's budget at this time for participation in the reconstruction of this bridge.

Jemison stated, however, that every consideration would be given to the problem because of the large volume of traffic crossing the present antiquated bridge.

McCain said the only course the Maryland SRC can purse is to await advice from West Virginia as to whether that state will have funds available to participate in the construction of a new bridge at this site, and then the problem will be to ascertain from what source funds can be obtained to finance Maryland's share of the cost, since, as pointed out above, it is not included in the 12-year program.

The Allegany County delegates in the last session of the General Assembly asked the State Roads Commission to take over the Luke and Pinto bridges, but were not successful.

Friendsville Man Indicted

OAKLAND—Elwood Phillippi, a former resident of Friendsville, has been indicted by the grand jury of Garrett County on three counts.

He is charged with desertion, neglect of his wife and two children and resisting arrest. Phillippi has been living in Pennsylvania, where he originally came from, and was arrested two weeks ago in Friendsville.

Phillippi resisted arrest in 1954 when officers attempted to take him into custody on charges of desertion and neglect of his family. He had been at large since then, but two weeks ago was nabbed when he visited Friendsville.

Ryan Appointed Chief Dispatcher For Railway Here

R. T. Ryan, Bowling Green, has been appointed chief train dispatcher for the Elkins and Connellsville divisions of the Western Maryland Railway, according to Joseph M. Miller, superintendent.

Ryan, a veteran of nearly 43 years service with Western Maryland, replaces Francis J. Creegan, who died two weeks ago.

He started with the Western Maryland on July 29, 1912, as an agent operator at Bernard, W. Va., on the Durbin branch.

After two years there, he spent a year at Huttonsville and Fairfax, W. Va., as agent operator. He then became second trick agent-operator at Thomas.

In 1918 Ryan came to Cumberland as clerk to John J. Abbott, who then was chief train dispatcher.

The past nine years, Ryan has been day shift train dispatcher on the Connellsville Division.

Mr. and Mrs. Ryan have two daughters, Mrs. Katherine Beale of Baltimore and Mrs. Rae Aumiller of Bowling Green.

Keyser Beats Grafton, 46-36, Goes To State Semi-Finals

Beckley Loses To Huntington, W-I Is Halted

By TOM STIMMEL

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., March 17 (AP)—Keyser scored a 47-36 victory over Grafton in an unimpressive State High School Basketball Tournament game tonight to join South Charleston and Huntington in the semi-finals.

South Charleston, led by Alex Hawkins, nailed previously unbeaten Clarksburg Washington Irving, 80-77, and Huntington set down defending champion Beckley, 76-68, as brilliant Leo Byrd scored a record 48 points.

Wheeling and Mullens met in the final game of the night to determine who will meet Keyser in the second semi-final clash tomorrow following the South Charleston-Huntington battle.

Keyser Leads All Way

Keyser's Golden Tornadoes broke an early 2-2 tie and led all the way against the Bearcats from Grafton without so much as a serious threat. At the end of the first quarter it was 18-8 and by intermission Keyser held a 10-point 29-19 lead.

Breaking on even terms in the third frame, Grafton narrowed a gap that had been as wide as 15 points as Dick Ward and Jim Stockett led a semi-inspired rally to whittle the margin to five points at 39-34.

But Jim Nicol stopped the surge with two fielders, and that was that.

Ward Scores 18 Points

Keyser scored 18 goals in 46 tries from the field while Grafton made 16 fielders in 60 tries. Coaih John Shelton's Mineral Countians meshed 10 of 26 shots at the charity line and Grafton scored only five points in 23 attempts. Scott Ward, Keyser guard, was the game's high scorer with 18 points. He accounted for eight of his team's 18 field goals and added two points at the foul line.

Byrd, a preacher's son, was the whole show in the Huntington-Beckley battle and he made the most of it. He shot from all angles, he sought and found innumerable personal fouls, and he dribbled around and through the rattled Beckley defense.

The game was touch and go from the beginning. Beckley led first but lost this early lead when Dick Vass tied at 13-13. The Pony Express managed a 21-19 first quarter lead.

Byrd grabbed the ball four seconds before the half and raced the clock as he dribbled down the floor to sink a layup that tied at 41-41 at intermission.

Beckley's Howard Hurt and Byrd exchanged goals through most of the third frame and Beckley had a 57-55 advantage as the final period opened.

Byrd shot again and again, making as many as three tries for a layup rather than risk the ball in other hands.

Hurt paced Beckley scoring with 20 points.

Clarksburg Stopped

In the first game it was field general Alex Hawkins who led South Charleston's fast break and sent Clarksburg Washington Irving to its first defeat, of the season, 80-77.

Hawkins started off the Black Eagles with eight of their first 10 points while W-I was held to two.

The undefeated Hilltoppers rushed into the game then, and with Bob Hart and Dick Hall leading the way tied at 20-20 and took a 24-20 first quarter lead.

South Charleston moved ahead and four times the lead changed hands midway in the period before W-I moved up 34-33 and held a 44-42 halftime edge.

In the second, Hawkins' generalship showed, as the shooting of both teams fell off.

Scoring honors went to Hall with 27 and Hart with 25.

ALLEGANY COUNTY'S showing in past Maryland Class B tournaments is outstanding because of the fact that schools of the Georges Creek section have brought home five championships in six years of competition.

Beall High took it all in 1949. Central of Lonaconing had three shots at the title and won twice—1950 and 1952—and Bruce High of Westernport batted 1.000 by sweeping nine consecutive games in 1953 and 1954.

The only setback came in 1951 when Central was edged by Aberdeen High School in a 44-43 finale.

During the six years of participation by Bruce, Central and Beall quints they won 24 out of 25 contests.

If Valley High hurdles Cambridge tonight the Black Knights will advance to the finals where they have an opportunity to give Allegany county its fourth straight "B" championship and its sixth title in seven years.

Bruce 75, Smithsburg 35
Bruce 60, Brunswick 26
Bruce 73, Hereford 36
Bruce 57, Federalsburg 39
Bruce 50, Easton 45
(state title game)

1953:
Bruce 74, Northern 49
Bruce 67, Middletown 39
Bruce 51, Elkton 31
Bruce 50, Odenton 51
(state title game)

1952:
Central 52, Oakland 45
Central 46, Middletown 35
Central 45, Sykesville 33

1951:
Central 61, Oakland 37
Central 66, Williamsport 42
Central 39, Gaithersburg 25
Aberdeen 44, Central 43
(state title game)

1950:
Central 52, Grantsville 22
Central 47, Middletown 27
Central 32, Gaithersburg 27
Central 50, Elkton 37
(state title game)

1949:
Beall 55, Oakland 33
Beall by forfeit over Franklin High.
Beall 37, Greenbelt 36 (overtime)
Beall 47, Cambridge 23

1948 and 1947 — Allegany county not represented in Class B tournaments.

SINCE state tournaments were inaugurated 28 years ago teams from Allegany county and the Eastern Shore have met 25 times and the score stands 24-1 in favor of basketeers from this county.

Allegany county's only loss was recorded in 1952 when Ocean City defeated Barton in Class C. That Ocean City team and Perryville, winner of the 1954 Ciass C event, are the only Eastern Shore champions in the long history of the state games.

Cambridge High which meets Valley of Lonaconing tonight at College Park has suffered nine consecutive defeats at the hands of Allegany county teams. Allegany High won six of the games, Fort Hill two and Beall one.

1929—Penn Avenue 35, Chestertown 15
1930—Allegany 55, Cambridge 14
1931—Allegany 33, Crisfield 8
1932—Allegany 43, Cambridge 12
1933—Allegany 65, Cambridge 14
1934—Allegany 28, Cambridge 14
1935—Penn Avenue 51, Crisfield 22

1951—Barton 52, Ocean City 45
1952—Ocean City 70, Barton 60; Central 47, Easton 45

1954—Bruce 57, Federalsburg 39; Bruce 50, Easton 45

TO FIGHT FAN:

Kid Gavilan won a split decision over Bobby Dykes in their first bout in Florida in February, 1952.

WHEN Patsy Kean, 87, died the other day no mention was made of the fact that the grand old Irishman was once a horseman.

JOE REICH, Meyersdale High School's sharpshooter, wound up a glorious season with an average of 25.8 points, scoring 569 points in 22 games on 235 field goals and 97 free trhows. Meyersdale had a big season, winning 18 of 22 contests.

Metz Gets 26 Points As Midland Methodist Goes To Finals, 52-32

FROSTBURG, March 17 — Midland Methodist defeated Frostburg Methodist, 52-32, and St. John's Episcopal upset St. Michael's Catholic, 38-36, tonight, and advanced to the finals of playoffs in the Frostburg Church Basketball League, scheduled for the Beall High court Friday night at 8 o'clock.

St. John's the "darkhorse" of the playoffs, which qualified for a berth on the final day of the regular season in 6th place and knocked off Carlos, No. 2 finisher, on Tuesday ushered out the No. 4 team in whipping St. Michael's tonight.

The Episcopalians' margin of victory was a field goal by Jackie Parker who shared scoring honors with Bobby Deffenbaugh. Parker racked up 13 points while Deffenbaugh garnered 12.

St. Michael's outscored St. John's 14 to eight from the field but lost the game at the foul line where the opposition meshed 22 out of 44 shots to the Catholic quint's 8 out of 22. Harris and Patton of St. Michael's fouled out.

St. John's held a 10-6 lead at the quarter, trailed at halftime, 20-17, and the close of the third period found the teams deadlocked at 27-all.

George Allen was high scorer for St. Michael's with 10 tallies.

Joe Metz was the "big" gun as Midland Methodist, which finished the regular season in first place, outscored Frostburg Methodist 16 to 4 in the final quarter to turn the affair into a decisive triumph. Metz slammed in 12 goals and 26 points while John Hawkins contributed a dozen tallies. Lloyd Neilson with 13 points and Carroll Staggs with 10 sparked the losers.

Frostburg Methodist trailed by eight points, 36-28, at the end of the third period but fell apart in the final stanza.

Friday's championship game will be officiated by John Raupach and Lou Baker. Jack Chisholm and Ray Middleton will handle the consolation game between St. Michael's and Frostburg Methodist at 7 o'clock. Lineups:

Dukes, Dayton Reach Finals

NEW YORK, March 17 (AP) — Duquesne and Dayton, the top favorites, made it a 2-d final in the National Invitation Basketball Tournament tonight, but not until Dayton had been carried into overtime by the unseeded but exciting little St. Francis (Pa.) team.

The Dukes and Dayton will meet for the championship Saturday night, with St. Francis and Cincinnati paired in a preliminary to decide third place.

Dick Ricketts, besides scoring 21 points, took care of most of the rebounds and did a good defensive job on Jack Twyman, the Bearcats' scoring ace. Twyman, who scored 671 points during the regular season, was held to 12 points.

United States Boosts Lead In P-A Games

Cop Three P-A Events, Point Total Hits 333

By TED SMITS

MEXICO City, March 17 (AP) — United States track and field forces collected three more championships in the Pan-American games today, but the Yank baseball team suffered a surprise reversal and Wes Santee, the Kansas mile king, gave a disappointing performance in the 1,500 meter trials.

In a day marked by both success and failure for the United States, these were the chief developments:

1. Mildred McDaniell, a willowy girl from Tuskegee Institute in Alabama, won the women's high jump with a mighty leap of 5 feet, 6¼ inches, which beat the games' record by nearly nine inches, and then barely failed to match the world record of 5-8 held by A. Chudina of Russia.

2. Franklin (Bud) Held, world record holder in the javelin from Los Angeles, won the javelin event with a toss of 228 feet 11 inches, shattering the Pan-American record of 223-4⅜ set by Ricardo Heber of Argentina in 1951.

3. Jack Davis, a soldier from Los Angeles, captured the 110 meter hurdles in 14.3 seconds, despite a slow start.

4. Santee, still looking for a four-minute mile, loafed through his first heat in the 1,500 meter preliminaries and surprised the crowd of 35,000 by allowing himself to be nipped at the wire by little known Juan Miranda of Argentina. Both were timed at 4:06.4, poor clocking for the distance. Santee's wintertime mile adversary, Fred Dwyer, barely managed to qualify for the finals, finishing fifth in the second heat with the unimpressive time of 4:34.8. Bob McMillen was a third qualifier in 4:15.7.

5. The U.S. baseball team, heretofore unbeaten and heavily favored to win the first round, bowed to Venezuela, 8-2.

6. Lou Jones of Manhattan twice bettered the Pan-American record in winning preliminary heats in the 400-meter dash and qualified for the finals along with Jim Lea of Southern California and Jesse Mashburn of Oklahoma A. and M. Jones did a tremendous :46.9 in the semi-finals. Lea was second to Jones in :47.6 and Mashburn won his heat in :47.4.

Keyser Beats Grafton, 46-36, Goes To State Semi-Finals

Beckley Loses To Huntington, W-I Is Halted

By TOM STIMMEL

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., March 17 (AP)—Keyser scored a 47-36 victory over Grafton in an unimpressive State High School Basketball Tournament game tonight to join South Charleston and Huntington in the semi-finals.

South Charleston, led by Alex Hawkins, nailed previously unbeaten Clarksburg Washington Irving, 80-77, and Huntington set down defending champion Beckley, 76-68, as brilliant Leo Byrd scored a record 48 points.

Wheeling and Mullens met in the final game of the night to determine who will meet Keyser in the second semi-final clash tomorrow following the South Charleston-Huntington battle.

Keyser Leads All Way

Keyser's Golden Tornadoes broke an early 2-2 tie and led all the way against the Bearcats from Grafton without so much as a serious threat. At the end of the first quarter it was 18-8 and by intermission Keyser held a 10-point 29-19 lead.

Mullens Sets Record, Plays Keyser Tonight

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., March 17—Mullens High School broke a tournament scoring record tonight by beating Wheeling in the final game of the first round of the West Virginia Class A high school tournament, 89-69. Mullens will play Keyser in the semi-finals Friday night in the second game on the program. South Charleston meets Huntington in the opener at 7 p. m.

Breaking on even terms in the third frame, Grafton narrowed a gap that had been as wide as 15 points as Dick Ward and Jim Stockett led a semi-inspired rally to whittle the margin to five points at 39-34.

But Jim Nicol stopped the surge with two fielders, and that was that.

Ward Scores 18 Points

Keyser scored 18 goals in 46 tries from the field while Grafton made 16 fielders in 60 tries. Coaih John Shelton's Mineral Countians meshed 10 of 26 shots at the charity line and Grafton scored only five points in 23 attempts. Scott Ward, Keyser guard, was the game's high scorer with 18 points. He accounted for eight of his team's 18 field goals and added two points at the foul line.

Byrd, a preacher's son, was the whole show in the Huntington-Beckley battle and he made the most of it. He shot from all angles, he sought and found innumerable personal fouls, and he dribbled around and through the rattled Beckley defense.

The game was touch and go from the beginning. Beckley led first but lost this early lead when Dick Vass tied at 13-13. The Pony Express managed a 21-19 first quarter lead.

Byrd grabbed the ball four seconds before the half and raced the clock as he dribbled down the floor to sink a layup that tied at 41-41 at intermission.

Beckley's Howard Hurt and Byrd exchanged goals through most of the third frame and Beckley had a 57-55 advantage as the final period opened.

Byrd shot again and again, making as many as three tries for a layup rather than risk the ball in other hands.

Hurt paced Beckley scoring with 20 points.

Clarksburg Stopped

In the first game it was field general Alex Hawkins who led South Charleston's fast break and sent Clarksburg Washington Irving to its first defeat, of the season, 80-77.

Hawkins started off the Black Eagles with eight of their first 10 points while W-I was held to two.

The undefeated Hilltoppers rushed into the game then, and with Bob Hart and Dick Hall leading the way tied at 20-20 and took a 24-20 first quarter lead.

South Charleston moved ahead and four times the lead changed hands midway in the period before W-I moved up 34-33 and held a 44-42 halftime edge.

In the second, Hawkins' generalship showed, as the shooting of both teams fell off.

Hawkins led Eagle scoring with 20 points, and Mullen got 17—important points that staved off W-I threats.

Scoring honors went to Hall with 27 and Hart with 25.

Cambridge Record 0-9

By C. V. BURNS

ALLEGANY COUNTY'S showing in past Maryland Class B tournaments is outstanding because of the fact that schools of the Georges Creek section have brought home five championships in six years of competition.

Beall High took it all in 1949. Central of Lonaconing had three shots at the title and won twice—1950 and 1952—and Bruce High of Westernport batted 1.000 by sweeping nine consecutive games in 1953 and 1954.

The only setback came in 1951 when Central was edged by Aberdeen High School in a 44-43 finale.

During the six years of participation by Bruce, Central and Beall quints they won 24 out of 25 contests.

If Valley High hurdles Cambridge tonight the Black Knights will advance to the finals where they have an opportunity to give Allegany county its fourth straight "B" championship and its sixth title in seven years.

Bruce 75, Smithsburg 35
Bruce 60, Brunswick 26
Bruce 73, Hereford 36
Bruce 57, Federalsburg 39
Bruce 50, Easton 45
(state title game)

1953:
Bruce 74, Northern 49
Bruce 67, Middletown 39
Bruce 51, Elkton 31
Bruce 59, Odenton 51
(state title game)

1952:
Central 52, Oakland 45
Central 46, Middletown 35
Central 45, Sykesville 33
Central 47, Easton 45
(state title game)

1951:
Central 61, Oakland 37
Central 66, Williamsport 42
Central 39, Gaithersburg 25
Aberdeen 44, Central 43
(state title game)

1950:
Central 52, Grantsville 22
Central 47, Middletown 27
Central 32, Gaithersburg 27
Central 50, Elkton 37
(state title game)

1949:
Beall 55, Oakland 33
Beall by forfeit over Franklin High.
Beall 37, Greenbelt 36 (overtime)
Beall 47, Cambridge 23

1948 and 1947 — Allegany county not represented in Class B tournaments.

SINCE state tournaments were inaugurated 28 years ago teams from Allegany county and the Eastern Shore have met 25 times and the score stands 24-1 in favor of basketeers from this county.

Allegany county's only loss was recorded in 1952 when Ocean City defeated Barton in Class C. That Ocean City team and Perryville, winner of the 1954 Class C event, are the only Eastern Shore champions in the long history of the state games.

Cambridge High which meets Valley of Lonaconing tonight at College Park has suffered nine consecutive defeats at the hands of Allegany county teams. Allegany High won six of the games, Fort Hill two and Beall one.

1929—Penn Avenue 35, Chestertown 15
1930—Allegany 55, Cambridge 14
1931—Allegany 33, Crisfield 8
1932—Allegany 43, Cambridge 12
1933—Allegany 65, Cambridge 14
1934—Allegany 28, Cambridge 14
1935—Penn Avenue 51, Crisfield 22
1936—Allegany 38, Cambridge 16
1937—Allegany 40, Cambridge 31
1938—Fort Hill 45, Cambridge 13
1939—Fort Hill 43, Cambridge 27
1948—Bruce 57, Princess Anne 30; Fort Hill 70, Salisbury 16
1949—Bruce 49, Princess Anne 26; Beall 47, Cambridge 23; Fort Hill 52, Salisbury 36
1950—Allegany 53, Salisbury 52; Central 50, Elkton 37
1951—Barton 52, Ocean City 45
1952—Ocean City 70, Barton 60; Central 47, Easton 45
1953—Allegany 61, Salisbury 46; Bruce 51, Elkton 31
1954—Bruce 57, Federalsburg 39; Bruce 50, Easton 45

TO FIGHT FAN:

Kid Gavilan won a split decision over Bobby Dykes in their first bout in Florida in February, 1952.

WHEN Patsy Kean, 87, died the other day no mention was made of the fact that the grand old Irishman was once a horseman.

JOE REICH, Meyersdale High School's sharpshooter, wound up a glorious season with an average of 25.8 points, scoring 569 points in 22 games on 235 field goals and 97 free throws. Meyersdale had a big season, winning 18 of 22 contests.

Dukes, Dayton Reach Finals

NEW YORK, March 17 (AP) — Duquesne and Dayton, the top favorites, made it a 2-d final in the National Invitation Basketball Tournament tonight, but not until Dayton had been carried into overtime by the unseeded but exciting little St. Francis (Pa.) team.

The Dukes and Dayton will meet for the championship Saturday night, with St. Francis and Cincinnati paired in a preliminary to decide third place.

Dick Ricketts, besides scoring 21 points, took care of most of the rebounds and did a good defensive job on Jack Twyman, the Bearcats' scoring ace. Twyman, who scored 671 points during the regular season, was held to 12 points.

United States Boosts Lead In P-A Games

By TED SMITS

MEXICO City, March 17 (AP) — United States track and field forces collected three more championships in the Pan-American games today, but the Yank baseball team suffered a surprise reversal and Wes Santee, the Kansas mile king, gave a disappointing performance in the 1,500 meter trials.

In a day marked by both success and failure for the United States, these were the chief developments:

1. Mildred McDaniell, a willowy girl from Tuskegee Institute in Alabama, won the women's high jump with a mighty leap of 5 feet, 6¼ inches, which beat the games' record by nearly nine inches, and then barely failed to match the world record of 5-8 held by A. Chudina of Russia.

2. Franklin (Bud) Held, world record holder in the javelin from Los Angeles, won the javelin event with a toss of 228 feet 11 inches, shattering the Pan-American record of 223-4⅜ set by Ricardo Heber of Argentina in 1951.

3. Jack Davis, a soldier from Los Angeles, captured the 110 meter hurdles in 14.3 seconds, despite a slow start.

4. Santee, still looking for a four-minute mile, loafed through his first heat in the 1,500 meter preliminaries and surprised the crowd of 35,000 by allowing himself to be nipped at the wire by little known Juan Miranda of Argentina. Both were timed at 4:06.4, poor clocking for the distance. Santee's wintertime mile adversary, Fred Dwyer, barely managed to qualify for the finals, finishing fifth in the second heat with the unimpressive time of 4:34.8. Bob McMillen was a third qualifier in 4:15.7.

5. The U.S. baseball team, heretofore unbeaten and heavily favored to win the first round, bowed to Venezuela, 8-2.

6. Lou Jones of Manhattan twice bettered the Pan-American record in winning preliminary heats in the 400-meter dash and qualified for the finals along with Jim Lea of Southern California and Jesse Mashburn of Oklahoma A. and M. Jones did a tremendous :46.9 in the semi-finals. Lea was second to Jones in :47.6 and Mashburn won his heat in :47.4.

Metz Gets 26 Points As Midland Methodist Goes To Finals, 52-32

FROSTBURG, March 17 — Midland Methodist defeated Frostburg Methodist, 52-32, and St. John's Episcopal upset St. Michael's Catholic, 38-36, tonight, and advanced to the finals of playoffs in the Frostburg Church Basketball League, scheduled for the Beall High court Friday night at 8 o'clock.

St. John's the "darkhorse" of the playoffs, which qualified for a berth on the final day of the regular season in 6th place and knocked off Carlos, No. 2 finisher, on Tuesday ushered out the No. 4 team in whipping St. Michael's tonight.

The Episcopalians' margin of victory was a field goal by Jackie Parker who shared scoring honors with Bobby Deffenbaugh. Parker racked up 13 points while Deffenbaugh garnered 12.

St. Michael's outscored St. John's 14 to eight from the field but lost the game at the foul line where the opposition meshed 22 out of 44 shots to the Catholic quint's 8 out of 22. Harris and Patton of St. Michael's fouled out.

St. John's held a 10-6 lead at the quarter, trailed at halftime, 20-17, and the close of the third period found the teams deadlocked at 27-all.

George Allen was high scorer for St. Michael's with 10 tallies.

Joe Metz was the "big" gun as Midland Methodist, which finished the regular season in first place, outscored Frostburg Methodist 16 to 4 in the final quarter to turn the affair into a decisive triumph. Metz slammed in 12 goals and 26 points while John Hawkins contributed a dozen tallies. Lloyd Neilson with 13 points and Carroll Staggs with 10 sparked the losers.

Frostburg Methodist trailed by eight points, 36-28, at the end of the third period but fell apart in the final stanza.

Friday's championship game will be officiated by John Raupach and Lou Baker. Jack Chisholm and Ray Middleton will handle the consolation game between St. Michael's and Frostburg Methodist at 7 o'clock. Lineups:

Orioles Conquer Dodgers In 10th

Fernandez's Error Decides Game, 5-4

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., March 17 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers and Baltimore Orioles drew a local record baseball crowd of 4,620 fans today and gave them a full run for their money when they went 10 innings before the Orioles won, 5-4.

After an indifferent performance by Billy Loes which handed the Orioles two quick runs, the Dodgers took a 4-2 lead by the seventh. Three runs came in the sixth on as many bases on balls, plus Carl Furillo's double and a sacrifice fly.

Duke Snider tripled behind Don Hoak's pinch single in the seventh. But the Orioles reached Pete Wojey for two runs on a double by Bob Young and singles by Cal Abrams, Gil Coan and Gene Woodling in the same stanza and the game went into extra innings.

With Tom LaSorda pitching in the 10th Gene Woodling walked and was sacrificed to second. After Hoot Evers was passed intentionally, pinch hitter Gus Triandos sent a double play grounder to short but the ball rolled through Chico Fernandez's legs for a game-deciding error.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another in a series on the major league teams.

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Sports Editor

ORLANDO, Fla. — It was 30 years ago that a minor league player by the name of Charles Walter Dressen walked on Tinker Field here to enter the major leagues as a member of the Cincinnati Reds' squad.

The career of Charlie Dressen since that time has taken him through a playing career to big league and minor league managing.

Charlie is back on Tinker Field this year, back where he started, and he is beginning another new career, as manager of the Washington Senators who now train here.

Dressen, as affable a manager as you will find in baseball, was given a sixth-place club which stood pat through the winter and presents the same faces, with a few rookie exceptions, as closed the 1953 campaign, winner of 66 games and loser of 88.

Charlie, however, is optimistic — enough, so he says, that he thinks the club will be improved over last year.

Sunbury Gets Franchise In Piedmont Loop

Will Be Replacement For Colonial Heights

PETERSBURG, Va., March 17 (AP)—Directors of the Class B Piedmont League today approved Sunbury, Pa., for a league franchise as a replacement for Colonial Heights-Petersburg.

Piedmont President Ben Campbell, after a poll of the remaining teams in the circuit, said "it appears it will be unanimous" for admission of Sunbury.

Campbell said he had reached official spokesmen for all other teams except Hagerstown, Md., and all had voted to accept Sunbury.

A simple majority would be sufficient to award the franchise to the Pennsylvania city which has not had professional baseball since the Class B Interstate League folded two years ago.

Sunbury will take over the franchise Eddie Mooers operated here for one season. No purchase price has been announced but presumably the price tag will be about $2,000. That was the amount Mooers paid for the Colonial Heights-Petersburg franchise last year after he sold his franchise in Richmond to clear the way for that city's entry into the International League.

Sunbury becomes the third Pennsylvania city in the loop. The others are York and Lancaster. Hagerstown, Md., and Newport News, Portsmouth, Lynchburg and Norfolk, Va., are the remaining members.

Stan Sag Wins Bowie Feature

Survives Foul Claim, Beats Pavion By Head

BOWIE, March 17 (AP) — Stan Sag made it two for two at this race meeting when he won the $4,500 Irish Lad Purse today, surviving a claim of foul lodged by the rider of the runner-up.

Owned by a polio victim, Mrs. C. Thomas Holloway, and trained by her husband, a former steeplechase jockey, Stan Sag has yet to be defeated since being acquired by the Marylanders.

He met a good field of allowance caliber 3-year-olds in the seven-furlong feature and gained a head verdict over Pavion while lugging in on the runner-up through the stretch.

Apprentice John Raia claimed foul against J. A. Regalbuto, rider of the $9.60 for $2 winner, but the stewards took little time in making the result official.

Rated just off the early pace, Stan Sag moved to the lead in midstretch and maintained a narrow margin to the wire. The colt is a son of Saggy, the only horse to defeat Citation as a 3-year-old.

Royal Morse, heavy favorite with the crowd of 9,888 fans, was third to Stan Sag, finishing a length and a half back.

Clear but cold weather prevailed for the program, and the track was fast with Stan Sag being clocked in a snappy 1.24 4/5.

Stan Sag Wins Bowie Feature

Survives Foul Claim, Beats Pavion By Head

BOWIE, March 17 (AP) — Stan Sag made it two for two at this race meeting when he won the $4,500 Irish Lad Purse today, surviving a claim of foul lodged by the rider of the runner-up.

Owned by a polio victim, Mrs. C. Thomas Holloway, and trained by her husband, a former steeplechase jockey, Stan Sag has yet to be defeated since being acquired by the Marylanders.

He met a good field of allowance caliber 3-year-olds in the seven-furlong feature and gained a head verdict over Pavion while lugging in on the runner-up through the stretch.

Apprentice John Raia claimed foul against J. A. Regalbuto, rider of the $9.60 for $2 winner, but the stewards took little time in making the result official.

Rated just off the early pace, Stan Sag moved to the lead in midstretch and maintained a narrow margin to the wire. The colt is a son of Saggy, the only horse to defeat Citation as a 3-year-old.

Royal Morse, heavy favorite with the crowd of 9,888 fans, was third to Stan Sag, finishing a length and a half back.

Clear but cold weather prevailed for the program, and the track was fast with Stan Sag being clocked in a snappy 1.24 4/5.

The daily double (Nos. 6 and 9) was worth $84.60 with Big Medal and Apophasis accounting for the first and second races respectively.

Radio And Television

Great Performance

Every so often something comes along that makes it all worthwhile, and last Sunday evening's "Goodyear Television Playhouse" drama "My Lost Saints" was one of those times. The play was written especially for Eileer Heckart, one of the finest young actresses we have, by Tad Mosel, and she was just plain immense in it.

For my money, this girl is not only a wonderfully skillful actress, but a very bright star who has not won anything like the parts and the acclaim she deserves. She can fill a screen all by herself and her acting, in this and in "Picnic," where she played a frustrated school teacher, sticks to your ribs for a long, long time.

In "My Lost Saints," Miss Heckart played Kate, housekeeper for 18 years to the Hallet family who, she claims devotedly, are saints. "We all love each other in this house. We got no problem," she says. But they get a problem, a great big one, in the person of Kate's mother. The mother, superbly played by Lili Darvas, comes to spend the night, injures herself in a fall and lands in bed where Kate waits on her hand and foot. Knowing a good thing when she sees one, she stays on in bed long after there's anything the matter with her and pretty soon the Hallets are getting no service at all out of their devoted Kate. She's too busy with the mother.

The scenes between mother and daughter, especially one in which Kate finally becomes aware that her mother is malingering, included some of the finest bits of acting I've ever seen on television. Any time you can steal a scene from Miss Darvas, a great little scene-stealer in her own right, you're going great guns, and that's just what Miss Heckart did. She can do things with her eyes, this girl—not another muscle in her stirring—that will tear your heart out.

Of course, I don't want to throw all the credit to the two actresses, Tad Mosel, who has turned out fine TV scripts before, gave the girls a fine, mature script on a very original and novel idea. Miss Heckert won a Sylvania Award for her performance in another Mosel play, "The Haven," and this performance will probably win her some more prizes.

For every performance of that caliber you get a dozen pretty dreadful ones and I'm afraid the weekend had its quota of those, too. After giving us a pretty near perfect "Peter Pan," NBC came up with "A Connecticut Yankee," the old Rodgers and Hart musical, and made a sorry mess of it. "A Connecticut Yankee" was one of the joys of my youth, not only a very tuneful work, containing such songs as "Thou Swell" and "My Heart Stood Still," but also a very funny one.

Somewhere in its translation to color television the humor was drained right out of it. Casting Eddie Albert as the Connecticut Yankee didn't help much either. He played it as if he never left high school and this was the senior class play. And as Sandy, Janet Blair was playing an ingenue in the movies. Some English folk I had in the livingroom at the time even complained indignantly that the costumes were a libel on the couturiers of King Arthur's day and I'm inclined to agree. Altogether, a sorry business.

Speaking of acting, one of television's great performers, Mr. Joseph Welch, counsel for the Army in the Army-McCarthy hearings, gave a perfectly splendid performance on "Omnibus" Sunday, telling us about his boyhood in Iowa. This is part of a series of boyhoods of famous folk that "Omnibus" is doing, and I find it fascinating.

Among other things, Mr. Welch told us of his father's lamentable habit of chewing tobacco and how he earned his 50 cents a week to buy it by cranking the washing machine for the ladies of the area. "One night, before retiring, my father and I went to the well for a glass of cool water"—a delightful picture, Welch and his father enjoying a glass of cool water before retiring — and Welch told papa that he was going to Harvard. Whereupon his father gave him the savings of the last 14 years—which totaled $19.

"And now," concluded Welch looking out over Faneuil Hall, "I am a Bostonian—not a proper Bostonian—but a Bostonian." He sure is.

Contract Bridge

by Josephine Culbertson

THE BREAK WAS MARKED

IT GOES without saying that declarers should always be on the alert for bad breaks, but this vigilance must be doubled and redoubled when the bidding starts off as it did in the following hand.

North dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

	♠ A K 8 4 2 ♥ 7 6 3 2 ♦ A 9 6 ♣ 9
♠ Q 10 9 6 3 ♥ Q 9 8 5 ♦ 5 4 3 2 ♣ —	N W E S	♠ J 5 ♥ K J 10 4 ♦ — ♣ K Q J 10 8 7 5
	♠ 7 ♥ A ♦ K Q J 10 8 7 ♣ A 6 4 3 2

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	4 ♣	6 ♦	Pass
Pass	Pass

South (according to his own statement after the play) was tempted to double four clubs for business, but East-West weren't vulnerable and it looked as though South would have an excellent chance for a vulnerable slam—as indeed he did have.

West should have opened a trump, since he was void in clubs and had considerable strength in dummy's spade suit, but he elected to lead a low heart. Winning with the blank ace, South laid down the ace of clubs—and, apparently forgetting all about East's original bid of four clubs, South was shocked to see West ruff. West now led a trump and South was helpless.

In view of East's shutout bid and in further view that West hadn't led a club, thus strongly implying that he didn't have one, South should not have treated his own club ace so cavalierly. The right play at Trick 2 was a low club. Even if East had a trump, he could remove only one of dummy's diamonds, and this would let South ruff two low clubs in dummy. He would discard one club on the spades and, after drawing trumps, finally cash the club ace for the fulfilling trick. The crucial point was to keep West from killing that club ace by a ruff.

Contract Bridge

by Josephine Culbertson

THE BREAK WAS MARKED

IT GOES without saying that declarers should always be on the alert for bad breaks, but this vigilance must be doubled and redoubled when the bidding starts off as it did in the following hand.

North dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

	♠ A K 8 4 2 ♥ 7 6 3 2 ♦ A 9 6 ♣ 9
♠ Q 10 9 6 3 ♥ Q 9 8 5 ♦ 5 4 3 2 ♣ —	N W E S	♠ J 5 ♥ K J 10 4 ♦ — ♣ K Q J 10 8 7 5
	♠ 7 ♥ A ♦ K Q J 10 8 7 ♣ A 6 4 3 2

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	4 ♣	6 ♦	Pass
Pass	Pass

South (according to his own statement after the play) was tempted to double four clubs for business, but East-West weren't vulnerable and it looked as though South would have an excellent chance for a vulnerable slam—as indeed he did have.

West should have opened a trump, since he was void in clubs and had considerable strength in dummy's spade suit, but he elected to lead a low heart. Winning with the blank ace, South laid down the ace of clubs—and, apparently forgetting all about East's original bid of four clubs, South was shocked to see West ruff. West now led a trump and South was helpless.

In view of East's shutout bid and in further view that West hadn't led a club, thus strongly implying that he didn't have one, South should not have treated his own club ace so cavalierly. The right play at Trick 2 was a low club. Even if East had a trump, he could remove only one of dummy's diamonds, and this would let South ruff two low clubs in dummy. He would discard one club on the spades and, after drawing trumps, finally cash the club ace for the fulfilling trick. The crucial point was to keep West from killing that club ace by a ruff.

Posse Combs Woods For Third Escapee

Wilson Spotted Near Bloomington

Police of two states last night combed the heavy woodlands near Bloomington in search of William Warner Wilson after the 33-year-old escapee from Mineral County Jail at Keyser had been spotted in the area.

Vernon E. Rankin, Mineral County prosecuting attorney said the posse included an agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, members of the Keyser Police Department, and Maryland and West Virginia state police.

Other Two Recaptured

Jernell and Carr were recaptured by Cumberland and Ridgeley police Wednesday evening in a tiny area between the flooring and the foundation of Clement's home. They were returned to West Virginia yesterday after having waived extradition before Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris in Circuit Court here.

Wilson is five feet, five and a half-inches tall, weighs about 140 pounds and has brown wavy hair. He has been wearing a cast on his left hand.

Yesterday, Mineral County officials went to work to make the Keyser lockup more "escape-proof" by having welders repair the escape window and other bars.

A spokesman revealed yesterday that several bars on the Keyser jail windows have needed welding for some time but that the work had been put off.

Pried Bars Apart

Detective Joseph H. Stitcher of the Cumberland Police Department, who along with Officer Kenneth W. Morrissey and Ridgeley Chief of Police Harry Detrick made the arrests Wednesday, added these details:

A heavy screen at the Keyser lockup had been pried loose two days before the actual escape. A screw driver supplied by an unidentified person was used. When time for the break came the three culprits knocked out a bar which had been previously sawed and had not been re-welded.

Jernell and Wilson fled first. Carr tried to get through the small opening but couldn't make it, Stitcher said. He waited several minutes and then managed to escape.

Once outside, the prisoners split up. Jernell and Carr said they walked to Cumberland by separate routes, leaving Wilson at the scene.

SRC Chairman Cites 1943 Court Ruling

The Allegany County Delegation has been informed that the State Roads Commission believes the reopening of the Flat Rock bridge and railroad grade crossing is a local issue.

In a letter to Del. Charles M. See, chairman of the Delegation, SRC Chairman Russell H. McCain advised that under a court ruling, the county has a perfect right to reopen the crossing, but would have to negotiate with the Western Maryland Railway, which owns the former Cumberland and Pennsylvania Railroad.

Del. See, in releasing a copy of the letter, said there was no doubt in his mind that McCain has gone into the problem thoroughly.

Ruling Requested

McCain said a request was made, at a meeting with the Delegation February 23, for advice as to assistance in reopening the bridge and crossing.

He said that before 1938, the Flat Rock Road intersected with Md. Route 36 about one mile south of Barton.

In 1938, he added, an agreement was drafted between Allegany County, the State Roads Commission and the C & P Railroad for the closing of the crossing and contiguous bridge across Georges Creek.

In the agreement, McCain reported, the railroad paid certain sums toward the closing, the SRC constructed a new grade crossing about two miles south of Barton became and still is a part of Md. Route 692.

Bridge Antiquated

He pointed out the bridge is a one-way antiquated structure, adding that Route 36 opposite the old Georges Creek bridge was elevated, making access to the old span and crossing more undesirable.

It is understood, he added, that about 1943 the county commissioners regretted their action and sought to reopen the grade crossing, which would have meant reopening the bridge.

Judge D. Lindley Sloan of the Allegany Circuit Court, he recalled, ruled to the effect that the railroad's action was not necessary, since no crossing existed, as it had been vacated. The ruling further stated that the Commissioners had a legal right to create a grade crossing, he added.

Action On Two Bond Issues Is Slated Monday

Ordinances calling for the sale of two bond issues totaling $2,400,000 are expected to be introduced for action of the Mayor and Council Monday.

Mayor Roy W. Eves had expected to call a special meeting yesterday afternoon to allow the city to advertise the issues, but deferred action when the ordinances being prepared by a Baltimore legal firm failed to arrive.

One of the issues will be for $2,000,000 to finance the Cumberland Sewage Treatment System, and represents the biggest one-shot expenditure to be made in the city's history.

The sewage treatment bonds will be retired from revenues from sewage treatment services and has been set up so the issue will be retired in 29 years.

The amortization schedule calls for retirement to begin in 1958 — time enough for the city to get the plant in operation and adjust service charges to meet payments.

The bonds will be retired at the rate of $50,000 a year 1958 through 1967, about $75,000 in 1968 through 1975, and $100,000 from 1976 through 1984.

Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor, said the schedule has been set up on the basis of expected increase in the needs for the sewage treatment services.

The flood money will be the last of $2,500,000 authorized by the General Assembly for the city and county's contribution toward the work.

Allegany County has already made available all of its $1,000,000, and the city has spent $1,100,000 of an authorized $1,500,000 issue.

Collection Day Today

DeWitt Will Be Arraigned On Murder Count

Garrett County authorities said last night Robert William De Witt, 38-year-old woodcutter indicted on a murder charge in connection with the death of his three-months-old daughter, will be arraigned in Circuit Court in Oakland Saturday at 10 a. m.

Stephen R. Pagenhardt, Garrett County prosecutor, indicated he hopes to try DeWitt later this month on the open murder charge.

DeWitt was arrested for the second time Wednesday at Buena Vista, Va., where he, his wife, and their three other children moved several months ago.

Both DeWitt and his wife were arrested in Feebruary and held for investigation in the death of their daughter last October. They were released about a week later "for lack of information and evidence," according to Sheriff Paul W. Fisher of Oakland.

Neither Pagenhardt nor Fisher would go into detail about the additional evidence they said they had turned up since the DeWitts were released, and which brought about the indictment of the father earlier this week by the Garrett County Grand Jury.

Sheriff Fisher said he had been working on the case since January when he got a report there was something mysterious about the baby's death.

Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt told authorities when they were first arrested the baby had died of natural causes at a time when they were snowbound at their meager home in the Sang Run section north of Oakland. They said they had no money for a funeral and so had simply buried the baby near their house.

Mrs. DeWitt was not arrested in Virginia with her husband, and remained there at the home of DeWitt's brother.

Kimble, Friend Start Swinging On Senate Floor

Exchange Follows Heated Debate

ANNAPOLIS, March 17 (AP)—Two Senate Republicans were forcibly restrained by colleagues tonight when they started swinging at each other after a heated exchange on a bill to cancel scheduled motor vehicle license fee increases.

The physical clash on the Senate floor started, and was quickly halted, after the Senate had passed the bill 17-8 and adjourned.

Name Calling

Friend strolled up to Kimble's desk and a reporter within earshot said the minority leader called the Garrett senator "a dirty S.O.B." after some preliminary remarks between the two.

"Don't you call me that!" Friend shouted, lunged at Kimble and started to pull off his coat.

When Kimble sought to delay it a day because four senators were absent, Friend had told the Senate that it had postponed this and similar legislation several times.

Charges "Obstruction"

"I believe we can dispose of it tonight," he said. "I believe that motion was made for the purpose of obstruction . . . looking around the chamber to see who is absent I don't believe the senator has any votes there."

"My motion is just as honest as any from the senator from Garrett could ever be," he said in rising anger.

Water Main Is Broken, Highway Closed By Slide

A heavy rock slide blocked State Route 135 between Luke and Bloomington yesterday afternoon and knocked out the water line supplying water to Westernport, Franklin and Brophytown.

The slide, which occurred in the city limits of Luke, tore out about 300 feet of 10-inch water line which carries water from Savage River Dam into the Westernport Hill reservoir.

Mayor Okey E. Michael of Westernport said last night the slide, which covered the highway for an area of over 200 feet with about two feet of dirt, debris and rocks, was cleared by work crews from Westernport and Luke in about three hours.

Traffic to Bloomington from Luke on Route 135 was completely blocked until the highway was cleared.

Michael said repairs on the water line will begin early this morning. Meanwhile, the mayor has requested all water users in the Tri-Towns area to use as little water as possible until the line is repaired.

The Westernport Hill reservoir, which supplies the area with water, holds about 750,000 gallons when full, Michael explained. It now has about 650,000 gallons, which is a little over one day's supply for the area.

Michael explained the city of Westernport will be able to purchase water from Piedmont in case of necessity, but he hopes the water main can be fixed in time to prevent this.

No cars were damaged nor was anyone injured in the rock slide which occurred about 5:30 p. m., near the old Buxton Mine. The water line which was damaged runs underground along the mountainside at this point and was torn out by the slide.

Michael said several other slides have occurred in the area in the past.

The Weather

Brisk was the word for yesterday's weather. The sun shone but it was colder than it has been the past several weeks. The official high was only 44 degrees. The low reading was 27 and at 8 o'clock last night the temperature stood at 37. Humidity at 6 p. m. was 28 per cent. Occasional rain, cloudy and cool are included in the predictions for today.

Youth Gets 6 Months On Motor Count

Donald Louis Walters, 236 Paca Street, was given the stiff penalty for altering his drivers' permit in an attempt to buy intoxicants recently in Ridgeley.

Walters, who served a term in the Maryland Training School for Boys for unauthorized use of an automobile, was arrested Tuesday by Ridgeley Police and was turned over to Cumberland City Police.

Magistrate Morris Baron, who meted out the punishment to the youth, said Walters had attempted to buy beer in Ridgeley, using the altered operator's permit as a means to show he was of age.

Walters was on parole from the Maryland Training School when he was arrested last month in the company of some self-styled "drapes." He had been drinking then, Baron said.

Charged with violation of parole in Juvenile Court, he was reparoled in the hope he would "straighten himself out," authorities said.

Juvenile Court authorities waived jurisdiction in the case which was handed over to Trial Magistrates Court on the state motor charge.

Teachers Pay Bill Is Sent To Senate

The House has passed and sent to the Senate the teachers pay bill, Del. Charles M. See, chairman of the Allegany County Delegation, reported from Annapolis yesterday.

The Delegation sponsored measure, he said, provides for $300 a year increase this September, $100 more in 1956 and another $100 in 1957.

Also sent to the Senate were House Bills 538 and 539, which would remove the debt and tax limits of the Town of Westernport, subject to referendums.

Adopted Wednesday night, he said, was House Resolution 67, which requests the Board of Education to set up, on a trial basis, a program for the training of handicapped children.

He said the Delegation has under study a bill to set up a lighting system in Cresaptown.

Senate Passes Bill To Kill Auto Tag Fee Increase

ANNAPOLIS, March 17 (AP)—The Senate tonight passed a bill to eliminate entirely motor vehicle license fee increases which it had previously postponed for one year.

The vote was 17 to 8 with little debate and with four senators absent. Sen. Kimble (R-Allegany) tried unsuccessfully to delay the vote until those not present could attend.

The bill now goes to the House, which is expected to pass the bill. It faces an almost certain veto from Gov. McKeldin, but Democrats would need to pick up only one more vote than they had tonight to override him.

Jaycees To Vote For New Board

Seven new members of the Board of Directors will be elected by the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce at the April 6 dinner meeting at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Raymond C. Dorn, nominating committee chairman, has announced the nominees.

They include Miles S. Amick, Paul A. Buchanan, M. Brent Coleman, Albert D. Darby Jr., Arthur S. Davis Jr., C. Walter Haschert, John R. MacVeigh, Robert A. Mathews, Robert E. Moore, Joseph H. Pellerzi, Henry Sauer, Leonard C. Schwab, Ronald J. Screen and Richard A. Sell.

Metropolitan Church Plans Organ Recital Tonight

A sacred organ recital will be presented by Oscar L. Walden of Washington at 8 o'clock tonight at Metropolitan A.M.E. Church.

The recital will be presented under auspices of the Women's Day Committee of which Mrs. Clara Thomas is president. The organist is a son of Rev. Charles E. Walden Sr., pastor of the church.

Walden has divided his program into three parts. It will begin with "Prelude and Fugue in D Minor" by Bach. This will be followed by two chorale preludes, "Behold a Rose Breaks Into Bloom" and "O World, I Now Must Leave Thee," both by Brahms. The opening portion will end with "Toccata" from Widor's Fifth Symphony for organ.

The second segment of the recital will open with three Negro spirituals, "Deep River," "He'll Say 'Well Done'" and "Let Us Break Bread Together." Then will come three hymns of the church, "Once To Every Man and Nation Comes The Moment To Decide," "Sweet Hour of Prayer" and "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God."

Closing the concert will be a tribute to Johann Sebastian Bach. Three Bach selections, "I Call Thee, Lord Jesus Christ," "In Death's Strong Grasp The Saviour Lay" and "Toccata and Fugue in D Minor."

'Thailand Loves Freedom Too'

Munshower Gets Lengthy Quiz From Senators

Reports Spread Of Opposition

BULLETIN

ANNAPOLIS, March 17 (AP)—A bill for a $50,000 probes of the Maryland Roads Commission was passed by the House tonight and sent to the Senate which has rejected an identical measure three times.

By LOU PANOS

ANNAPOLIS, March 17 (AP)—Col. Elmer F. Munshower was questioned for 21 minutes today by a Senate committee considering whether he should be confirmed again as State Police superintendent. The committee chairman said he "might" be called back.

There had been reports of opposition in the Democrat-controlled Senate to reappointment of Munshower by Republican Gov. McKeldin.

Munshower and other appointees to statewide office appeared before the Committee on Executive Nominations headed by Sen. Phipps (D-Anne Arundel).

Few were questioned more than three or four minutes.

Next to Munshower, the appointee who was closeted with the senators longest was former Rep. Frank Small Jr., named to succeed Thomas B. R. Mudd as commissioner of motor vehicles. He was in the committee room about half as long as the State Police head.

Brief Periods

Those who were in for relatively brief periods were C. Morton Goldstein, nominated as chairman of the movie censorship board; John P. Tawes, Tidewater Fisheries Commission member named to head that agency, and William Hilgenberg, appointed a member of the commission.

There was evidence that some opposition to Munshower had developed over the question of his age. He is 69 but as superintendent is not covered by regulations requiring State Police personnel to retire at 65.

Earlier reports said Munshower also would be closely questioned about a survey which reputedly showed that the National Safety Council had ranked the Maryland State Police Department extremely high on trooper training and was extremely low on administration.

It was understood there was strong sentiment in the committee to slice the salaries of some department heads whose supervisory duties require relatively little time.

The motor vehicles commissioner's post was cited as an example. It pays $8,000 a year.

"Unless you're going to make it a full-time job, why give him full-time pay?" asked one senator after the session. He requested his name be withheld.

Thai Embassy Attache Cites Many Links With This Land

By ALBERT D. DARBY
News Staff Writer

Cumberland's close connection with the Southeast Asian country of Thailand, some 10,000 miles away, was emphasized yesterday as Chun Prabha, public relations attache of the Royal Thai Embassy in Washington, was reminded that his country is one of the good customers of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company.

That information was given him by Arthur Verner, sales manager of the Kelly export division. The visitor from Thailand toured the Kelly plant yesterday morning in one of the features of his busy two-day stay in Cumberland. Verner recalled that just last May he spent about a week in Bangkok, the capital of Thailand, staying at the Oriental Hotel there.

An insight into agriculture, industry and club life was afforded Prabha in the past two days here. He and his wife drove here from Washington Wednesday in the Cadillac provided by the embassy. While here they have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Peter W. Smith, 913 Louisiana Avenue.

Visits Orchard, Church

The first afternoon here the embassy attache and Smith visited the orchards of Gilbert Miller at Spring Gap. That night they attended the meeting of the Men's Club of First Presbyterian Church.

Yesterday was the busy day with a morning tour of the Kelly plant, a speaking engagement at the Cumberland Kiwanis Club luncheon, a tour of the Celanese plant in the afternoon and finally an appearance at the Johnson Heights School PTA meeting last night.

Prabha was escorted to the Kelly plant by Bernard G. Renz, president of the Kiwanis Club. They first met J. H. Pitkethly, resident manager of Kelly's export division. He too stressed that Thailand has for years been a "substantial" purchaser of tires made here in Cumberland.

The two-hour tour through the tire plant was led by Charles L. Herath, chief engineer, who gave the embassy attache a good idea of American mass production from the raw materials to the finished product.

"Land Of Free People"

Prabha was much interested in the tour. His country has plenty of rubber but no tire plants. Next to rice, rubber is the principal export of Thailand. He believes American "know how" will help industrialize his country.

At the Kiwanis meeting, Prabha gave special emphasis to points of mutual interest between his country and the United States. The word Thailand, for instance, means "Land of Free People."

The Thai ancestors, just like the people who founded this country, migrated to keep their freedom. Some 2,000 years ago they left the Yunan province in what now is China in search of that cherished freedom. It was in 1238 A. D. that they finally reached their present homeland.

Siam, which was the former name of Prabha's country, is the only Asian land that did not become a colony of a European power. Probably because Thailand never has fallen under the rule of a European country, it never has exhibited the strong anti-foreign bias that characterizes most other Asian lands.

Prabha believes that Thailand's long history of independence is one reason why its major city of Bangkok was recently chosen as the permanent headquarters of SEATO, the South East Asia Treaty Organization.

First Far East Treaty

This coming Sunday will mark a milestone in U.S.-Thailand friendship. On March 20, 1833 the United States and Siam signed a treaty of amity and commerce. Siam was the first country in the Far East to sign such a pact with this country.

The original Siamese twins, Chang and Eng, born in Siam in 1811, are another link between the two countries. Brought to this country in the mid-19th Century,

Lemmert Condition Good

William H. Lemmert, Frostburg, president of the Board of Allegany County Commissioners, was in good condition last night in Memorial Hospital, where he was admitted Wednesday afternoon.

Shade's Lane Bus Proposal To Be Studied

Mayor Roy W. Eves reported yesterday that the Cumberland Transit Lines will take under advisement a proposal worked out at City Hall yesterday to provide limited bus service to the Shade's Lane section.

Guy M. Davis, president, told Mrs. C. M. Frye and Mrs. A. H. Northcraft, representing residents of the area that it might be possible to provide service to the area by alternating the route of the Baltimore Avenue runs to that section.

Davis explained he would be unable to make a major change in the bus schedule until a new summer schedule is adopted after schools close.

He said he will study the possibilities of running Baltimore Avenue buses on even hours on an alternate route—from Shade's Lane to Oakland Street, to Harding Street, back to Calvin Street, to Yale, to Frost and back to Shade's Lane.

Mrs. Frye and Mrs. Northcraft estimated the alternate route would provide service to some 23 homes and about 150 people.

On odd hours, the present run—leaving Baltimore Street, to Batlimore Avenue, to Marion Street, to Monroe, to Central and back to Baltimore Pike would apply.

Davis pointed out this plan, the only thing which could be worked out until the new summer schedule, would mean that the service for some of the people on the run, now hourly, would become every two hours.

Jaycees Oppose Inventory Tax Proposed Change

See Says Delegates Study Situation

A resolution requesting the Allegany County Board of Commissioners to rescind its unanimous action of February 18 in asking repeal of Chapter 592 of the 1953 Acts of the General Assembly has been adopted by the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce.

Chapter 592 exempts 40 per cent of merchandise inventories in the county from county taxation. This act removed approximately $8,700,000, previously taxed, from the county's assessable basis.

The Jaycee resolution, adopted at a general membership meeting Wednesday night in the Herman Room of the Queen City Brewing Company, also opposes any change in Chapter 18 of the 1953 Acts of the General Assembly. This act provides existing industries certain exemptions for expansion of their existing facilities. The Jaycees point out that such exemptions are necessary in order to attract this expansion, which in turn provides more income and more jobs to the entire area.

Delegation Studies

Del. Charles M. See, chairman, said the Allegany County Delegation has been studying proposals to repeal the retroactive feature of the 1953 industrial expansion tax exemption bill and another 1953 bill which gave businesses a 40 per cent exemption on their inventories in Allegany County.

He said the delegates have "arrived at a decision" on the retroactive issue, but declined to reveal what has been decided.

Del. See said the delegates have as yet reached no formal decision on the inventory tax.

He stressed that "nobody has ever suggested that the 1951 law which provides a 10-year tax exemption for new plants" be repealed or amended.

"Deprives Industry"

"The repeal or amendment of either one or both of these acts deprives industry and business of this area certain tax equalities which should be continued," the Jaycee resolution adds. "To make any change may establish a precedent that would operate toward creating an attitude of bad faith and hostility toward business and industry.

"In the creation of such bad faith and hostility, the net effect to the community would be to decrease the job opportunities in the county. It is an established fact that business and industry cannot expand or even maintain a status quo in an area where the taxing authorities' attitude is subject to changing conditions which reacts to the net detriment of our economic growth as a community.

"The Junior Association of Commerce is vitally interested in the economic growth and expansion of the county and the corresponding increase in the available jobs which will follow such growth. Any tax legislation which detracts from such growth necessarily detracts from the county-wide employment and income possibilities. Therefore, this organization takes a strong position that no change should be made in either of the two aforementioned acts of the 1953 Maryland Legislature," the resolution concludes.

On February 17, the Civic Development Committee of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce released a special report on the Allegany County fiscal picture.

That committee, of which C. William Gilchrist was chairman, made a number of recommendations. However, it hesitated to recommend changes in these two acts, even though admitting that at least amendment appears desirable for both. The Chamber of Commerce committee expressed a belief that such amendments might create the impression that the Legislature or the county commissioners are hostile to industry. The committee does not believe that such is the case, that report said but "we cannot afford at this time to permit even the inference of such an attitude."

Sybert's Ruling

On March 10 State Senator Robert B. Kimble announced that Attorney General C. Ferdinand Sybert has ruled that both of these exemptions can be revoked under the power held by the General Assembly. Kimble previously said that he would introduce legislation repealing these exemptions if the attorney general ruled favorably.

Senator Kimble's idea is to remove from Chapter 18 the part that provided exemption for work done between June 1, 1951, and June 1, 1953. That expansion was virtually completed when the act was adopted by the General Assembly in 1953.

Chapter 18 has caused the county to eliminate some $6,500,500 in assessable property from the county's books. Of that total some $4,119,671 was done between June 1, 1951, and June 1, 1953.

Concerning Chapter 592, Sybert said that the 40 per cent exemption was a grant, not a contractual arrangement, and in removing it there would be no interference with the vested rights of taxpayers.

Mayor Will Attend Municipal Meeting

Mayor Roy W. Eves will represent Cumberland at a meeting of the executive council of the Maryland Municipal League in College Park Saturday. Business will include progress reports on legislation in which the League is vitally interested, he added.

Posse Combs Woods For Third Escapee

Wilson Spotted Near Bloomington

Police of two states last night combed the heavy woodlands near Bloomington in search of William Warner Wilson after the 33-year-old escapee from Mineral County Jail at Keyser had been spotted in the area.

Vernon E. Rankin, Mineral County prosecuting attorney said the posse included an agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, members of the Keyser Police Department, and Maryland and West Virginia state police.

Wilson had fled the jail with William Leonard "Red" Jernell, 38, of RD 1, Keyser, and James Cornelius Carr, 32, of 4 Clement Street, early Tuesday.

Other Two Recaptured

Jernell and Carr were recaptured by Cumberland and Ridgeley police Wednesday evening in a tiny area between the flooring and the foundation of Clement's home. They were returned to West Virginia yesterday after having waived extradition before Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris in Circuit Court here.

Wilson is five feet, five and a half-inches tall, weighs about 140 pounds and has brown wavy hair. He has been wearing a cast on his left hand.

Yesterday, Mineral County officials went to work to make the Keyser lockup more "escape-proof" by having welders repair the escape window and other bars.

A spokesman revealed yesterday that several bars on the Keyser jail windows have needed welding for some time but that the work had been put off.

Pried Bars Apart

Detective Joseph H. Stitcher of the Cumberland Police Department, who along with Officer Kenneth W. Morrissey and Ridgeley Chief of Police Harry Detrick made the arrests Wednesday, added these details:

A heavy screen at the Keyser lockup had been pried loose two days before the actual escape. A screw driver supplied by an unidentified person was used. When time for the break came the three culprits knocked out a bar which had been previously sawed and had not been re-welded.

Jernell and Wilson fled first. Carr tried to get through the small opening but couldn't make it, Stitcher said. He waited several minutes and then managed to escape.

Once outside, the prisoners split up. Jernell and Carr said they walked to Cumberland by separate routes, leaving Wilson at the scene.

Action On Two Bond Issues Is Slated Monday

Ordinances calling for the sale of two bond issues totaling $2,400,000 are expected to be introduced for action of the Mayor and Council Monday.

Mayor Roy W. Eves had expected to call a special meeting yesterday afternoon to allow the city to advertise the issues, but deferred action when the ordinances being prepared by a Baltimore legal firm failed to arrive.

One of the issues will be for $2,000,000 to finance the Cumberland Sewage Treatment System, and represents the biggest one-shot expenditure to be made in the city's history.

The second is a $400,000 bond issue to meet local costs in connection with the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood protection project.

The sewage treatment bonds will be retired from revenues from sewage treatment services and has been set up so the issue will be retired in 29 years.

The amortization schedule calls for retirement to begin in 1958 — time enough for the city to get the plant in operation and adjust service charges to meet payments.

The bonds will be retired at the rate of $50,000 a year 1958 through 1967, about $75,000 in 1968 through 1975, and $100,000 from 1976 through 1984.

Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor, said the schedule has been set up on the basis of expected increase in the needs for the sewage treatment services.

The flood money will be the last of $2,500,000 authorized by the General Assembly for the city and county's contribution toward the work.

Allegany County has already made available all of its $1,000,000, and the city has spent $1,100,000 of an authorized $1,500,000 issue.

SRC Chairman Cites 1943 Court Ruling

The Allegany County Delegation has been informed that the State Roads Commission believes the reopening of the Flat Rock bridge and railroad grade crossing is a local issue.

In a letter to Del. Charles M. See, chairman of the Delegation, SRC Chairman Russell H. McCain advised that under a court ruling, the county has a perfect right to reopen the crossing, but would have to negotiate with the Western Maryland Railway, which owns the former Cumberland and Pennsylvania Railroad.

Del. See, in releasing a copy of the letter, said there was no doubt in his mind that McCain has gone into the problem thoroughly.

Ruling Requested

McCain said a request was made, at a meeting with the Delegation February 23, for advice as to assistance in reopening the bridge and crossing.

He said that before 1938, the Flat Rock Road intersected with Md. Route 36 about one mile south of Barton.

In 1938, he added, an agreement was drafted between Allegany County, the State Roads Commission and the C & P Railroad for the closing of the crossing and contiguous bridge across Georges Creek.

In the agreement, McCain reported, the railroad paid certain sums toward the closing, the SRC constructed a new grade crossing about two miles south of Barton became and still is a part of Md. Route 692.

Bridge Antiquated

He pointed out the bridge is a one-way antiquated structure, adding that Route 36 opposite the old Georges Creek bridge was elevated, making access to the old span and crossing more undesirable.

It is understood, he added, that about 1943 the county commissioners regretted their action and sought to reopen the grade crossing, which would have meant reopening the bridge.

The railroad, he added, apparently filed a suit to restrain the county from reopening the crossing.

Judge D. Lindley Sloan of the Allegany Circuit Court, he recalled, ruled to the effect that the railroad's action was not necessary, since no crossing existed, as it had been vacated. The ruling further stated that the Commissioners had a legal right to create a grade crossing, he added.

DeWitt Will Be Arraigned On Murder Count

Garrett County authorities said last night Robert William De Witt, 38-year-old woodcutter indicted on a murder charge in connection with the death of his three-months-old daughter, will be arraigned in Circuit Court in Oakland Saturday at 10 a. m.

Stephen R. Pagenhardt, Garrett County prosecutor, indicated he hopes to try DeWitt later this month on the open murder charge.

DeWitt was arrested for the second time Wednesday at Buena Vista, Va., where he, his wife, and their three other children moved several months ago.

Both DeWitt and his wife were arrested in Feebruary and held for investigation in the death of their daughter last October. They were released about a week later "for lack of information and evidence," according to Sheriff Paul W. Fisher of Oakland.

Neither Pagenhardt nor Fisher would go into detail about the additional evidence they said they had turned up since the DeWitts were released, and which brought about the indictment of the father earlier this week by the Garrett County Grand Jury.

Sheriff Fisher said he had been working on the case since January when he got a report there was something mysterious about the baby's death.

Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt told authorities when they were first arrested the baby had died of natural causes at a time when they were snowbound at their meager home in the Sang Run section north of Oakland. They said they had no money for a funeral and so had simply buried the baby near their house.

Mrs. DeWitt was not arrested in Virginia with her husband, and remained there at the home of DeWitt's brother.

Kimble, Friend Start Swinging On Senate Floor

Exchange Follows Heated Debate

ANNAPOLIS, March 17 (AP)—Two Senate Republicans were forcibly restrained by colleagues tonight when they started swinging at each other after a heated exchange on a bill to cancel scheduled motor vehicle license fee increases.

Sen. Kimble (R-Allegany), minority floor leader, and Sen. Friend (R-Garrett), co-sponsor with three Democrats of the license fee bill, had earlier tangled verbally during a brief debate over Kimble's seeking to delay a vote on the bill.

The physical clash on the Senate floor started, and was quickly halted, after the Senate had passed the bill 17-8 and adjourned.

Name Calling

Friend strolled up to Kimble's desk and a reporter within earshot said the minority leader called the Garrett senator "a dirty S.O.B." after some preliminary remarks between the two.

"Don't you call me that!" Friend shouted, lunged at Kimble and started to pull off his coat.

Kimble threw his fists up as several persons grabbed Friend and struggled with him.

As tempers subsided, Kimble apologized for his remark. Goldstein, playing the role of peacemaker, led the two men to his office for a chat.

The verbal clash between the two earlier comprised practically all of the debate on the license fee repeal measure.

When Kimble sought to delay it a day because four senators were absent, Friend had told the Senate that it had postponed this and similar legislation several times.

Charges "Obstruction"

"I believe we can dispose of it tonight," he said. "I believe that motion was made for the purpose of obstruction . . . looking around the chamber to see who is absent I don't believe the senator has any votes there."

Kimble hopped to his feet to protest Friend's charge of "obstruction" of the legislation.

"My motion is just as honest as any from the senator from Garrett could ever be," he said in rising anger.

Water Main Is Broken, Highway Closed By Slide

A heavy rock slide blocked State Route 135 between Luke and Bloomington yesterday afternoon and knocked out the water line supplying water to Westernport, Franklin and Brophytown.

The slide, which occurred in the city limits of Luke, tore out about 300 feet of 10-inch water line which carries water from Savage River Dam into the Westernport Hill reservoir.

Mayor Okey E. Michael of Westernport said last night the slide, which covered the highway for an area of over 200 feet with about two feet of dirt, debris and rocks, was cleared by work crews from Westernport and Luke in about three hours.

Traffic to Bloomington from Luke on Route 135 was completely blocked until the highway was cleared.

Michael said repairs on the water line will begin early this morning. Meanwhile, the mayor has requested all water users in the Tri-Towns area to use as little water as possible until the line is repaired.

The Westernport Hill reservoir, which supplies the area with water, holds about 750,000 gallons when full, Michael explained. It now has about 650,000 gallons, which is a little over one day's supply for the area.

Michael explained the city of Westernport will be able to purchase water from Piedmont in case of necessity, but he hopes the water main can be fixed in time to prevent this.

No cars were damaged nor was anyone injured in the rock slide which occurred about 5:30 p. m., near the old Buxton Mine. The water line which was damaged runs underground along the mountainside at this point and was torn out by the slide.

Michael said several other slides have occurred in the area in the past.

The Weather

Brisk was the word for yesterday's weather. The sun shone but it was colder than it has been the past several weeks. The official high was only 44 degrees. The low reading was 27 and at 8 o'clock last night the temperature stood at 37. Humidity at 6 p. m. was 28 per cent. Occasional rain, cloudy and cool are included in the predictions for today.

Youth Gets 6 Months On Motor Count

A 16-year-old Paca Street youth was sentenced to six months in the Maryland House of Correction yesterday in Trial Magistrates Court on a state motor vehicle charge.

Donald Louis Walters, 236 Paca Street, was given the stiff penalty for altering his drivers' permit in an attempt to buy intoxicants recently in Ridgeley.

Walters, who served a term in the Maryland Training School for Boys for unauthorized use of an automobile, was arrested Tuesday by Ridgeley Police and was turned over to Cumberland City Police.

Magistrate Morris Baron, who meted out the punishment to the youth, said Walters had attempted to buy beer in Ridgeley, using the altered operator's permit as a means to show he was of age.

Walters was on parole from the Maryland Training School when he was arrested last month in the company of some self-styled "drapes." He had been drinking then, Baron said.

Charged with violation of parole in Juvenile Court, he was reparoled in the hope he would "straighten himself out," authorities said.

Juvenile Court authorities waived jurisdiction in the case which was handed over to Trial Magistrates Court on the state motor charge.

Teachers Pay Bill Is Sent To Senate

The House has passed and sent to the Senate the teachers pay bill, Del. Charles M. See, chairman of the Allegany County Delegation, reported from Annapolis yesterday.

The Delegation sponsored measure, he said, provides for $300 a year increase this September, $100 more in 1956 and another $100 in 1957.

Also sent to the Senate were House Bills 538 and 539, which would remove the debt and tax limits of the Town of Westernport, subject to referendums.

Adopted Wednesday night, he said, was House Resolution 67, which requests the Board of Education to set up, on a trial basis, a program for the training of handicapped children.

He said the Delegation has under study a bill to set up a lighting system in Cresaptown.

Senate Passes Bill To Kill Auto Tag Fee Increase

ANNAPOLIS, March 17 (AP)—The Senate tonight passed a bill to eliminate entirely motor vehicle license fee increases which it had previously postponed for one year.

The vote was 17 to 8 with little debate and with four senators absent. Sen. Kimble (R-Allegany) tried unsuccessfully to delay the vote until those not present could attend.

The bill now goes to the House, which is expected to pass the bill. It faces an almost certain veto from Gov. McKeldin, but Democrats would need to pick up only one more vote than they had tonight to override him.

Jaycees To Vote For New Board

Seven new members of the Board of Directors will be elected by the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce at the April 6 dinner meeting at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Raymond C. Dorn, nominating committee chairman, has announced the nominees.

They include Miles S. Amick, Paul A. Buchanan, M. Brent Coleman, Albert D. Darby Jr., Arthur S. Davis Jr., C. Walter Haschert, John R. MacVeigh, Robert A. Matthews, Robert E. Moore, Joseph H. Pellerzi, Henry Sauer, Leonard C. Schwab, Ronald J. Screen and Richard A. Sell.

Metropolitan Church Plans Organ Recital Tonight

A sacred organ recital will be presented by Oscar L. Walden of Washington at 8 o'clock tonight at Metropolitan A.M.E. Church.

The recital will be presented under auspices of the Women's Day Committee of which Mrs. Clara Thomas is president. The organist is a sor of Rev. Charles E. Walden Sr., pastor of the church.

Walden has divided his program into three parts. It will begin with "Prelude and Fugue in D Minor" by Bach. This will be followed by two chorale preludes, "Behold a Rose Breaks Into Bloom" and "O World, I Now Must Leave Thee," both by Brahms. The opening portion will end with "Toccata" from Widor's Fifth Symphony for organ.

The second segment of the recital will open with three Negro spirituals, "Deep River," "He'll Say 'Well Done'" and "Let Us Break Bread Together." Then will come three hymns of the church, "Once To Every Man and Nation Comes The Moment To Decide," "Sweet Hour of Prayer" and "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God."

Closing the concert will be a tribute to Johann Sebastian Bach. Three Bach selections, "I Call Thee, Lord Jesus Christ," "In Death's Strong Grasp The Saviour Lay" and "Toccata and Fugue in D Minor."

'Thailand Loves Freedom Too'

Munshower Gets Lengthy Quiz From Senators

Reports Spread Of Opposition

BULLETIN

ANNAPOLIS, March 17 (AP)—A bill for a $50,000 probes of the Maryland Roads Commission was passed by the House tonight and sent to the Senate which has rejected an identical measure three times.

By LOU PANOS

ANNAPOLIS, March 17 (AP)—Col. Elmer F. Munshower was questioned for 21 minutes today by a Senate committee considering whether he should be confirmed again as State Police superintendent. The committee chairman said he "might" be called back.

There had been reports of opposition in the Democrat-controlled Senate to reappointment of Munshower by Republican Gov. McKeldin.

Munshower and other appointees to statewide office appeared before the Committee on Executive Nominations headed by Sen. Phipps (D-Anne Arundel).

Few were questioned more than three or four minutes.

Next to Munshower, the appointee who was closeted with the senators longest was former Rep. Frank Small Jr., named to succeed Thomas B. R. Mudd as commissioner of motor vehicles. He was in the committee room about half as long as the State Police head.

Brief Periods

Those who were in for relatively brief periods were C. Morton Goldstein, nominated as chairman of the movie censorship board; John P. Tawes, Tidewater Fisheries Commission member named to head that agency, and William Hilgenberg, appointed a member of the commission.

There was evidence that some opposition to Munshower had developed over the question of his age. He is 69 but as superintendent is not covered by regulations requiring State Police personnel to retire at 65.

Earlier reports said Munshower also would be closely questioned about a survey which reputedly showed that the National Safety Council had ranked the Maryland State Police Department extremely high on trooper training and was extremely low on administration.

It was understood there was strong sentiment in the committee to slice the salaries of some department heads whose supervisory duties require relatively little time.

The motor vehicles commissioner's post was cited as an example. It pays $8,000 a year.

"Unless you're going to make it a full-time job, why give him full-time pay?" asked one senator after the session. He requested his name be withheld.

Thai Embassy Attache Cites Many Links With This Land

By ALBERT D. DARBY
News Staff Writer

Cumberland's close connection with the Southeast Asian country of Thailand, some 10,000 miles away, was emphasized yesterday as Chun Prabha, public relations attache of the Royal Thai Embassy in Washington, was reminded that his country is one of the good customers of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company.

That information was given him by Arthur Verner, sales manager of the Kelly export division. The visitor from Thailand toured the Kelly plant yesterday morning in one of the features of his busy two-day stay in Cumberland. Verner recalled that just last May he spent about a week in Bangkok, the capital of Thailand, staying at the Oriental Hotel there.

An insight into agriculture, industry and club life was afforded Prabha in the past two days here. He and his wife drove here from Washington Wednesday in the Cadillac provided by the embassy. While here they have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Peter W. Smith, 913 Louisiana Avenue.

Visits Orchard, Church

The first afternoon here the embassy attache and Smith visited the orchards of Gilbert Miller at Spring Gap. That night they attended the meeting of the Men's Club of First Presbyterian Church.

Yesterday was the busy day with a morning tour of the Kelly plant, a speaking engagement at the Cumberland Kiwanis Club luncheon, a tour of the Celanese plant in the afternoon and finally an appearance at the Johnson Heights School PTA meeting last night.

Prabha was escorted to the Kelly plant by Bernard G. Renz, president of the Kiwanis Club. They first met J. H. Pitkethly, resident manager of Kelly's export division. He too stressed that Thailand has for years been a "substantial" purchaser of tires made here in Cumberland.

The two-hour tour through the tire plant was led by Charles L. Herath, chief engineer, who gave the embassy attache a good idea of American mass production from the raw materials to the finished product.

"Land Of Free People"

Prabha was much interested in the tour. His country has plenty of rubber but no tire plants. Next to rice, rubber is the principal export of Thailand. He believes American "know how" will help industrialize his country.

At the Kiwanis meeting, Prabha gave special emphasis to points of mutual interest between his country and the United States. The word Thailand, for instance, means "Land of Free People."

The Thai ancestors, just like the people who founded this country, migrated to keep their freedom. Some 2,000 years ago they left the Yunan province in what now is China in search of that cherished freedom. It was in 1238 A. D. that they finally reached their present homeland.

Siam, which was the former name of Prabha's country, is the only Asian land that did not become a colony of a European power. Probably because Thailand never has fallen under the rule of a European country, it never has exhibited the strong anti-foreign bias that characterizes most other Asian lands.

Prabha believes that Thailand's long history of independence is one reason why its major city of Bangkok was recently chosen as the permanent headquarters of SEATO, the South East Asia Treaty Organization.

First Far East Treaty

This coming Sunday will mark a milestone in U.S.-Thailand friendship. On March 20, 1833 the United States and Siam signed a treaty of amity and commerce. Siam was the first country in the Far East to sign such a pact with this country.

The original Siamese twins, Chang and Eng, born in Siam in 1811, are another link between the two countries. Brought to this country in the mid-19th Century,

Shade's Lane Bus Proposal To Be Studied

Mayor Roy W. Eves reported yesterday that the Cumberland Transit Lines will take under advisement a proposal worked out at City Hall yesterday to provide limited bus service to the Shade's Lane section.

Guy M. Davis, president, told Mrs. C. M. Frye and Mrs. A. H. Northcraft, representing residents of the area, that it might be possible to provide service to the area by alternating the route of the Baltimore Avenue runs to that section.

Davis explained he would be unable to make a major change in the bus schedule until a new summer schedule is adopted after schools close.

He said he will study the possibilities of running Baltimore Avenue buses on even hours on an alternate route—from Shade's Lane to Oakland Street, to Harding Street, back to Calvin Street, to Yale, to Frost and back to Shade's Lane.

Mrs. Frye and Mrs. Northcraft estimated the alternate route would provide service to some 23 homes and about 150 people.

On odd hours, the present run—leaving Baltimore Street, to Baltimore Avenue, to Marion Street, to Monroe, to Central and back to Baltimore Pike would apply.

Davis pointed out this plan, the only thing which could be worked out until the new summer schedule, would mean that the service for some of the people on the run, now hourly, would become every two hours.

Jaycees Oppose Inventory Tax Proposed Change

See Says Delegates Study Situation

A resolution requesting the Allegany County Board of Commissioners to rescind its unanimous action of February 18 in asking repeal of Chapter 592 of the 1953 Acts of the General Assembly has been adopted by the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce.

Chapter 592 exempts 40 per cent of merchandise inventories in the county from county taxation. This act removed approximately $8,700,000, previously taxed, from the county's assessable basis.

The Jaycee resolution, adopted at a general membership meeting Wednesday night in the Herman Room of the Queen City Brewing Company, also opposes any change in Chapter 18 of the 1953 Acts of the General Assembly. This act provides existing industries certain exemptions for expansion of their existing facilities. The Jaycees point out that such exemptions are necessary in order to attract this expansion, which in turn provides more income and more jobs to the entire area.

Delegation Studies

Del. Charles M. See, chairman, said the Allegany County Delegation has been studying proposals to repeal the retroactive feature of the 1953 industrial expansion tax exemption bill and another 1953 bill which gave businesses a 40 per cent exemption on their inventories in Allegany County.

He said the delegates have "arrived at a decision" on the retroactive issue, but declined to reveal what has been decided.

Del. See said the delegates have as yet reached no formal decision on the inventory tax.

He stressed that "nobody has ever suggested that the 1951 law which provides a 10-year tax exemption for new plants" be repealed or amended.

"Deprives Industry"

"The repeal or amendment of either one or both of these acts deprives industry and business of this area certain tax equalities which should be continued," the Jaycee resolution adds. "To make any change may establish a precedent that would operate toward creating an attitude of bad faith and hostility toward business and industry.

"In the creation of such bad faith and hostility, the net effect to the community would be to decrease the job opportunities in the county. It is an established fact that business and industry cannot expand or even maintain a status quo in an area where the taxing authorities' attitude is subject to changing conditions which reacts to the net detriment of our economic growth as a community.

"The Junior Association of Commerce is vitally interested in the economic growth and expansion of the county and the corresponding increase in the available jobs which will follow such growth. Any tax legislation which detracts from such growth necessarily detracts from the county-wide employment and income possibilities. Therefore, this organization takes a strong position that no change should be made in either of the two aforementioned acts of the 1953 Maryland Legislature," the resolution concludes.

On February 17, the Civic Development Committee of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce released a special report on the Allegany County fiscal picture.

That committee, of which C. William Gilchrist was chairman, made a number of recommendations. However, it hesitated to recommend changes in these two acts, even though admitting that at least amendment appears desirable for both. The Chamber of Commerce committee expressed a belief that such amendments might create the impression that the Legislature or the county commissioners are hostile to industry. The committee does not believe that such is the case, that report said but "we cannot afford at this time to permit even the inference of such an attitude."

Sybert's Ruling

On March 10 State Senator Robert B. Kimble announced that Attorney General C. Ferdinand Sybert has ruled that both of these exemptions can be revoked under the power held by the General Assembly. Kimble previously said that he would introduce legislation repealing these exemptions if the attorney general ruled favorably.

Senator Kimble's idea is to remove from Chapter 18 the part that provided exemption for work done between June 1, 1951, and June 1, 1953. That expansion was virtually completed when the act was adopted by the General Assembly in 1953.

Chapter 18 has caused the county to eliminate some $6,500,500 in assessable property from the county's books. Of that total some $4,119,671 was done between June 1, 1951, and June 1, 1953.

Concerning Chapter 592, Sybert said that the 40 per cent exemption was a grant, not a contractual arrangement, and in removing it there would be no interference with the vested rights of taxpayers.

Mayor Will Attend Municipal Meeting

Mayor Roy W. Eves will represent Cumberland at a meeting of the executive council of the Maryland Municipal League in College Park Saturday. Business will include progress reports on legislation in which the League is vitally interested, he added.
